ESTIMATED 450 TO 1,200 KILLED, 1,000 HURT IN TEXAS CITY BLAST

Three Blazes Rage As Result Of Explosions

Compared To Bomb Destruction Scenes

HOUSTON, Tex., April 16 (AP) — A Chronicle reporter who flew over Texas City an hour after the blast said there were three different fires raging as a result of the blast.

He said one of these fires was along the water front, another along the Sante Fe Railroad, and the third just west of the Sante Fe Railroad fire in the refinery area.

He said the business district of Texas City was not afire nor was the residential area.

A Red Cross ambulance was parked within 1,000 feet of the fire. Fire trucks were racing up from the south, presumably Galveston.

The ship which is said to have started the fire could not be seen through the smoke.

Flying toward the blaze, the smoke could be seen from Ellington Field, approximately 30 miles away It reached 4,000 feet.

The scene was similar to bomb destruction scenes that occurred in Europe.

Ends Blown Out of Buildings

Buildings along the Santa Fe Railroad tracks had had the ends blown out. The sides were intact. Pieces of metal could be seen from the air lying at the foot of the building.

An industrial section close to the bay was afire with the biggest blaze. Smoke was pouring from tanks and buildings.

An elevator and two water towers were still standing alongside the tracks. The buildings for about 2,000 feet along the tracks were all burning.

The buildings seemed to be burned down, and fires were still blazing.

A refinery west of the tracks was also burning. Several oil tanks were blazing brightly. A few tanks were crumpled by the force of the blast.

The city's residential section did not seem to be touched.

One large building on the south side of town had its roof blown in.

"Bodies can be picked up by the dozen in the first area, but you cannot get into them," E. A. Boehler, Houston city policeman, said.

Mrs. John Andrews, chief nurse in charge of the first aid station at the Monsanto Chemical Corporation, said there had been "lots of dead" but that the smoke and fire kept rescuers away from the bodies and, consequently, it was impossible to get an accurate check on the number of casualties.

Mrs. Andrews was forced to flee her first aid station, wading in oil up to her knees, because of the fire. She went down into the heart of the city and opened another first aid station.

35 Trapped In Plant

A Chronicle reporter brushed against a Catholic priest, Father Bergs, who said he was from the east, visiting in Texas City.

"Were you in there giving last rites, Father?" the reporter asked thep riest.

"No, they are all dead down there," he said, pointing at the fire.

"I was a chaplain in the first war and I never saw anything like this," he commented.

The fires at the Monsanto plant were still raging this afternoon, hours after the blast, and the screams of some workers, still trapped in the plant, could be heard by the firefighters.

One Monsanto employe estimated that 35 men had been trapped in the plant, since Monsanto officials said there were some chemicals still under pressure there.

Bodies were tossed about like playing cards by the terrific explosion and most of the workers left

Senate To Vote Tuesday On Aid To Greeks, Turks

House Committee Approves Program

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — The Senate agreed tonight to vote at 4 p. m. (EST) next Tuesday on legislation to extend $400,000,000 worth of military and economic assistance to Greece and Turkey.

The decision was reached after the Senate had been held in session well into the night to speed action on the proposal.

Earlier in the day the House Foreign Affairs Committee approved the program 12 to 0.

Acting Majority Floor Leader Wherry, of Nebraska, first proposed that the Senate vote late Monday on the measure but, when Sen. Taylor (D-Idaho) objected, he modified the request.

Another Night Session Looms

The leadership had ordered the night session tonight, and possibly another tomorrow, in an avowed effort to obtain action before the weekend on the aid plan which President Truman submitted as an urgent measure on March 12.

Under Wherry's agreement, the final four hours of debate on Tuesday will be equally divided between advocates and opponents of the legislation urged by President Truman.

Taylor first objected to any proposal that a definite time be set, declaring that "public opinion is turning in favor" of a proposal that the entire relief matter be handed over to the United Nations.

"I want to take all the time we possibly can," Taylor said.

A score of amendments must be disposed of before final action is taken.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) held the floor during the dinner hour, after Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) had made a futile request for a short recess to eat.

Nocturnal Meetings "Washouts"

Sen Wherry (R-Neb) insisted that the original no-recess procedure be adherred to, despite this comment from Sen. Connally (D-Texas): "Night sessions are washouts as a rule and seldom of any benefit."

Not more than 50 persons were in the gallery during the early evening hours to hear Johnson urge adoption of his amendment which would make financial aid to Greece conditional on abolition of the existing monarchy.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee who has called for urgent speed, told his colleagues that the way to get along with Russia is to let her know that "there is a deadline of ideals beyond which we will not retreat."

Coal Production Climbs

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — The Coal Mines Administration estimated soft coal production at 91.5 per cent of normal today. The agency said 4,226 mines are operating and 335,092 miners are on the job.

PLANTS BURN AFTER BLAST—Blazing industrial plants throw off clouds of smoke following a chain of explosions in Texas City, Tex., yesterday. A terrific blast aboard a nitrate-loaded French freighter was followed by other explosions which wiped out the huge war-built plant of the Monsanto Chemical Company. Much of the city was destroyed or damaged. Estimates of the dead range from 1,200 down to 450 with more than 1,000 others injured. (Other explosion pictures on page 10)

Detonation In Nitrate-Laden Ship Starts Explosion Chain; Concussion Is Felt 150 Miles

Explosion Sidenotes

TEXAS CITY, April 16—(AP)—This is a city of flames, torn steel, and smoking rubble, a city where the dead are uncounted and the living are too dazed and weary to cry.

Tonight score of bodies of explosion and fire dead are stacked on benches and tables in a brick midtown garage and in the nearby high school gymnasium. Outside these places the people gather in silent, expressionless groups.

Dozens of embalmers are at work in the garage and there the slow process of identification goes on.

When identification and embalming are completed a body is wrapped in a rough brown blanket and a numbered ticket is wired to a toe.

An ambulance is then called out of the long line in front of the garage and the body is passed out on a stretcher and taken to the gymnasium.

A mile away black smoke from six roaring fires billows 5,000 feet into the air and drifts southward out over the gulf. A 50-acre area of devastation marks the scene where the twin explosions of a ship and a chemical works wrought the greatest tragedy this area has ever known.

Replica Of Bikini Blast

HOUSTON, Tex., April 16. (AP)—Descriptions of the blast which wrecked a large portion of Texas City today likening it to the atom bomb explosion at Bikini were borne out tonight by a picture of the actual explosion.

R. W. Frederick and J. W. Kuhne, Texas A. and I. students from Kingsville, Tex., were on a Galveston Bay ferry taking pictures of the burning ship. Their lens caught the ship as it blew up. The picture showed a virtual replica of the Bikini blast.

Priest On Mercy Mission Killed

GALVESTON, Tex., April 16—(AP)—Rev. William A. Roach, 38, gave his life in the Texas City disaster in attempting to reach the injured in the first blast and administer last rites.

Disregarding the warning of watchmen, the priest from St. Mary's Catholic Church in Texas City approached the docks where the injured were lying and was hurt fatally in the second explosion. His parked car was found later about 50 feet from the water.

Worst Blast In U. S. History

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The minimum estimate of dead in the Texas City Explosion — 450 — would make it the greatest blast disaster shown by American Red Cross records for the United States.

That figure, however, is exceeded by the estimated 1,200 to 1,500 killed when the French ship Mt. Blanc, loaded with TNT, blew up at Halifax, Nova Scotia, December 6, 1917. Some 2,500 were injured there.

Medical Supplies Rushed To Scene

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 16—(AP)—More than a ton of blood plasma and penicillin has been rushed to the scene of the Texas City disaster by Chicago and Southern liners, General Operations Manager J. A. Young announced today.

A flight from Indianapolis early this afternoon carried 1,300 pounds of plasma from the Lilly Pharmaceutical Company, Young said. A non-stop DC-4 was radioed down at Shreveport, La., and a third plane made a pickup at Evansville, Ind. The cargoes were flown to Houston, nearest large airport to Texas City.

Residents Flee City; Poison Gas Reported

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 17, —(Thursday)—(AP)—A 7,000-ton freighter, The High Flyer, loaded with 900 tons of ammonium nitrate, was burning fiercely early today at the explosion-torn Texas City docks.

Hundreds of rescue workers were menaced by the danger of a second explosion such as that which tore apart the French freighter Grandcamp early yesterday, killing hundreds of persons and injuring thousands.

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 16 (AP) — Giant explosions smashed the waterfront of this industrial Gulf port today, killing hundreds, injuring thousands, and tonight survivors fled the danger area under threats of fresh disaster.

Fire, which spread to the docks and industrial area after the French freighter Grandcamp blew up at its berth, drew close to an ammunition dump, a poison gas plant and a ship holding nitroglycerin.

Estimates of the dead ranged from 1,200 down to 450. Father M. A. Record, Houston, who with other priests probed the wreckage to administer the last sacrament to the dead, said:

"There are hundreds of bodies still to be found."

Many of the fatalities occurred on the waterfront after the nitrate-loaded Grandcamp, an American-built Liberty ship, exploded, killing all of its crew of about 40 men. Sightseers flocked to the docks, to be caught by following blasts which demolished the $19,000,000 war-built plant of the Monsanto Chemical Company.

Mayor J. C. Trahan said he knew of 300 dead. C. B. Finley, State Highway Commission official, said at Austin that officials at the scene had indicated the toll would reach 1,200. Houston Police Sergeant Wiley Whatley, at the disaster scene, estimated that the death total would be between 450 and 500.

Mayor Trahan, who wears a Purple Heart for buzz bomb wounds received in Belgium, said "no buzz bomb could ever compare with what happened here today. It is such a terrific tragedy that the people have not been abie to realize what happened."

The Houston Post's report from State Editor Elbert Turner said that residents were racing in all directions to get out of town ahead of the expected new blasts. Turner also said that chlorine gas had saturated the dock area and was feared to be moving toward the city's residential and business sections.

Much of the boom industrial city was destroyed or damaged by blast or fire. Property damage will run into millions of dollars.

Fires followed the blasts. Poisonous gas from exploding chemicals was reported to be filtering through the area.

The first blast rocked the surrounding region for 150 miles, inflicting heavy damage in Galveston.

Midwestern headquarters of the Red Cross at St. Louis reported that 500 bodies had been brought out of the explosion area late today and that more bodies were being found constantly.

"Rescue parties bringing out casualties from the blast area estimated that about one out of every three persons had been killed," Finley said, "which would indicate around 1,200 dead."

He referred to the dock area, where principal damage occurred and where there were some 3,500 persons at the time of the major blast.

Relief and rescue workers swarmed into the area from all directions. National Red Cross headquarters in Washington set aside $225,000 for re-

Boy Burned During Cowboy-Indian Game Has Legs Amputated

MALDEN, Mass., April 16 (AP) — Eleven-year-old Glenwood E. Brann, Jr., critically burned from toes to waist while tied to a post in a children's game of cowboys and Indians, has lost both legs by amputation.

Malden Hospital told of the operations today—after withholding the news a week until the birth of a daughter today to the boy's mother at Whiidden Memorial Hospital. The Branns now have three children.

The youngster was tied up by two companions to a cellar post. The "Indians" then decided to burn through his ropes with a hot poker.

The rope caught fire and ignited his clothing.

Marshall-Stalin Talk Breaks No Deadlocks

MOSCOW, April 16 (AP) — The Kremlin conference of United States Secretary of State Marshall and Prime Minister Stalin was understood today to have solved no deadlocks and the Foreign Ministers Council slated a double meeting on Austria tomorrow in an apparent drive to end the conference.

Although Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov told the council today that the Russians desired to complete and sign the Austrian treaty at this Moscow meeting, the four ministers tangled sharply and inconclusively when he demanded reparation from German coal.

In a swiftly-moving session today the ministers considered 15 of the Austrian treaty's 59 clauses, agreeing on a dozen of them and even settling some relatively minor disputes their deputies had been unable to patch up.

But Molotov's reparations demand for 12½ per cent of all German coal mined, with another 12½ per cent to be exported, was a reminder that he was not yielding on the all-important Soviet demand for heavy reparations.

It was understood that Stalin adopted a similar attitude last night when he and Marshall talked for an hour and 30 minutes in their close-

NLRB Asks Immediate Start Of Bargaining

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The government twice prodded John L. Lewis and private owners of the nation's soft coal mines today, urging them to settle their long-drawn dispute, and invited them to meet here April 29.

Government control of the mines, seized last May at the height of a 59-day strike, automatically ends on June 30.

Today brought these moves:

1. Coal Mines Administrator N. H. Collisson sent letters to Lewis and to the operators asking them to a face-to-face conference "to discuss the means by which a resumption of collective bargaining may most effectively and expeditiously be accomplished."

NLRB Calls For Bargaining

2. The National Labor Relations Board, in effect, urged both parties to start bargaining immediately so that the government might get rid of "a task which has become exceedingly burdensome."

Neither the operators nor Lewis' United Mine Workers union headquarters here had any immediate comment on the suggestions. Both indicated they would require time for consideration.

Along with his letter calling the April 29 peace parley, Collisson disclosed that he wrote a letter to Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) last month saying that repeated efforts to bring about a union-operators negotiating conference had been "fruitless."

The NLRB ruled that for purposes of collective bargaining the workers in the government-seized coal mines are still employes of the private owners—not of the government.

Companies' Petitions Dismissed

The board said pointedly that "genuine collective bargaining" could be going on right now.

The board dismissed petitions by

GEN. CHANG CHUN SUCCEEDS SOONG AS CHINA PREMIER

NANKING, April 16 (AP) — Gen. Chang Chun, who served on two committees seeking to end China's civil war and who advocates building up this republic by peaceful industrialization, today became its premier.

He succeeds T. V. Soong, who had taken a strong anti-Communist stand and who resigned March 1 under mounting criticism that his policies contributed to China's economic crisis early this year.

Chang, governor of Szechwan Province and a friend of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek since they were classmates at the Japanese Military Academy, presumably had been groomed for the premiership. He was reported in line for the post as much as 14 months ago when some factions declared Soong was partially responsible for blocking effectiveness of the government-Communist truce.

Chang was a member of Gen. George Marshall's committee of three that just had brought about a truce agreement. He was named also to a committee to effect a government army reorganization under the truce terms. The pact was quickly violated, however, and subsequent violations prevented its ever becoming effective.

As late as December, Chang had been named a peace emissary to Communist headquarters at Yenan as Chiang proposed new steps toward peace. The Communists, charging insincerity on the part of the government, declined to receive him. The government, intensifying the civil war, captured Yenan a few weeks ago.

House Beats Back Attempts To Ease Labor Legislation

Passage Of Measure Expected Late Today

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — The House today beat back three attempts to change major provisions of its general labor bill restricting strikes and union activities.

Driving on schedule toward passage of the bill, perhaps late tomorrow, the membership defeated:

1. A proposal to knock out the bill's ban on industry-wide bargaining. The vote was 161 to 71 on a standing count. The bill permits company-wide bargaining.

2. An amendment to outlaw the union shop. This was on a voice vote. The measure already contains a ban on closed shops under which only union members can be hired. A union shop permits a non-union man to be hired but he must join the union later.

Health Fund Ban Survives

3. An amendment to ease the bill's prohibition against employer contributions to health and welfare funds which a union controls. This was done 136 to 177 on a teller vote by which members march down the center aisle to be counted.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) vainly proposed an amendment to outlaw also the union ship, in which a non-union man can get a job but must join the union later.

By voting against his amendment, the House upheld a section of the bill permitting the union shop if a majority of employes vote for it and it is not prohibited by state law.

House Republican Leader Halleck, of Indiana, said the bill would leave the matter to "free agreement" between labor and management while outlawing "blackjacking" by a union.

Would "Execute Labor"

Rep. Madden (D-Ind.) shouted that the Hoffman amendment would "execute labor."

Rep. McCormack, House Democratic whip, denounced the pending labor bill as "anti-labor and anti-management" but Republican leaders said more than two thirds of the chamber will vote for it.

The Massachusetts Democrat took the floor to declare that "a desperate leadership invariably produces very harmful results, and that is what has happened in this bill." He accused the Republicans of "hasty" action.

GOP chieftains expected passage late tomorrow of the bill designed to restrict certain strikes and union practices and give individual workers a "bill of rights." They said an informal poll showed more than a two-thirds majority—the vote needed to offset a presidential veto.

"Russian-Haters"

BERLIN, April 16 (AP)—Armond D. Willis, en route home from his post as United States information officer in Russia, declared today that American Embassy officials in Moscow were "Russian-haters" who believed that "Americans and Russians can't get along together."

Holy Land Braces Itself For New Violence In Wake Of Executions

JERUSALEM, April 16 (AP) — British troops mounted double and triple guards tonight as the Holy Land braced itself for threatened reprisals for the predawn hangings of Dov Bela Gruner and three other members of the Jewish underground at Acre Prison.

Approximately 500,000 Jews — five-sixths of Palestine's Jewish population—were placed under virtual house arrest as a precaution against outbreaks of violence. The curfew measure was perhaps the most stringent ever imposed by the British in the Holy Land.

An official announcement said the curfew in Jerusalem would be lifted during daylight hours tomorrow, but would be reimposed at 6:30 p. m.

An atmosphere of sullen resentment cloaked Jewish communities, and British civilians were notified to move into special security areas established early this year.

Bomb Found In London

LONDON, April 16 (AP) — Tight precautions against the long-threatened wave of Palestine terrorism in the heart of London were taken tonight after the discovery of a home-made bomb in a branch of the Colonial Office and a telephone threat to blow up the War Office.

Military and civilian police conducted a busy search for the person—possibly a woman — who left the bomb in the Colonial Office with the mechanism set to explode at 1 a. m., about the time Dov Bela Gruner and three other other convicted terrorists were hanged in Palestine.

The fuse of the bomb had been burned, indicating that it was only by accident that a large part of four-story Dover House, 200 yards from the Prime Minister's residence, was not wrecked. Normally about 200 persons occupy the building.

Leader Of Striking Phone Workers Offers Little Hope For Settlement

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The leader of the striking telephone workers said tonight the country-wide tieup will continue until the Bell System "gives in or until the workers are starved into submission."

Joseph A. Beirne, 36-year-old president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent union with 39 striking affiliates, made the statement in an ABC broadcast.

Federal seizure of the industry appeared a dim prospect as President Truman maintained a hands-off policy. Administration officials said privately that seizure would be undertaken only as a last resort.

Beirne spoke in reply to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach who last night blasted both the union and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for turning down his arbitration plan for ending the strike.

The union head said Schwellenbach's proposal "was rejected because it contained no wage increase offer and because it contained a thoroughly unworkable arbitration proposal."

Beirne continued:

"There are at least two ways in which the telephone strike can be settled x x x one of these methods would be for the A. T. and T. Company to forget all about arbitration, to take the strings off the companies they control, let the local bargaining committees sit down with our local bargaining committee and work out a settlement.

"The other way would be for the A. T. and T. Company to sit down with the NFTW and work out a general agreement somewhat like they did last year. But the A. T. and T. has so far rejected both these very practical solutions. They have refused to take the strings off the companies and let them bargain and they have refused to meet with us.

Priest On Mercy Mission Killed

GALVESTON, Tex., April 16—(AP)—Rev. William A. Roach, 38, gave his life in the Texas City disaster in attempting to reach the injured in the first blast and administer last rites.

Disregarding the warning of watchmen, the priest from St. Mary's Catholic Church in Texas City approached the docks where the injured were lying and was hurt fatally in the second explosion. His parked car was found later about 50 feet from the water.

Worst Blast In U. S. History

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The minimum estimate of dead in the Texas City Explosion — 450 — would make it the greatest blast disaster shown by American Red Cross records for the United States.

That figure, however, is exceeded by the estimated 1,200 to 1,500 killed when the French ship Mt. Blanc, loaded with TNT, blew up at Halifax, Nova Scotia, December 6, 1917. Some 2,500 were injured there.

Medical Supplies Rushed To Scene

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 16—(AP)—More than a ton of blood plasma and penicillin has been rushed to the scene of the Texas City disaster by Chicago and Southern liners, General Operations Manager J. A. Young announced today.

A flight from Indianapolis early this afternoon carried 1,300 pounds of plasma from the Lilly Pharmaceutical Company, Young said. A non-stop DC-4 was radioed down at Shreveport, La., and a third plane made a pickup at Evansville, Ind. The cargoes were flown to Houston, nearest large airport to Texas City.

Residents Flee City; Poison Gas Reported

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 17, —(Thursday)—(AP)—A 7,000-ton freighter, The High Flyer, loaded with 900 tons of ammonium nitrate, was burning fiercely early today at the explosion-torn Texas City docks.

Hundreds of rescue workers were menaced by the danger of a second explosion such as that which tore apart the French freighter Grandcamp early yesterday, killing hundreds of persons and injuring thousands.

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 16 (AP) — Giant explosions smashed the waterfront of this industrial Gulf port today, killing hundreds, injuring thousands, and tonight survivors fled the danger area under threats of fresh disaster.

Fire, which spread to the docks and industrial area after the French freighter Grandcamp blew up at its berth, drew close to an ammunition dump, a poison gas plant and a ship holding nitroglycerin.

Estimates of the dead ranged from 1,200 down to 450. Father M. A. Record, Houston, who with other priests probed the wreckage to administer the last sacrament to the dead, said:

"There are hundreds of bodies still to be found."

Many of the fatalities occurred on the waterfront after the nitrate-loaded Grandcamp, an American-built Liberty ship, exploded, killing all of its crew of about 40 men. Sightseers flocked to the docks, to be caught by following blasts which demolished the $19,000,000 war-built plant of the Monsanto Chemical Company.

Mayor J. C. Trahan said he knew of 300 dead. C. B. Finley, State Highway Commission official, said at Austin that officials at the scene had indicated the toll would reach 1,200. Houston Police Sergeant Wiley Whatley, at the disaster scene, estimated that the death total would be between 450 and 500.

Mayor Trahan, who wears a Purple Heart for buzz bomb wounds received in Belgium, said "no buzz bomb could ever compare with what happened here today. It is such a terrific tragedy that the people have not been abie to realize what happened."

The Houston Post's report from State Editor Elbert Turner said that residents were racing in all directions to get out of town ahead of the expected new blasts. Turner also said that chlorine gas had saturated the dock area and was feared to be moving toward the city's residential and business sections.

Much of the boom industrial city was destroyed or damaged by blast or fire. Property damage will run into millions of dollars.

Fires followed the blasts. Poisonous gas from exploding chemicals was reported to be filtering through the area.

The first blast rocked the surrounding region for 150 miles, inflicting heavy damage in Galveston.

Midwestern headquarters of the Red Cross at St. Louis reported that 500 bodies had been brought out of the explosion area late today and that more bodies were being found constantly.

"Rescue parties bringing out casualties from the blast area estimated that about one out of every three persons had been killed," Finley said, "which would indicate around 1,200 dead."

He referred to the dock area, where principal damage occurred and where there were some 3,500 persons at the time of the major blast.

Relief and rescue workers swarmed into the area from all directions. National Red Cross headquarters in Washington set aside $225,000 for re-

Boy Burned During Cowboy-Indian Game Has Legs Amputated

MALDEN, Mass., April 16 (AP) — Eleven-year-old Glenwood E. Brann, Jr., critically burned from toes to waist while tied to a post in a children's game of cowboys and Indians, has lost both legs by amputation.

Malden Hospital told of the operations today—after withholding the news a week until the birth of a daughter today to the boy's mother at Whildden Memorial Hospital. The Branns now have three children.

The youngster was tied up by two companions to a cellar post. The "Indians" then decided to burn through his ropes with a hot poker.

The rope caught fire and ignited his clothing.

Marshall-Stalin Talk Breaks No Deadlocks

MOSCOW, April 16 (AP) — The Kremlin conference of United States Secretary of State Marshall and Prime Minister Stalin was understood today to have solved no deadlocks and the Foreign Ministers Council slated a double meeting on Austria tomorrow in an apparent drive to end the conference.

Although Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov told the council today that the Russians desired to complete and sign the Austrian treaty at this Moscow meeting, the four ministers tangled sharply and inconclusively when he demanded reparation from German coal.

In a swiftly-moving session today the ministers considered 15 of the Austrian treaty's 59 clauses, agreeing on a dozen of them and even settling some relatively minor disputes their deputies had been unable to patch up.

But Molotov's reparations demand for 12½ per cent of all German coal mined, with another 12½ per cent to be exported, was a reminder that he was not yielding on the all-important Soviet demand for heavy reparations.

It was understood that Stalin adopted a similar attitude last night when he and Marshall talked for an hour and 30 minutes in their close-

NLRB Asks Immediate Start Of Bargaining

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The government twice prodded John L. Lewis and private owners of the nation's soft coal mines today, urging them to settle their long-drawn dispute, and invited them to meet here April 29.

Government control of the mines, seized last May at the height of a 59-day strike, automatically ends on June 30.

Today brought these moves:

1. Coal Mines Administrator N. H. Collisson sent letters to Lewis and to the operators asking them to a face-to-face conference "to discuss the means by which a resumption of collective bargaining may most effectively and expeditiously be accomplished."

NLRB Calls For Bargaining

2. The National Labor Relations Board, in effect, urged both parties to start bargaining immediately so that the government might get rid of "a task which has become exceedingly burdensome."

Neither the operators nor Lewis' United Mine Workers union headquarters here had any immediate comment on the suggestions. Both indicated they would require time for consideration.

Along with his letter calling the April 29 peace parley, Collisson disclosed that he wrote a letter to Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) last month saying that repeated efforts to bring about a union-operators negotiating conference had been "fruitless."

The NLRB ruled that for purposes of collective bargaining the workers in the government-seized coal mines are still employes of the private owners—not of the government.

Companies' Petitions Dismissed

The board said pointedly that "genuine collective bargaining" could be going on right now.

GEN. CHANG CHUN SUCCEEDS SOONG AS CHINA PREMIER

NANKING, April 16 (AP) — Gen. Chang Chun, who served on two committees seeking to end China's civil war and who advocates building up this republic by peaceful industrialization, today became its premier.

He succeeds T. V. Soong, who had taken a strong anti-Communist stand and who resigned March 1 under mounting criticism that his policies contributed to China's economic crisis early this year.

Chang, governor of Szechwan Province and a friend of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek since they were classmates at the Japanese Military Academy, presumably had been groomed for the premiership. He was reported in line for the post as much as 14 months ago when some factions declared Soong was partially responsible for blocking effectiveness of the government-Communist truce.

Chang was a member of Gen. George Marshall's committee of three that just had brought about a truce agreement. He was named also to a committee to effect a government army reorganization under the truce terms. The pact was quickly violated, however, and subsequent violations prevented its ever becoming effective.

As late as December, Chang had been named a peace emissary to Communist headquarters at Yenan as Chiang proposed new steps toward peace. The Communists, charging insincerity on the part of the government, declined to receive him. The government, intensifying the civil war, captured Yenan a few weeks ago.

House Beats Back Attempts To Ease Labor Legislation

Passage Of Measure Expected Late Today

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — The House today beat back three attempts to change major provisions of its general labor bill restricting strikes and union activities.

Driving on schedule toward passage of the bill, perhaps late tomorrow, the membership defeated:

1. A proposal to knock out the bill's ban on industry-wide bargaining. The vote was 161 to 71 on a standing count. The bill permits company-wide bargaining.

2. An amendment to outlaw the union shop. This was on a voice vote. The measure already contains a ban on closed shops under which only union members can be hired. A union shop permits a non-union man to be hired but he must join the union later.

Health Fund Ban Survives

3. An amendment to ease the bill's prohibition against employer contributions to health and welfare funds which a union controls. This was done 136 to 177 on a teller vote by which members march down the center aisle to be counted.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) vainly proposed an amendment to outlaw also the union ship, in which a non-union man can get a job but must join the union later.

By voting against his amendment, the House upheld a section of the bill permitting the union shop if a majority of employes vote for it and it is not prohibited by state law.

House Republican Leader Halleck, of Indiana, said the bill would leave the matter to "free agreement" between labor and management while outlawing "blackjacking" by a union.

Would "Execute Labor"

Rep. Madden (D-Ind.) shouted that the Hoffman amendment would "execute labor."

Rep. McCormack, House Democratic whip, denounced the pending labor bill as "anti-labor and anti-management" but Republican leaders said more than two thirds of the chamber will vote for it.

The Massachusetts Democrat took the floor to declare that "a desperate leadership invariably produces very harmful results, and that is what has happened in this bill." He accused the Republicans of "hasty" action.

GOP chieftains expected passage late tomorrow of the bill designed to restrict certain strikes and union practices and give individual workers a "bill of rights." They said an informal poll showed more than a two-thirds majority—the vote needed to offset a presidential veto.

"Russian-Haters"

BERLIN, April 16 (AP)—Armond D. Willis, en route home from his post as United States information officer in Russia, declared today that American Embassy officials in Moscow were "Russian-haters" who believed that "Americans and Russians can't get along together."

Holy Land Braces Itself For New Violence In Wake Of Executions

JERUSALEM, April 16 (AP) — British troops mounted double and triple guards tonight as the Holy Land braced itself for threatened reprisals for the predawn hangings of Dov Bela Gruner and three other members of the Jewish underground at Acre Prison.

Approximately 500,000 Jews — five-sixths of Palestine's Jewish population—were placed under virtual house arrest as a precaution against outbreaks of violence. The curfew measure was perhaps the most stringent ever imposed by the British in the Holy Land.

An official announcement said the curfew in Jerusalem would be lifted during daylight hours tomorrow, but would be reimposed at 6:30 p. m.

An atmosphere of sullen resentment cloaked Jewish communities, and British civilians were notified to move into special security areas established early this year.

Bomb Found In London

LONDON, April 16 (AP) — Tight precautions against the long-threatened wave of Palestine terrorism in the heart of London were taken tonight after the discovery of a home-made bomb in a branch of the Colonial Office and a telephone threat to blow up the War Office.

Military and civilian police conducted a busy search for the person—possibly a woman — who left the bomb in the Colonial Office with the mechanism set to explode at 1 a. m., about the time Dov Bela Gruner and three other other convicted terrorists were hanged in Palestine.

The fuse of the bomb had been burned, indicating that it was only by accident that a large part of four-story Dover House, 200 yards from the Prime Minister's residence, was not wrecked. Normally about 200 persons occupy the building.

Leader Of Striking Phone Workers Offers Little Hope For Settlement

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—The leader of the striking telephone workers said tonight the country-wide tieup will continue until the Bell System "gives in or until the workers are starved into submission."

Joseph A. Beirne, 36-year-old president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent union with 39 striking affiliates, made the statement in an ABC broadcast.

Federal seizure of the industry appeared a dim prospect as President Truman maintained a hands-off policy. Administration officials said privately that seizure would be undertaken only as a last resort.

Beirne spoke in reply to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach who last night blasted both the union and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for turning down his arbitration plan for ending the strike.

The union head said Schwellenbach's proposal "was rejected because it contained no wage increase offer and because it contained a thoroughly unworkable arbitration proposal."

Beirne continued:

"There are at least two ways in which the telephone strike can be settled x x x one of these methods would be for the A. T. and T. Company to forget all about arbitration, to take the strings off the companies they control, let the local bargaining committees sit down with our local bargaining committee and work out a settlement.

"The other way would be for the A. T. and T. Company to sit down with the NFTW and work out a general agreement somewhat like they did last year. But the A. T. and T. has so far rejected both these very practical solutions. They have refused to take the strings off the companies and let them bargain and they have refused to meet with us.

Case Of The Young Man Who Destroyed His Own Happiness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A day or two ago I made the statement that the person who pursues happiness by letting impulse, rather than ideals, determine his behavior almost always comes out the loser; that, in the end, he usually finds that he has only succeeded in defeating his own ends.

And I promised to tell you about a letter which illustrates this point.

Here, except for a few sentences which the writer asked me not to print, is the letter, from a boy of 17.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"The romance between myself and a girl of my own age lasted six months. It was very passionate — too passionate — and I'm very sorry it happened. I think it is because of this that I lost my love for the girl. I have the greatest respect for her, please believe me, but I do not love her any more.

"Can you suggest any way that I may regain my love for her? I know she still loves me. I really want to love her again, as she is a wonderful girl."

Then, referring to a previous column of mine in which I advised: "Don't tease yourselves by petting," he says: "That statement cannot be over-emphasized, as this letter proves."

Now here you see a boy and girl who decided to discard standards of conduct in which they had undoubtedly been reared, in favor of self-indulgence. Of course they thought this would make for great happiness. Although the boy does not say so, they probably imagined themselves deeply in love and planned eventual marriage. That is the way most young people invariably justify themselves in entering such an affair.

And now see what came of that impulsive substitution of desires for ideals. Instead of bringing them lasting happiness, it wrecked such happiness as they already had. The boy lost his love for the girl, and, since she, he believes, still loves him, there is nothing but heartbreak ahead for her.

Had these two had sufficient character to hang on to their standards, they would still be happy in their original comradeship. And if it was, in fact, anything more than a temporary boy-and-girl enthusiasm, they might have gone on to that eventual marriage. As the thing stands now, whatever feeling they had for each other is likely to gradually peter out, until their friendship becomes a closed chapter of their lives which they would prefer to forget. Or, more sadly still, the girl, who continues to love the boy who has caused to love her, will presently resort to accusations and reproaches until the whole busines end in a violent climax of misery and bitterness that will leave permanent scars on both sides.

No matter how much this boy may wish, as he says, to regain his old feeling for the girl, it is hardly possible that he will be able to do so. For the real point is that what he felt for her was not love at all, but merely a strong physical attraction added to a measure of admiration and respect. And once the physical attraction had been satisfied, it burned itself out, leaving nothing of the emotion he mistook for love. That is why he is unable to "love her again," as he puts it; because he never actually loved her in the first place.

See what I meant when I said a couple of days ago that in throwing over self-control and self-respect one usually defeated one's own ends?

So hang on to those "old-fashioned" ideals, girls, if for no other reason than that the man who persuades you to discard them may be the very one who later discards you.

A Great Bunch —Those Ex-G.I.'s

Willie Wells and a bunch of the boys from our town went to Pound Ridge Saturday to a reunion of their old regiment.

There were about two hundred and fifty boys who came from miles around to a good old feast in Farmer Collins' barn. I expect they seemed a lot different to each other out of uniform. But they had a great time, spinning yarns, drinking beer, and talking over the old times in South Africa and Italy and the Aleutians.

I went over to cover the meeting for the Clarion, and one thing that sure impressed me was the good behavior of those boys—their preference for a moderate beverage like beer—their friendly spirit.

From where I sit, our ex-G.I.'s are making as good a showing in peacetime as they made during the war. And they're setting a mighty good example to the rest of us—in tolerance, and moderation, and good fellowship.

Garbage Contract Bids To Be Received Monday

William R. Rank and Emmett A. Dougherty have secured necessary papers prior to making bids for the contract to remove garbage and ashes in Cumberland, according to City Clerk Samuel E. Griminger. Bids will be received Monday by the Mayor and Council. Dougherty has handled collections for a number of years.

Two men, both members of the department, have indicated they desire to take the examination for assistant fire chief.

There are nine applicants for positions as firemen and three current eligibles have indicated they will take the examination again or will retain their present rating.

Six have taken out police papers and four present eligibles have also expressed an interest.

The Civil Service Commission examinations will be given April 29 at Fort Hill High School. The deadline for filing applications with the city clerk is next Wednesday.

Proposals To Improve City System Of Government

Citizens of Cumberland have had placed before them recommendations which call for changes—revolutionary in some respects—in their present system of government. It goes without saying that the results of this survey will be studied, with care, and discussed pro and con during the interim until the next session of the Maryland General Assembly convenes when the city could seek, and if it does, should receive, authority to make whatever type of change desired.

There is sufficient time between now and then for definite crystalization of thought and decision as to whether the present commission form of government should be discarded for something more urgent, or whether we should continue the custom of going to the Legislature every few years for authority to make changes to improve exisiting procedure in conducting the affairs of the city.

Being granted the right to make, among other things, charter changes, involves the question of Home Rule, suggested by Dr. Joseph M. Ray, head of the Department of Government and Politics, College of Business and Public Administration, of the University of Maryland. Such a step would take from the Legislature the power it now holds over the city. We believe the time has long passed when citizens of a city as large as Cumberland should be required to ask, and then accept whatever rights its State Senator and members of the county delegation in the House might see fit to give.

We agree with Dr. Ray's observation that the people of Cumberland are well capable of deciding for themselves what their charter should contain, and what changes they might want to make from time to time. The present method has outlived its purpose, and the citizens should find no hesitancy in seeking to remove power from those who can not possibly have a thorough realization as to what is best for this community, or what they might desire.

Dr. Ray's second suggestion—council-manager form of government—should be given studied thought. It might be more difficult for the people of Cumberland to come to a decision on this phase of city governing pending a clear understanding as to its advantages. It has worked successfully in many towns and cities throughout the country, and taxpayers and the people generally of those communities have been benefitted immeasurably.

One alternative recommended over our present system, should the council-city manager method not be accepted, is that of increasing the powers of mayor. Dr. Ray holds it important that that be done in order to assure the citizens a more competent and progressive regime from year to year.

It probably had not been realized by a vast number of citizens, but under our commission form of government the mayor is, as Dr. Ray points out, "Completely hamstrung," in that he has no authority over councilmen elected with him, except to offer counsel and to preside over council meetings. The commissioners operate their respective departments without a central executive director, and it is such a situation Dr. Ray recommends be corrected.

In the event it would be decided by the citizens to forego the council-city manager plan, and seek greater authority for mayors, many things would have to be taken into consideration. It would, for instance, be necessary for an executive with powers to direct the various departments of the city government to give his entire time to city matters, because only by so doing could he be in a position to direct the various activities with any semblance of efficiency. A full time mayor with such responsibilities should be paid sufficient salary to attract the most capable men to the position—men who could get things done with the least cost to those who must pay the bills.

The above recommendations are only part, but major segments of the proposals Dr. Ray made. They have for their purpose more efficient and progressive administrations. His survey was an exhaustive one, covering several months of study. What he has found lacking in our governmental system will, undoubtedly, open the eyes of our citizens. But the recommendations provide a direct approach to our problems and methods of correcting them.

They should receive the most minute study and consideration by not only business and civic leaders of our city, but by every citizen, with a single thought in mind—to bring about a better system of government in the shortest time possible.

GM-Electrical Workers' Pact Provides Example For Others

Announcement that General Motors and the CIO Electrical Workers' Union have made a new wage agreement, providing raises of 15 cents an hour for more than 30,000 employes, is good news. Some observers think this agreement could set a pattern for ending the telephone strike and adjusting pending wage disputes in the steel, auto, electrical goods and other big industries.

As to that, we don't know. We are sure, though, that General Motors and its electrical workers have acted wisely. Both sides would have lost more in a long fight than they yielded in order to get together. And they have provided a fine example for other employers and other unions.

Their agreement, says a joint statement, recognizes increased living costs and the necessity for maintaining continued, maximum production, and "was arrived at through direct collective bargaining."

It is good to see a large union and a large corporation do a little bragging about success in making collective bargaining work. That, after all, is what can give this country industrial peace with justice. Good laws can help, and bad laws can hinder, but no law can ever be a satisfactory substitute for the process of genuine, good-faith bargaining.

Whatever new labor legislation reaches the Federal statute books as a result of debates now beginning in Congress will be judged finally by this simple test: Does it help make collective bargaining work better? Congress should pray for wisdom to enact legislation that can meet that test successfully.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE RIDDLE OF AGEING

MORE persons are attaining longevity today than ever before. It is estimated that by 1980, 15 per cent of our total population will be over 65 years. Physicians, aware of the trend, are putting forth every effort to make the increased span healthier and happier for those fortunate enough to reach the higher age brackets.

If we could only delay the ageing process, added vigor could be given to our elderly people. This is the problem as it stands today and I do not believe that any one knows for certain why we grow old and how it could be prevented. There are theories—dozens of them—but men and women are still developing hardening of the arteries and losing their former zip as the birthdays pass in review.

Some individuals are likely to accept any idea that sounds plausible or strikes their fancy. Food faddists insist that if we only ate correctly of the right variety of edibles, there would be no limit to our years. The same can be said of the vitamin enthusiast and those who contend that the glands are drying up or the connective tissue is giving out. Too much or too little tobacco, alcohol, or coffee have also been blamed. Your guess is as good as mine and perhaps the answer does lie in one of these conjectures. But, as of this minute, actual proof is lacking and we cannot rely upon what happens to one man here and another there.

Furthermore, it is difficult to say whether ageing is a disease or a normal phenomenon of nature. We all start growing older the minute we are born but definite indications do not appear until middle life. This is an individual affair as the alterations appear sooner in some than in others. In addition, there is a variation in degrees. Barring illness, heredity seems to play a role as family trends cannot be overlooked.

The cells in our body are undergoing transformations constantly. Many are replaced thousands of times; others, hundreds; and some, not at all. The tissues which live the longest are affected ultimately by changes, probably of a chemical nature, which decrease their efficiency. The structures are damaged permanently by deposits of pigment, fatty substances, and other products, leading to degeneration. The heart muscle suffers and so do the blood vessels, the latter becoming hardened thru the accumulation of fibrous tissue and calcium. In so doing, the channels are narrowed and allow less circulation to reach its destination. This in turn impairs the nutrition to various organs, reducing their ability to function.

The connective tissue is affected also; the elasticity of the skin, blood vessels, and urinary bladder and other hollow organs is lessened. The glands secrete less and the joints creak. Eventually, like the one-hoss shay, deterioration is generalized. The damage cannot be repaired nor can new tissue take the place of the old.

Since the entire process is a mystery, more can be gained by adhering rigidly to the rules of health. This means eating sensibly, avoiding infection, and obtaining adequate rest and relaxation. In other words, "The old gray mare ain't what she used to be." When changes are detected, the involved structures must be treated gingerly and not abused. Thus, life will be prolonged.

TRUTH SERUM

F. S. writes: A friend told me of a truth serum which makes a person unable to hold back the truth when being questioned. Is there really such a scientific discovery?

REPLY

In the strict sense, no serum or medicine will make a person tell what he does not wish to disclose. There are, however, many preparations that lower the inhibitions so that when questioned, the individual is not afraid to tell the truth. In detective work, certain sedatives are usually employed. Alcohol can be considered a truth serum because it has a tendency to "loosen the tongue." Many a secret has been let over a few cocktails which otherwise would have been retained.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The British motion picture industry has invited me to hand out its Oscars this summer.

Of course they didn't call them Oscars over there. They are referred to as "Reginalds" and are statuettes of a man dressed in white tie and tails squeezing a tea bag.

I realize the British didn't invite me because of my acting ability. I guess they just wanted an MC who was used to working in a fog.

It is bound to be a very ritzy affair because so many of the British stars have titles. I understand that before Sir Cedric Hardwicke does a love scene, his valet comes out and adjusts his pucker.

In England the king knights an actor by tapping him with a sword. In Hollywood a performer is a big success when "Prince" Mike Romanoff brushes the hard roll crumbs off his shoulders.

I am told the writing award is going to a guy named Shakespeare for a picture called "Henry V." A few of the studios over here wanted to sign him up until they found he was under contract to Pearly Gate Productions.

I don't know yet whether I will be able to make the event or not, but I am busy working on my accent, just in case. For the last three months I have been filtering all my conversations through a soggy crumpet. In fact, I have been preparing so long that Ronald Colman now refers to me as "the early George Apley."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 16—For the first time since he took over the Speakership reins, Joe Martin faces a serious revolt in House Republican ranks. The details have been hushed up, but GOP Congressmen from 17 western states are really up in arms over heavy slashes the House Appropriations Committee is planning for irrigation and reclamation. The battle illustrates the tough time Republicans are having in achieving their promised budget-pruning.

Stung by reaction from home, western spokesmen laid down the following ultimatum in a secret meeting with Martin and House Majority Leader Charles Halleck: If Appropriations Chairman John Taber and Rep. Robert Jones of Ohio carry out their ax-wielding plans, then western Republicans will bolt the party and vote with Democrats to restore the reclamation cut on the House floor.

Since Speaker Martin so far has kept his ranks working tightly together, this ultimatum is considered significant.

Rep. John Phillips of California opened up the battle by inquiring of Martin and Halleck if it was "too much to ask the leadership to announce a Republican position on irrigation and reclamation."

Before the two leaders could reply, economy-minded Taber and Jones jumped to their feet, asserting that it was strictly up to the Appropriations Committee to decide the size of the Interior Department's budget for irrigation and reclamation.

Rugged Representative Lowell Stockman of Oregon, a member of Jones' subcommittee which handles the Interior budget, bluntly served notice that if the Appropriations Committee had the last word, then he would refuse to "go along" with the rest of the committee.

"I shall oppose any drastic cut in the lifeblood of these western states, regardless of the position of either the subcommittee, to which I belong, or the full Appropriations Committee," Stockman announced heatedly.

Teddy Roosevelt and Reclamation

The Oregon Republican and other western colleagues then pointed out that the reclamation and irrigation program had been fathered by the Republican party in the days of President Teddy Roosevelt and it should be continued, they contended, for historical as well as practical, economic reasons.

"If drastic cuts are made, as now planned, the party will be weakened in the 17 states involved," warned Rep. William S. Hill of Colorado. "Such action is certain to produce a devasting effect on the party in those areas."

Phillips, Stockman, Hill and their cohorts insisted that they were Republicans in "spirit as well as fact" and that they were willing to go along with Republican plans to balance the budget, but not at the expense of undermining the economy of reclamation areas.

Economizers Taber and Jones staged a jumping-jack act during the tense meeting, popping up to heckle speakers.

Jones charged that the Interior Department was interrelating the irrigation and reclamation program with too much "public power and socialization philosophy." As a result, it was the Interior Department, not the Appropriations Committee, he said, which had placed irrigation and reclamation in jeopardy. His committee was determined to reduce sharply Interior's funds for public power development.

Taber also harped on the power issue, as related to irrigation and reclamation.

"There has been only one major dam built in this nation on a solid, self-supporting financial basis," exclaimed the New Yorker. "That was Boulder Dam, a Republican project. The remainder of these New Deal dams and hydroelectric power projects all depend on Federal, taxpayer subsidies to keep them going.

Joe Martin On Powder Keg

Leaders Martin and Halleck said little during the tempestuous meeting. Both knew that they were sitting on a powder keg that might split House GOP ranks wide open, and they didn't want to apply any vocal fuses until they had a chance to talk to the revolters individually. However, there was little question that they supported Taber and Jones.

At one point Martin reminded westerners that all sections of the country must take their "rightful share" of any cuts in over-all Federal spending.

"That is correct," agreed Halleck of Indiana. "No part of the country can escape its rightful share in the responsibility for balancing the budget."

After this Rep. Charles Robertson of North Dakota, a strong reclamation enthusiast, oiled the waters somewhat by declaring that he and others had come to the meeting "in a spirit of friendship and with the desire that our problems in the west will be considered in the same light."

"I don't think it is the purpose of anyone here to do anything that would jeopardize the future welfare of the party," he added.

However, despite this conciliatory gesture, most of the westerners left the meeting determined to make a party fight of the reclamation issue—in the open, if necessary.

Auto-Worm Turns

A year ago the auto industry was predicting the failure of Henry Kaiser's daring automobile venture.

However, Kaiser, who has long been pumping fresh blood into American industry, has slowly been licking the crises. And last week he had an amazing experience.

The heads of three other auto companies—Studebaker, Nash and Packard—came to Kaiser, asked him for help in cracking some of their own bottlenecks the way Kaiser had beaten his. So Kaiser, the man whose failure was predicted by his competitors, is now loaning some of his key men to help those competitors with their own headaches.

GOP To Re-Cast Laws Covering Major Aspects National Life

By MARK SULLIVAN

This week the American people will see, for the first time in 17 years, what the Republican party will do when it has political responsibility. On Monday the House Labor Committee laid before the House the labor bill it has drafted, which is a complete rewriting of the labor laws of the country. The bill is now being debated by the House, and will probably be voted upon on Friday. It is the overwhelming opinion of Congressmen and of Washington observers that the bill will be passed in essentially the same form as reported by the Labor Committee. Substantially all Republicans will vote for it; in a caucus of House Republicans, not one spoke against it. Many Democrats also will vote for it, perhaps not far from half the party's strength.

The Republicans thus take responsibility for re-casting the laws covering a major aspect of our national life, and reacting vitally into literally every aspect. It is a momentous thing.

The principal labor statute now on the books, the Wagner National Labor Relations Act, was passed 14 years ago. It stands today as written, it has never been amended. During these 14 years, many complaints against the law have been made, many injustices in it recognized. The defects in it, and in the interpretation and administration of it, have been recognized by the party that was in power during most of the period. Again and again, a House having a Democratic majority has passed by overwhelming votes measures changing the existing labor laws. These attempts were frustrated, largely by opposition on the part of President Roosevelt.

Republican Purpose Stated

What the Republicans are now doing is to review the 14 years of experience with the Wagner Act, taking account of the proved defects in it and rewrite it. The Republican purpose was stated vividly and confactly by Republican Representative Frederick C. Smith of Ohio. He began by citing the virtues which the Wagner Act claimed for itself in its preamble, and which supporters of it put forward when it was passed. Then Congressman Smith matches these claimed virtues and anticipatory hopes with the facts of experience:

"Instead of lessening and mitigating industrial strife and unrest, it has increasingly produced these evils. Instead of creating friendly relations between employers and employees, it has incited workmen to dislike and harrass their employers, to a point where strained relations between these groups have become chronic in a large segment of industry. Instead of reducing industrial disputes and strikes, it has greatly increased and made them pandemic. . . Instead of safeguarding commerce from injury, impairment, and interruption, it has so endangered commerce as to enormously interfere with its free flow."

That indictment of the Wagner Act by Congressman Smith deals only with the effects of the act within the field of industry and its relation with labor. An indictment equally strong could be made by citing the assertions of power by labor leaders which have gone the length of challenging the power of government itself. Yet another indictment could cite the hardships which the Wagner Act and its effects have worked upon the public as a whole, the discontent which caused the country to make last November's election a mandate for change.

As Comprehensive As Mandate

The House bill is as comprehensive as the mandate of the November election called for. It deals item by item with some 20 major aspects of labor unions about which complaint has been made. These include the closed shop, jurisdictional strikes, mass picketing, sympathetic strikes, illegal boycotts, strikes that affect the public health or other public interest, industry-wide bargaining. For each of these and others the bill attempts remedy, in some cases prohibition, in others partial check.

One provision illustrates at once the discrimination the bill practices and its farreaching scope. It forbids the "closed shop," but makes a distinction between that and the "union shop." As to the latter, the bill confers power on the several states to deal with the union shop as they may wish. In order to assure this power to the states, the bill at this point becomes in effect a bill dealing with states' rights. It uses language carefully chosen not to give the Supreme Court occasion for invalidating a law of a state on this point. The union shop, in addition to being subject to federal law, "shall be subject to. . . State laws. . . . as well."

Nation To See Series Of Strikes If Truman Vetoes Labor Laws

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 16 — The House of Representatives has heretofore passed just as drastic legislation restricting the activities of labor unions as is called for in the pending bill, but the public seems to have forgotten all about it because the labor-union lobby smothered such legislation in the Senate committee on labor.

Representative Howard Smith of Virginia, Democrat, has led the fight for a fair deal for employer and unions under the National Labor Relations Act, but every time he succeeded in getting a majority of the House, he was checkmated by the unions and the New Dealers who controlled the Senate. All the bills died there.

The Case bill* vetoed last year by President Truman was the first piece of legislative reform affecting labor unions to reach the White House since the Wagner Act was passed in 1935 and now the labor union lobby is trying hard to defeat all legislation again by a presidential veto.

The news that President Truman has really agreed to the arguments of the labor lobby and will veto the bill has resulted in a strengthening of the determination of the Republicans to present him with one bill. Until Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach's testimony on Capitol Hill, which indicated that President Truman had already reached a decision to play along with labor and veto the bill, there was some prospect that a series of bills might be passed and that all the reforms would not be lumped in one measure.

Truman Faced Strategy Change

The argument for separate measures was that Mr. Truman could sign one or two bills and veto others and that some legislation would be enacted anyway. But as soon as the "left wing" press indicated that President Truman was going to veto any or all legislation anyhow and renew his plea for a joint committee to give further study to the labor problem, the strategy of the Republicans changed.

Now the plan is to write the kind of bill the majority in both Houses want to see passed. In the House a large number of Democrats will vote for the legislation. In the Senate a substantial number of Democrats will also vote for the measure. It is probable that the Senate bill will be a softer measure than the House bill, from the viewpoint of labor unions, but in joint conference the House will insist on its major provisions.

When the bill goes to the White House with an all-or-none problem for the President to decide, a veto will mean the end of labor legislation for the present session. Congress is expected to adjourn by July 1st under the new reorganization law's advice. It will probably be June before the labor bill reaches the President for consideration, and if he vetoes the measure it is not likely to be passed over his veto. There is a two-thirds vote in the House to override a veto, but not in the Senate. At such a late stage of the session, it will not be practical to start all over again and enact separate bills. The chances are Congress will adjourn without any legislation on either the strike problem or on the employer-employee relationship.

Means Series Of Strikes

This means that the country will be subjected to a series of strikes and more labor-management trouble in the second half of 1947 than in the first six months. It also means that appropriations for the labor board and the conciliation service will have harder sledding, because the appropriations require only a majority vote of both Houses. If a tug of war ensues between the President, who uses his veto power to kill labor legislation, and the Congress, which uses the power of the appropriation bill to answer back, the country will suffer from the stalemate and the issue will be carried into the 1948 campaign.

It begins to look now as if the 1948 contest will be the battle of the century, with President Truman lining up on the left-wing and pro-labor side and the Republicans arguing for some form of restriction on labor-union monopolies. Incidentally, the President may be faced with an even more restrictive bill regulating labor unions early in the 1948 session than he will have before him this year. More labor strife in the Autumn will be stir up demands for action in the 1948 session of congress.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

THIS is beginning to look like a good fight. It started this way: For several years, George Seldes has been publishing a weekly two-by-four entitled "In Fact" in which he smears everybody who disagrees with Stalin. The more one disagrees, the more often he is called a Fascist, a servant of the N. A. M. and a votary of the Hearst-McCormick-Patterson Axis.

Eugene Lyons in the magazine "Plain Talk," a most courageous and ingenious publication, produced the history of George Seldes and "In Fact" under the tile, "Red Mouthpiece."

Lyons shows that when Seldes worked for Colonel McCormick's "Chicago Tribune," he was anti-Communist. He quotes him them as saying:

"Believe me, if Bolshevism ever comes to America, nothing would please me more than a nice corner post on a roof overlooking two main streets and a nice large machine gun with unlimited belts of ammunition. . ."

But times have changed and so have George Seldes' tastes. He has since become a personage in the following "front" organizations:

"American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born, American Friends of Spanish Democracy, Conference for Constitutional Liberties in America, Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, Friends of the Soviet Union, International Labor Defense, International Workers Order, League of American Writers, National Committee for People's Rights, Non-Partisan Committee for the Re-Election of Congressman Vito Marcantonio, Citizens Committee for Harry Bridges."

And, of course, he publishes and edits "In Fact." Lyons quotes an article by Ruth McKenney in "New Masses" for May 31, 1938:

"The (Communist) Party has a hand in the publication of assorted other magazines of various types and kinds. Some of the magazines the Party itself publishes. . . . Many others the Party helps edit. . ."

Ruth McKenney used to be a top-notcher in the American Communist Party but was recently expelled along with her husband, who calls himself Bruce Minton and once helped George Seldes edit "In Fact." Mrs. William Browder, Earl Browder's sister-in-law, under the name of Rose Euler, was business manager of "In Fact."

Now, I cannot get so terribly excited about a Communist advocating Communism. That is his privilege. The point at issue is that George Seldes denies the allegation. He insists that neither he nor "In Fact" is Communistic. They are progressive. They are liberal. They follow every twist and turn of the Communist party line, but all that is coincidental and is unrelated to anyone or anything living or dead.

Seldes' point is that he publishes "In Fact" to provide news which the regular daily press is afraid to handle. Of course, he does not say that many of his items would send financially responsible newspapers into the courts for libel.

The publication appeared in the Spring of 1940 to keep the United States out of "the imperialistic war"—that is the one against Hitler "War hysteria is sweeping the land," said he. And he opposed conscription because: It encourages the British to continue the fight against Germany. 2. It makes possible U. S. seizure of the disintegrating British Empire, if Germany defeats England." But on June 22, 1941, after the abrogation of the Hitler-Stalin Alliance, Seldes went to war, as did Earl Browder and the American Communist Party.

Now that does not, by legal definition, prove that a man is a Communist, but it does show that he can do some very swift twisting when it is necessary. And that is what the Congressional Un-American Activities Committee ought to investigate. Seldes ought to have his day before the Thomas Committee, to face Eugene Lyons, Isaac Don Levine, Editor of "Plain Talk," and his old friend, Louis F. Budenz, who says:

"I can state that Seldes was one of those men without an open Communist label who was regarded by the Communist leadership as one who would always act in accordance with their wishes. . ."

Seldes ought to have a chance to prove that they are all wrong, that there is no camouflaged press in the United States, no Fifth Column, no smear-machine, no organized effort to destroy every American by slander who opposes Stalin. George Seldes should go before the Thomas Committee to demand that his opponents confront him with the facts. What is Representative Thomas waiting for?

Proposals To Improve City System Of Government

Citizens of Cumberland have had placed before them recommendations which call for changes—revolutionary in some respects—in their present system of government. It goes without saying that the results of this survey will be studied, with care, and discussed pro and con during the interim until the next session of the Maryland General Assembly convenes when the city could seek, and if it does, should receive, authority to make whatever type of change desired.

There is sufficient time between now and then for definite crystalization of thought and decision as to whether the present commission form of government should be discarded for something more urgent, or whether we should continue the custom of going to the Legislature every few years for authority to make changes to improve exisiting procedure in conducting the affairs of the city.

Being granted the right to make, among other things, charter changes, involves the question of Home Rule, suggested by Dr. Joseph M. Ray, head of the Department of Government and Politics, College of Business and Public Administration, of the University of Maryland. Such a step would take from the Legislature the power it now holds over the city. We believe the time has long passed when citizens of a city as large as Cumberland should be required to ask, and then accept whatever rights its State Senator and members of the county delegation in the House might see fit to give.

We agree with Dr. Ray's observation that the people of Cumberland are well capable of deciding for themselves what their charter should contain, and what changes they might want to make from time to time. The present method has outlived its purpose, and the citizens should find no hesitancy in seeking to remove power from those who can not possibly have a thorough realization as to what is best for this community, or what they might desire.

Dr. Ray's second suggestion—council-manager form of government—should be given studied thought. It might be more difficult for the people of Cumberland to come to a decision on this phase of city governing pending a clear understanding as to its advantages. It has worked successfully in many towns and cities throughout the country, and taxpayers and the people generally of those communities have been benefitted immeasurably.

One alternative recommended over our present system, should the council-city manager method not be accepted, is that of increasing the powers of mayor. Dr. Ray holds it important that that be done in order to assure the citizens a more competent and progressive regime from year to year.

It probably had not been realized by a vast number of citizens, but under our commission form of government the mayor is, as Dr. Ray points out, "Completely hamstrung," in that he has no authority over councilmen elected with him, except to offer counsel and to preside over council meetings. The commissioners operate their respective departments without a central executive director, and it is such a situation Dr. Ray recommends be corrected.

In the event it would be decided by the citizens to forego the council-city manager plan, and seek greater authority for mayors, many things would have to be taken into consideration, It would, for instance, be necessary for an executive with powers to direct the various departments of the city government to give his entire time to city matters, because only by so doing could he be in a position to direct the various activities with any semblance of efficiency. A full time mayor with such responsibilities should be paid sufficient salary to attract the most capable men to the position—men who could get things done with the least cost to those who must pay the bills.

The above recommendations are only part, but major segments of the proposals Dr. Ray made. They have for their purpose more efficient and progressive administrations. His survey was an exhaustive one, covering several months of study. What he has found lacking in our governmental system will, undoubtedly, open the eyes of our citizens. But the recommendations provide a direct approach to our problems and methods of correcting them.

They should receive the most minute study and consideration by not only business and civic leaders of our city, but by every citizen, with a single thought in mind—to bring about a better system of government in the shortest time possible.

Annual game of knocking down the price of wheat by forecasting a bumper crop in Kansas hasn't been working so well this year.

GM-Electrical Workers' Pact Provides Example For Others

Announcement that General Motors and the CIO Electrical Workers' Union have made a new wage agreement, providing raises of 15 cents an hour for more than 30,000 employes, is good news. Some observers think this agreement could set a pattern for ending the telephone strike and adjusting pending wage disputes in the steel, auto, electrical goods and other big industries.

As to that, we don't know. We are sure, though, that General Motors and its electrical workers have acted wisely. Both sides would have lost more in a long fight than they yielded in order to get together. And they have provided a fine example for other employers and other unions.

Their agreement, says a joint statement, recognizes increased living costs and the necessity for maintaining continued, maximum production, and "was arrived at through direct collective bargaining."

It is good to see a large union and a large corporation do a little bragging about success in making collective bargaining work. That, after all, is what can give this country industrial peace with justice. Good laws can help, and bad laws can hinder, but no law can ever be a satisfactory substitute for the process of genuine, good-faith bargaining.

Whatever new labor legislation reaches the Federal statute books as a result of debates now beginning in Congress will be judged finally by this simple test: Does it help make collective bargaining work better? Congress should pray for wisdom to enact legislation that can meet that test successfully.

Now that spring is here at last, the man who is tired the year round has an alibi.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE RIDDLE OF AGEING

MORE persons are attaining longevity today than ever before. It is estimated that by 1980, 15 per cent of our total population will be over 65 years. Physicians, aware of the trend, are putting forth every effort to make the increased span healthier and happier for those fortunate enough to reach the higher age brackets.

If we could only delay the ageing process, added vigor could be given to our elderly people. This is the problem as it stands today and I do not believe that any one knows for certain why we grow old and how it could be prevented. There are theories—dozens of them—but men and women are still developing hardening of the arteries and losing their former zip as the birthdays pass in review.

Some individuals are likely to accept any idea that sounds plausible or strikes their fancy. Food faddists insist that if we only ate correctly of the right variety of edibles, there would be no limit to our years. The same can be said of the vitamin enthusiast and those who contend that the glands are drying up or the connective tissue is giving out. Too much or too little tobacco, alcohol, or coffee have also been blamed. Your guess is as good as mine and perhaps the answer does lie in one of these conjectures. But, as of this minute, actual proof is lacking and we cannot rely upon what happens to one man here and another there.

Furthermore, it is difficult to say whether ageing is a disease or a normal phenomenon of nature. We all start growing older the minute we are born but definite indications do not appear until middle life. This is an individual affair as the alterations appear sooner in some than in others. In addition, there is a variation in degrees. Barring illness, heredity seems to play a role as family trends cannot be overlooked.

The cells in our body are undergoing transformations constantly. Many are replaced thousands of times; others, hundreds; and some, not at all. The tissues which live the longest are affected ultimately by changes, probably of a chemical nature, which decrease their efficiency. The structures are damaged permanently by deposits of pigment, fatty substances, and other products, leading to degeneration. The heart muscle suffers and so do the blood vessels, the latter becoming hardened thru the accumulation of fibrous tissue and calcium. In so doing, the channels are narrowed and allow less circulation to reach its destination. This in turn impairs the nutrition to various organs, reducing their ability to function.

The connective tissue is affected also; the elasticity of the skin, blood vessels, and urinary bladder and other hollow organs is lessened. The glands secrete less and the joints creak. Eventually, like the one-hoss shay, deterioration is generalized. The damage cannot be repaired nor can new tissue take the place of the old.

Since the entire process is a mystery, more can be gained by adhering rigidly to the rules of health. This means eating sensibly, avoiding infection, and obtaining adequate rest and relaxation. In other words, "The old gray mare ain't what she used to be." When changes are detected, the involved structures must be treated gingerly and not abused. Thus, life will be prolonged.

TRUTH SERUM

F. S. writes: A friend told me of a truth serum which makes a person unable to hold back the truth when being questioned. Is there really such a scientific discovery?

REPLY

In the strict sense, no serum or medicine will make a person tell what he does not wish to disclose. There are, however, many preparations that lower the inhibitions so that when questioned, the individual is not afraid to tell the truth. In detective work, certain sedatives are usually employed. Alcohol can be considered a truth serum because it has a tendency to "loosen the tongue." Many a secret has been let over a few cocktails which otherwise would have been retained.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The British motion picture industry has invited me to hand out its Oscars this summer.

Of course they didn't call them Oscars over there. They are referred to as "Reginalds" and are statuettes of a man dressed in white tie and tails squeezing a tea bag.

I realize the British didn't invite me because of my acting ability. I guess they just wanted an MC who was used to working in a fog.

It is bound to be a very ritzy affair because so many of the British stars have titles, I understand that before Sir Cedric Hardwicke does a love scene, his valet comes out and adjusts his pucker.

In England the king knights an actor by tapping him with a sword. In Hollywood a performer is a big success when "Prince" Mike Romanoff brushes the hard roll crumbs off his shoulders.

I am told the writing award is going to a guy named Shakespeare for a picture called "Henry V." A few of the studios over here wanted to sign him up until they found he was under contract to Pearly Gate Productions.

I don't know yet whether I will be able to make the event or not, but I am busy working on my accent, just in case. For the last three months I have been filtering all my conversations through a soggy crumpet. In fact, I have been preparing so long that Ronald Colman now refers to me as "the early George Apley."

A POOR PLACE TO SIT OUT A TORNADO

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 16—For the first time since he took over the Speakership reins, Joe Martin faces a serious revolt in House Republican ranks. The details have been hushed up, but GOP Congressmen from 17 western states are really up in arms over heavy slashes the House Appropriations Committee is planning for irrigation and reclamation. The battle illustrates the tough time Republicans are having in achieving their promised budget-pruning.

Stung by reaction from home, western spokesmen laid down the following ultimatum in a secret meeting with Martin and House Majority Leader Charles Halleck: If Appropriations Chairman John Taber and Rep. Robert Jones of Ohio carry out their ax-wielding plans, then western Republicans will bolt the party and vote with Democrats to restore the reclamation cut on the House floor.

Since Speaker Martin so far has kept his ranks working tightly together, this ultimatum is considered significant.

Rep. John Phillips of California opened up the battle by inquiring of Martin and Halleck if it was "too much to ask the leadership to announce a Republican position on irrigation and reclamation."

Before the two leaders could reply, economy-minded Taber and Jones jumped to their feet, asserting that it was strictly up to the Appropriations Committee to decide the size of the Interior Department's budget for irrigation and reclamation.

Rugged Representative Lowell Stockman of Oregon, a member of Jones' subcommittee which handles the Interior budget, bluntly served notice that if the Appropriations Committee had the last word, then he would refuse to "go along" with the rest of the committee.

"I shall oppose any drastic cut in the lifeblood of these western states, regardless of the position of either the subcommittee, to which I belong, or the full Appropriations Committee," Stockman announced heatedly.

Teddy Roosevelt and Reclamation

The Oregon Republican and other western colleagues then pointed out that the reclamation and irrigation program had been fathered by the Republican party in the days of President Teddy Roosevelt and it should be continued, they contended, for historical as well as practical, economic reasons.

"If drastic cuts are made, as now planned, the party will be weakened in the 17 states involved," warned Rep. William S. Hill of Colorado. "Such action is certain to produce a devasting effect on the party in those areas."

Phillips, Stockman, Hill and their cohorts insisted that they were Republicans in "spirit as well as fact" and that they were willing to go along with Republican plans to balance the budget, but not at the expense of undermining the economy of reclamation areas.

Economizers Taber and Jones staged a jumping-jack act during the tense meeting, popping up to heckle speakers.

Jones charged that the Interior Department was interrelating the irrigation and reclamation program with too much "public power and socialization philosophy." As a result, it was the Interior Department, not the Appropriations Committee, he said, which had placed irrigation and reclamation in jeopardy. His committee was determined to reduce sharply Interior's funds for public power development.

Taber also harped on the power issue, as related to irrigation and reclamation.

"There has been only one major dam built in this nation on a solid, self-supporting financial basis," exclaimed the New Yorker. "That was Boulder Dam, a Republican project. The remainder of these New Deal dams and hydroelectric power projects all depend on Federal, taxpayer subsidies to keep them going.

Joe Martin On Powder Keg

Leaders Martin and Halleck said little during the tempestuous meeting. Both knew that they were sitting on a powder keg that might split House GOP ranks wide open, and they didn't want to apply any vocal fuses until they had a chance to talk to the revolters individually. However, there was little question that they supported Taber and Jones.

At one point Martin reminded westerners that all sections of the country must take their "rightful share" of any cuts in over-all Federal spending.

"That is correct," agreed Halleck of Indiana. "No part of the country can escape its rightful share in the responsibility for balancing the budget."

After this Rep. Charles Robertson of North Dakota, a strong reclamation enthusiast, oiled the waters somewhat by declaring that he and others had come to the meeting "in a spirit of friendship and with the desire that our problems in the west will be considered in the same light."

"I don't think it is the purpose of anyone here to do anything that would jeopardize the future welfare of the party," he added.

However, despite this conciliatory gesture, most of the westerners left the meeting determined to make a party fight of the reclamation issue—in the open, if necessary.

Auto-Worm Turns

A year ago the auto industry was predicting the failure of Henry Kaiser's daring automobile venture.

However, Kaiser, who has long been pumping fresh blood into American industry, has slowly been licking the crises. And last week he had an amazing experience.

The heads of three other auto companies—Studebaker, Nash and Packard—came to Kaiser, asked him for help in cracking some of their own bottlenecks the way Kaiser had beaten his. So Kaiser, the man whose failure was predicted by his competitors, is now loaning some of his key men to help those competitors with their own headaches.

GOP To Re-Cast Laws Covering Major Aspects National Life

By MARK SULLIVAN

This week the American people will see, for the first time in 17 years, what the Republican party will do when it has political responsibility. On Monday the House Labor Committee laid before the House the labor bill it has drafted, which is a complete rewriting of the labor laws of the country. The bill is now being debated by the House, and will probably be voted upon on Friday. It is the overwhelming opinion of Congressmen and of Washington observers that the bill will be passed in essentially the same form as reported by the Labor Committee. Substantially all Republicans will vote for it; in a caucus of House Republicans, not one spoke against it. Many Democrats also will vote for it, perhaps not far from half the party's strength.

The Republicans thus take responsibility for re-casting the laws covering a major aspect of our national life, and reacting vitally into literally every aspect. It is a momentous thing.

The principal labor statute now on the books, the Wagner National Labor Relations Act, was passed 14 years ago. It stands today as written, it has never been amended. During these 14 years, many complaints against the law have been made, many injustices in it recognized. The defects in it, and in the interpretation and administration of it, have been recognized by the party that was in power during most of the period. Again and again, a House having a Democratic majority has passed by overwhelming votes measures changing the existing labor laws. These attempts were frustrated, largely by opposition on the part of President Roosevelt.

Republican Purpose Stated

What the Republicans are now doing is to review the 14 years of experience with the Wagner Act, taking account of the proved defects in it and rewrite it. The Republican purpose was stated vividly and contpactly by Republican Representative Frederick C. Smith of Ohio. He began by citing the virtues which the Wagner Act claimed for itself in its preamble, and which supporters of it put forward when it was passed. Then Congressman Smith matches these claimed virtues and anticipatory hopes with the facts of experience:

"Instead of lessening and mitigating industrial strife and unrest, it has increasingly produced these evils. Instead of creating friendly relations between employers and employees, it has incited workmen to dislike and harrass their employers, to a point where strained relations between these groups have become chronic in a large segment of industry. Instead of reducing industrial disputes and strikes, it has greatly increased and made them pandemic. . . Instead of safeguarding commerce from injury, impairment, and interruption, it has so endangered commerce as to enormously interfere with its free flow."

That indictment of the Wagner Act by Congressman Smith deals only with the effects of the act within the field of industry and its relation with labor. An indictment equally strong could be made by citing the assertions of power by labor leaders which have gone the length of challenging the power of government itself. Yet another indictment could cite the hardships which the Wagner Act and its effects have worked upon the public as a whole, the discontent which caused the country to make last November's election a mandate for change.

As Comprehensive As Mandate

The House bill is as comprehensive as the mandate of the November election called for. It deals item by item with some 20 major aspects of labor unions about which complaint has been made. These include the closed shop, jurisdictional strikes, mass picketing, sympathetic strikes, illegal boycotts, strikes that affect the public health or other public interest, industry-wide bargaining. For each of these and others the bill attempts remedy, in some cases prohibition, in others partial check.

One provision illustrates at once the discrimination the bill practices and its farreaching scope. It forbids the "closed shop," but makes a distinction between that and the "union shop." As to the latter, the bill confers power on the several states to deal with the union shop as they may wish. In order to assure this power to the states, the bill at this point becomes in effect a bill dealing with states' rights. It uses language carefully chosen not to give the Supreme Court occasion for invalidating a law of a state on this point. The union shop, in addition to being subject to federal law, "shall be subject to. . . State laws. . . . as well."

Nation To See Series Of Strikes If Truman Vetoes Labor Laws

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 16 — The House of Representatives has heretofore passed just as drastic legislation restricting the activities of labor unions as is called for in the pending bill, but the public seems to have forgotten all about it because the labor-union lobby smothered such legislation in the Senate committee on labor.

Representative Howard Smith of Virginia, Democrat, has led the fight for a fair deal for employer and unions under the National Labor Relations Act, but every time he succeeded in getting a majority of the House, he was checkmated by the unions and the New Dealers who controlled the Senate. All the bills died there.

The Case bill vetoed last year by President Truman was the first piece of legislative reform affecting labor unions to reach the White House since the Wagner Act was passed in 1935 and now the labor union lobby is trying hard to defeat all legislation again by a presidential veto.

The news that President Truman has really agreed to the arguments of the labor lobby and will veto the bill has resulted in a strengthening of the determination of the Republicans to present him with one bill. Until Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach's testimony on Capitol Hill, which indicated that President Truman had already reached a decision to play along with labor and veto the bill, there was some prospect that a series of bills might be passed and that all the reforms would not be lumped in one measure.

Truman Faced Strategy Change

The argument for separate measures was that Mr. Truman could sign one or two bills and veto others and that some legislation would be enacted anyway. But as soon as the "left wing" press indicated that President Truman was going to veto any or all legislation anyhow and renew his plea for a joint committee to give further study to the labor problem, the strategy of the Republicans changed.

Now the plan is to write the kind of bill the majority in both Houses want to see passed. In the House a large number of Democrats will vote for the legislation. In the Senate a substantial number of Democrats will also vote for the measure. It is probable that the Senate bill will be a softer measure than the House bill, from the viewpoint of labor unions, but in joint conference the House will insist on its major provisions.

When the bill goes to the White House with an all-or-none problem for the President to decide, a veto will mean the end of labor legislation for the present session. Congress is expected to adjourn by July 1st under the new reorganization law's advice. It will probably be June before the labor bill reaches the President for consideration, and if he vetoes the measure it is not likely to be passed over his veto. There is a two-thirds vote in the House to override a veto, but not in the Senate. At such a late stage of the session, it will not be practical to start all over again and enact separate bills. The chances are Congress will adjourn without any legislation on either the strike problem or on the employer-employee relationship.

Means Series Of Strikes

This means that the country will be subjected to a series of strikes and more labor-management trouble in the second half of 1947 than in the first six months. It also means that appropriations for the labor board and the conciliation service will have harder sledding, because the appropriations require only a majority vote of both Houses. If a tug of war ensues between the President, who uses his veto power to kill labor legislation, and the Congress, which uses the power of the appropriation bill to answer back, the country will suffer from the stalemate and the issue will be carried into the 1948 campaign.

It begins to look now as if the 1948 contest will be the battle of the century, with President Truman lining up on the left-wing and pro-labor side and the Republicans arguing for some form of restriction on labor-union monopolies. Incidentally, the President may be faced with an even more restrictive bill regulating labor unions early in the 1948 session than he will have before him this year. More labor strife in the Autumn will be stir up demands for action in the 1948 session of congress.

"Believe me, if Bolshevism ever comes to America, nothing would please me more than a nice corner post on a roof overlooking two main streets and a nice large machine gun with unlimited belts of ammunition. . ."

But times have changed and so have George Seldes' tastes. He has since become a personage in the following "front" organizations:

"American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born, American Friends of Spanish Democracy, Conference for Constitutional Liberties in America, Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, Friends of the Soviet Union, International Labor Defense, International Workers Order, League of American Writers, National Committee for People's Rights, Non-Partisan Committee for the Re-Election of Congressman Vito Marcantonio, Citizens Committee for Harry Bridges."

And, of course, he publishes and edits "In Fact." Lyons quotes an article by Ruth McKenney in "New Masses" for May 31, 1938:

"The (Communist) Party has a hand in the publication of assorted other magazines of various types and kinds. Some of the magazines the Party itself publishes. . . . Many others the Party helps edit. . ."

Ruth McKenney used to be a top-notcher in the American Communist Party but was recently expelled along with her husband, who calls himself Bruce Minton and once helped George Seldes edit "In Fact." Mrs. William Browder, Earl Browder's sister-in-law, under the name of Rose Euler, was business manager of "In Fact."

Now, I cannot get so terribly excited about a Communist advocating Communism. That is his privilege. The point at issue is that George Seldes denies the allegation. He insists that neither he nor "In Fact" is Communistic. They are progressive. They are liberal. They follow every twist and turn of the Communist party line, but all that is coincidental and is unrelated to anyone or anything living or dead.

Seldes' point is that he publishes "In Fact" to provide news which the regular daily press is afraid to handle. Of course, he does not say that many of his items would send financially responsible newspapers into the courts for libel.

The publication appeared in the Spring of 1940 to keep the United States out of "the imperialistic war" —that is the one against Hitler "War hysteria is sweeping the land," said he. And he opposed conscription because: It encourages the British to continue the fight against Germany. 2. It makes possible U. S. seizure of the disintegrating British Empire, if Germany defeats England." But on June 22, 1941, after the abrogation of the Hitler-Stalin Alliance, Seldes went to war, as did Earl Browder and the American Communist Party.

Now that does not, by legal definition, prove that a man is a Communist, but it does show that he can do some very swift twisting when it is necessary. And that is what the Congressional Un-American Activities Committee ought to investigate. Seldes ought to have his day before the Thomas Committee, to face Eugene Lyons, Isaac Don Levine, Editor of "Plain Talk," and his old friend, Louis F. Budenz, who says:

"I can state that Seldes was one of those men without an open Communist label who was regarded by the Communist leadership as one who would always act in accordance with their wishes. . ."

Seldes ought to have a chance to prove that they are all wrong, that there is no camouflaged press in the United States, no Fifth Column, no smear-machine, no organized effort to destroy every American by slander who opposes Stalin. George Seldes should go before the Thomas Committee to demand that his opponents confront him with the facts. What is Representative Thomas waiting for?

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

"Up periscope," snapped Oberleutnant Fritz Sturm.

The submarine's eye poked through the greasy Atlantic swells. The night was overcast — visibility perhaps five hundred yards. The Oberleutnant wearily adjusted the focus. The eyes, which had watched twenty-one Allied vessels go down, searched the low-lying mists for his supply ship.

Billy Rose

"He doesn't look much like the scourge of the English now," whispered the quartermaster.

"Nein," said the man at the engine room telegraph. "Perhaps even he is tired of all the killing."

But it wasn't the killing the U-boat commander was tired of. It was the sea. Now at last he was to leave it. A pulse in his eye throbbed as he tried to puncture the blackness. The message ordering him to shore duty was in his pocket. But what if the supply ship, which was supposed to pick him up at this rendezvous, ghosted by in the mist without making contact?

He stomped over to the sound operator, his heels ringing on the sweating steel deck. The man at the hydrophones shrugged. "Nothing," he said. Sturm pushed him out of the chair and put the earphones on himself. The operator looked at him with shoe-button eyes full of hate. The Oberleutnant felt them and sneered. Yes, the men hated him—but not as much as he hated them. How he detested sailors and all things of the sea!

The Gestapo—that was his line. And up until two years ago, he had done very well at it. There were two towns in Holland where even children would never forget the name of Fritz Sturm. And then Doenitz had needed officers for the U-boat fleet. The Oberleutnant's record had spoken for itself. Six weeks at school in Bremerhaven. One cruise as second officer. And then a U-boat of his own. In twenty-one operations he had lost only one of his crew—executed by his own hand.

One dawn his torpedoes had snaked into the vitals of a British tanker. He could still see the great bellying-out of flame, the sailors frying on the decks like chops. As the survivors pulled away, he had ordered the machine guns to open up on the life boats. One of his gunners, an old merchant seaman, had refused. Sturm had pistolled him and taken over the machine gun. It had been amusing, the way the stupid British put their hands out as if to stop the bullets. "The English boast they're seamen," he told the crew. "Let the sea have them!"

Now, after two years, he was going back to solid earth. His cousin at Himmler's headquarters had arranged it. The supply ship was to land him at San Sebastian, on the Spanish coast. From there he was to proceed to Rotterdam and continue with the work among the Dutch he understood so well. There would be fresh milk, vegetables, fruit, eggs even. No more spray in his face. No more lurking under the sea like a blind fish. No more hiding the queasiness in his stomach from the men.

"Prepare to surface," he commanded. If he missed the supply ship, who knew how much longer he'd have to stay in this cursed salt prison?

The night was beginning to get a touch of grey in it as the snout of the sub broke water. Sturm climbed to the conning tower, binoculars in hand. If only he had radar—like the verfluchte British!

Then he saw it, a blob of blackness against the black. "Hard right under," he said to the helmsman. In a few minutes, the submarine's screws had edged him within hailing distance of the ship.

"This is Oberleutnant Fritz Sturm," he barked through the electric horn. "You are to take me aboard and land me at San Sebastian. Lower a boat!"

There was no answer.

The vague shape of the supply ship drifted toward the submarine.

"Good job of camouflage," said the second in command. It looks like a Portuguese fisherman."

"Lower a boat or I will fire at you!" shouted the enraged Oberleutnant. "Orders from the Admiralty."

"No passengers," came a voice out of the dark.

"Stand by until you see me board," said Sturm to his second-in-command who was taking over. "Launch a raft."

Two seaman inflated a rubber raft and dropped it into the sea. Sturm clambered on, and paddled across the gap. When he got to the darkened ship, he saw a rope ladder dangling over the side. As he grabbed it, the U-boat's conning tower slid silently back into the sea.

When he reached the deck he saw the dark shape of a man slouched against the rail.

"What ship is this?" he demanded.

"Too bad you came aboard," whispered the seaman.

"What ship is this?" repeated Fritz Sturm. "And address me as Oberleutnant."

The seaman smiled. "You have a long voyage ahead of you, Oberleutnant," he said, and his voice was as old as the rocks at the bottom of the sea.

"This is the "Flying Dutchman."

Money Order Clerks Will Get Breather

Money order clerks at the Cumberland Post Office will probably had a chance to relax yesterday.

Postal officials said that 806 money order forms were completed Monday and about the same amount Tuesday, as hundreds of Cumberlanders chose that method of paying their state income tax returns before the deadline midnight.

Stating that the daily average of money orders amounts to about 200 separte forms, officials estimated that nearly 90 per cent of the approximately 1,600 forms completed Monday and yesterday were in payment of taxes. The amount of money involved totalled from $15,000 to $16,000 during the rush period, they added.

Three money order windows were in operation Monday, but only two were open yesterday as the rush subsided somewhat.

British Budget Balanced

LONDON, April 16 (AP)—The Labor Government projected Britain's first balanced budget since 1937 today and freed 750,000 individuals from the income tax in an effort to spur National Industrial production.

October, 1946, marked the 50th anniversary of rural free delivery in the United States.

Will Conduct Free Hearing Clinic
Major K. T. ORRISON
will demonstrate new discovery in Hearing Aid at the Cumberland Hearing Aid Clinic
Room 7, 59 Pershing St.
FRIDAY, APRIL 18th
10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

MAJOR K. T. ORRISON

Since the amazing discovery and development of the new post-war Beltone Hearing Aid, hundreds of inquiries have been received from people of this vicinity asking for information and demonstrations of this new miracle instrument. Through the use of this new scientific hearing instrument, thousands of hard-of-hearing persons all over the world are finding new hearing happiness never before thought possible. This new instrument is patterned closely as possible after the study and ideal specifications set up by Harvard University's Psycho-Acoustic Laboratories.

It is a different kind of hearing aid . . . there is nothing like it. It is tiny in size, scarcely larger than a deck of cards, yet very powerful in performance and beautiful in design. Arrangements have been made to have Major Orrison, noted authority and hearing aid specialist, to hold a free hearing clinic at the above office in Cumberland on the date indicated. The equipment used by Major Orrison in tests to determine the extent of deafness is the very latest scientific development for his purpose and has met all the requirements of the Government Bureau of Standards.

This new Audiometer and the Beltone Hearing Aid have been approved and accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. Major Orrison takes an understanding interest in helping the hard of hearing and is well qualified to make both air and bone conduction tests and scientifically fit hearing aids. The hard of hearing are cordially invited to come in for free tests and trial fitting. There is no cost or obligation. If you can not come in write to the Cumberland Hearing Aid Clinic at the above address for Free Illustrated Booklet on "Deafness and How It Affects You." There are more Beltone Mono-Pacs in use than all other one-unit hearing aids combined.

Henry Hart VFW Form New Post At Oldtown

Thrasher Names New Committees

A delegation from Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, went to Oldtown last night to assist in forming a new VFW post there, it was announced by Commander Raymond Reynolds.

On Friday evening, a delegation will also visit Fairgrieve Post, VFW in Frostburg, on which occasion Thomas K. Whalley, adjutant and past commander of Henry Hart will install officers.

Sunday at 2:30 p. m. members of the local post will visit Old Rail Post VFW at Mt. Savage, at which time David Rinker, assistant adjutant and also a past commander here, will install officers.

Reynolds also announced that Whalley will establish something of a precedent April 24, when he goes to Hyndman, Pa., to install officers in the Hyndman VFW. It is a very rare thing, and the first time here, that an officer from one State Department is invited to go into another State Department on a mission of this kind, Reynolds said.

Report On Installation

A report was made by John Pike, chairman of the local installation last Saturday at the Queen City Hotel. State Adjutant and Quartermaster Reginald H. Murphy, Baltimore, installed the new officers of Henry Hart Post with Lee Thrasher as commander.

D. John Markey, Frederick, a member of Henry Hart post, was guest speaker and told his audience this was the first time he has seen Murphy since the end of World War I, when Murphy served Markey as company clerk.

Markey spoke on the need for a stronger nation and said he proposes that all World War II veterans be carried on some sort of inactive or semi-active reserve status. He warned against the spread of Communism and Red influences.

Markey presented the application of Col. Randolph Millholland, World War II hero and veteran, for membership and declared "he is the finest soldier I have ever known and should be a member here." Millholland's application was favorably acted upon along with two other World War II applications, bringing the post membership to 1,881.

Names New Committees

Commander Thrasher, who assumes his duties at the first meeting in May, announced some of his committees as follows: Obligation—James Stemple, chairman; Athletics—Harold Hipsley, chairman; Picnic—Lester Mull; Relief—William Blair; Membership — Verner Winner; Truck — Raymond Reynolds, chairman, Raymond Whitehair, and George Banzhoff; Broadcast — James Stemple, chairman, James Kloran, John Rowan, Jr., and James Beacham; Social — George Banzhoff, chairman, George Glick and Frank Hymes.

Curtis MacA. Kime, chairman of the rifle and pistol teams called a meeting for 7 p. m. Friday at the post home. After a short session the teams will go to the range at the State Armory for practice.

Driver Is Freed In Accident Case

Charged with failing to stop after a two-car collision at Baltimore and Henderson Avenues last Thursday night, George Joseph Forebeck, 24 North Waverly Terrace, was found not guilty in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

Forebeck said he was unaware that his car struck the vehicle operated by Edward W. Rhind, 346 Williams Street. Trooper William F. Baker, who investigated, said he found "scrape marks" on Forebeck's car when he made the arrest last Friday.

Another driver, Clyde Emerick, Fairhope, Pa., was fined $11.45 by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., after he was found guilty of failing to keep to the right of the center of the road on Route 55 at Ellerslie last Sunday. His car smashed against the automobile of William L. Messersmith, Route 1, Hancock, and the latter's vehicle turned over four times, according to State Trooper Harry Holsinger.

Mervin E. Uhl, Mt. Savage, was fined $1 in Police Court yesterday on a charge of failing to stop for a white traffic light at Baltimore and George Streets yesterday afternoon.

Managers To Meet

There will be a meeting of the board of managers of the Methodist Training School, Cumberland and vicinity, at the Central Y. M. C. A. on Thursday, April 17 at 4 p. m. in the George Williams room. Rev. W. W. Delaplain and Miss Mary Douty will speak. There will be the election of officers and plans made for the Christian Workers' School to be held in October.

Secure Radio Shop Permit

Charles D. Crispin, 7 North Waverly Terrace, and James B. Grabenstein, 625 Elwood Street, secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to use the first floor of a three-story brick building at 540 Maryland Avenue for a radio repair shop. Owner of the building is C. H. Skidmore, 538 Maryland Avenue.

Leaves Hospital Here

Charles B. Cooper, 28-year-old Ellerslie veteran, who was critically burned in a Henderson Avenue explosion here in March, 1946, was discharged from Memorial Hospital recently. He suffered burns over his entire body while working at the Cement Products Company plant which was wrecked by the blast.

Fort Ashby Firemen Plan Anniversary

The Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company will celebrate its 10th anniversary by sponsoring a masquerade "Hill-Billy" barn dance Friday evening in the Fort Ashby VFW hall. Prizes will be given for the most original "Hill-Billy" costumes.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL
(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

While visitors by the thousands are enjoying the Cherry Blossoms in Washington, Congress is rounding out three months of continuous work on labor legislation.

Since January the Labor and Education Committee of the House of Representatives has held more than 30 hearings and has taken 3,600 pages of testimony from 150 witnesses. On the other side of the Capitol, the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee held 27 hearings and from 100 witnesses took more than 2,500 pages of testimony.

These Committees were concerned with two important Federal Labor Laws.

The first is the National Labor Relations Act of 1935, often referred to the Wagner Act, which guarantees labor's rights to organize and bargain collectively, and provides for the setting up of a National Labor Relations Board to certify bargaining units and enforce provisions against "Unfair Labor Practices" by employers.

The second one is the Norris-LaGuardia Act of 1932, which forbids injunctions in private labor disputes but permits them (under recent Supreme Court ruling) where the Government is a party to the dispute.

The House has a Bill ready to be presented probably this week. The Senate has Labor legislation in mind which isn't quite so drastic as that in the House. Nevertheless, both would thoroughly rewrite Federal Labor Policy.

Here are the main provisions the two bills have in common. You might think these over and let me know what you think of them.

Both outlaw the closed shop. Both authorize 75-day Federal injunctions against strikes deemed harmful to the public health, safety or welfare." Jurisdictional strikes and boycotts would be outlawed by both Houses. Under these bills foremen would be banned from collective bargaining.

The main difference between the bills are these: The House would permit employers to refuse bargaining on the union shop; unions would be subject to damage suits under the anti-trust act for "unfair labor practices;" the House measure would abolish the NLRB and replace it with three separate agencies for administration, prosecution of unfair labor practices and consiliation; and the House bill would deny bargaining rights to any union in which an officer is a Communist party member.

The Senate proposal would permit a union shop only if two-thirds of the workers approve. It would give employers the option of accepting industry-wide bargaining. It would also ban a single bargaining unit for both professional and non-professional workers unless a majority of the latter approves.

That's the labor situation on Capitol Hill.

MORE GAS

During the war when there was a great deal of concern over the nation's gas and oil supply, Congress appropriated several million dollars for research on the best methods to extract oil and gasoline from coal and shale.

It was good to hear that work along this line has progressed far enough to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that high grade gasoline can easily be manufactured from coal at a cost of less than six cents per gallon, with oil at a lower figure. Many believe that within five or six years much of the nation's oil and gasoline supplies will come from the bituminous coal fields of this country with sufficient quantities available to supply our needs for some 3,000 years. That is a bright outlook.

MORE MONEY

Unofficial reports have been seeping into the cloak rooms from official administration sources that just as soon as the Greek-Turkish loan is approved a new request will be made for Congressional approval of a loan to Korea of anywhere from three hundred to five hundred million dollars. If this is true, then undoubtedly other countries will be prompt in asking Uncle Sam for financial and other aid to "combat the danger of Communism."

ARMY AND NAVY

Hearings on the Administration sponsored bill to bring about a merger of the Army and Navy, and to create a new cabinet post under the title of the Secretary of Defense, will get under way in earnest this week before the House Committee on Expenditures. There is much opposition to the merger bill. Some Members of Congress insist that the legislation does not actually provide for a merger of the armed force, but instead for the creation of an additional branch—the Air Forces. Some are opposed to any merger at all, except in the fields of procurement and medical services. It is being rather freely predicted that the Administration's proposed legislation, as submitted, will not be enacted into law, but it is entirely possible that a very much amended and changed bill may be approved by Congress.

UNDER THE DOME

I asked the Director of Railway Transportation of the Office of Defense Transportation for additional box cars to be allocated for the shipment of phosphate rock from Prairie, Fla., to Hagerstown, Md. The shortage of box cars is seriously handicapping the production of super phosphate necessary for the manufacture of fertilizers for spring delivery. Unless something is done soon to relieve the situation the farmers may have to go without fertilizer for their spring crops.

Since I am a member of the House District Committee, I sat in on the meeting last week when it had the proposal for sales tax for Washington up for consideration. It would certainly be a help to the Maryland merchants who border the District of Columbia if a sales tax is imposed on the citizens of Washington.

I am continuing to fight for the allocation of more sugar for industrial users in the Sixth District, especially the new ones. The Civil Service Commission has granted my request to have examinations given on a day other than Saturday for those whose Sabbath falls on that day.

The Maryland Delegates to the Regional Conference of the Women's Republican Clubs at the Statler Hotel in Washington was informative and enjoyable. It isn't too late to see the magnificent Cherry Blossoms. If you plan to stay overnight be sure to make hotel reservations, otherwise you may have to turn around and go back home.

Cancer Fund Donations Should Be Made Soon

Contributions to the annual fund drive in Allegany County of the American Cancer Society should be mailed to the American Cancer Society, Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, before the end of this month, according to Hugh D. Shires, county chairman.

Leaders named in county communities so far include John E. Grindle, Westernport; Mrs. Benjamin Mowbray, Barton, and Mrs. Arthur G. Phillips, Lonaconing. A Frostburg chairman will be selected soon.

Pointing out that no theater collections will be made for the drive this year, Shires said almost $2,000 was collected in that manner last year, adding that contributions in theaters last year should make sure to send their donations to the society this year.

Nearly 1,000 letters asking for donations have been mailed to individuals, business houses and organizations, while 50 individuals are selling memberships in the society and more will be doing so as soon as the necessary material is received.

Sixty per cent of the contributions will remain here for work at the Memorial Hospital cancer clinic. The remainder will be used for research.

Malaria Disability Information Cited

Approximately 1,500 Maryland veterans now receiving 10 per cent malaria disability benefits will have such compensation automatically discontinued one year from the original rating date unless they submit medical evidence that they suffered relapses or recurrences of malaria during the past year, W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration contact office here pointed out yesterday.

A physician's statement, he said, would be ample if it contained sufficient clinical or laboratory information to show a diagnosis of malaria.

Burns advised former Allegany and Garrett County servicemen with malaria disabilities to visit the Cumberland office, Room 10, 111 Union Street, if they have any doubt concerning their status under the one-year discontinuance rule.

Henry Hart VFW Form New Post At Oldtown

Thrasher Names New Committees

A delegation from Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, went to Oldtown last night to assist in forming a new VFW post there, it was announced by Commander Raymond Reynolds.

On Friday evening, a delegation will also visit Fairgrieve Post, VFW in Frostburg, on which occasion Thomas K. Whalley, adjutant and past commander of Henry Hart will install officers.

Sunday at 2:30 p. m. members of the local post will visit Old Rail Post VFW at Mt. Savage, at which time David Rinker, assistant adjutant and also a past commander here, will install officers.

Reynolds also announced that Whalley will establish something of a precedent April 24, when he goes to Hyndman, Pa., to install officers in the Hyndman VFW. It is a very rare thing, and the first time here, that an officer from one State Department is invited to go into another State Department on a mission of this kind, Reynolds said.

Report On Installation

A report was made by John Fike, chairman of the local installation last Saturday at the Queen City Hotel. State Adjutant and Quartermaster Reginald H. Murphy, Baltimore, installed the new officers of Henry Hart Post with Lee Thrasher as commander.

D. John Markey, Frederick, a member of Henry Hart post, was guest speaker and told his audience this was the first time he has seen Murphy since the end of World War 1, when Murphy served Markey as company clerk.

Markey spoke on the need for a stronger nation and said he proposes that all World War II veterans be carried on some sort of inactive or semi-active reserve status. He warned against the spread of Communism and Red influences.

Markey presented the application of Col. Randolph Millholland, World War II hero and veteran, for membership and declared "he is the finest soldier I have ever known and should be a member here." Millholland's application was favorably acted upon along with two other World War II applications, bringing the post membership to 1,881.

Names New Committees

Commander Thrasher, who assumes his duties at the first meeting in May, announced some of his committees as follows: Obligation—James Stemple, chairman; Athletics—Harold Hipsley, chairman; Picnic—Lester Mull; Relief—William Blair; Membership — Verner Winner; Truck — Raymond Reynolds, chairman, Raymond Whitehair, and George Banzhoff; Broadcast — James Stemple, chairman, James Kloran, John Rowan, Jr., and James Beacham; Social — George Banzhoff, chairman, George Glick and Frank Hymes.

Forebeck said he was unaware that his car struck the vehicle operated by Edward W. Rhind, 346 Williams Street. Trooper William F. Baker, who investigated, said he found "scrape marks" on Forebeck's car when he made the arrest last Friday.

Another driver, Clyde Emerick, Fairhope, Pa., was fined $11.45 by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., after he was found guilty of failing to keep to the right of the center of the road on Route 55 at Ellerslie last Sunday. His car smashed against the automobile of William L. Messersmith, Route 1, Hancock, and the latter's vehicle turned over four times, according to State Trooper Harry Holsinger.

Mervin E. Uhl, Mt. Savage, was fined $1 in Police Court yesterday on a charge of failing to stop for a white traffic light at Baltimore and George Streets yesterday afternoon.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL
(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

While visitors by the thousands are enjoying the Cherry Blossoms in Washington, Congress is rounding out three months of continuous work on labor legislation.

Since January the Labor and Education Committee of the House of Representatives has held more than 30 hearings and has taken 3,600 pages of testimony from 150 witnesses. On the other side of the Capitol, the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee held 27 hearings and from 100 witnesses took more than 2,500 pages of testimony.

These Committees were concerned with two important Federal Labor Laws.

The first is the National Labor Relations Act of 1935, often referred to the Wagner Act, which guarantees labor's rights to organize and bargain collectively, and provides for the setting up of a National Labor Relations Board to certify bargaining units and enforce provisions against "Unfair Labor Practices" by employers.

The second one is the Norris-LaGuardia Act of 1932, which forbids injunctions in private labor disputes but permits them (under recent Supreme Court ruling) where the Government is a party to the dispute.

The House has a Bill ready to be presented probably this week. The Senate has Labor legislation in mind which isn't quite so drastic as that in the House. Nevertheless, both would thoroughly rewrite Federal Labor Policy.

Here are the main provisions the two bills have in common. You might think these over and let me know what you think of them.

Both outlaw the closed shop. Both authorize 75-day Federal injunctions against strikes deemed harmful to the public health, safety or welfare." Jurisdictional strikes and boycotts would be outlawed by both Houses. Under these bills foremen would be banned from collective bargaining.

The main difference between the bills are these: The House would permit employers to refuse bargaining on the union shop; unions would be subject to damage suits under the anti-trust act for "unfair labor practices;" the House measure would abolish the NLRB and replace it with three separate agencies for administration, prosecution of unfair labor practices and consiliation; and the House bill would deny bargaining rights to any union in which an officer is a Communist party member.

The Senate proposal would permit a union shop only if two-thirds of the workers approve. It would give employers the option of accepting industry-wide bargaining. It would also ban a single bargaining unit for both professional and non-professional workers unless a majority of the latter approves.

That's the labor situation on Capitol Hill.

MORE GAS

During the war when there was a great deal of concern over the nation's gas and oil supply, Congress appropriated several million dollars for research on the best methods to extract oil and gasoline from coal and shale.

It was good to hear that work along this line has progressed far enough to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that high grade gasoline can easily be manufactured from coal at a cost of less than six cents per gallon, with oil at a lower figure. Many believe that within five or six years much of the nation's oil and gasoline supplies will come from the bituminous coal fields of this country with sufficient quantities available to supply our needs for some 3,000 years. That is a bright outlook.

MORE MONEY

Unofficial reports have been seeping into the cloak rooms from official administration sources that just as soon as the Greek-Turkish loan is approved a new request will be made for Congressional approval of a loan to Korea of anywhere from three hundred to five hundred million dollars. If this is true, then undoubtedly other countries will be prompt in asking Uncle Sam for financial and other aid to "combat the danger of Communism."

ARMY AND NAVY

Hearings on the Administration sponsored bill to bring about a merger of the Army and Navy, and to create a new cabinet post under the title of the Secretary of Defense, will get under way in earnest this week before the House Committee on Expenditures. There is much opposition to the merger bill. Some Members of Congress insist that the legislation does not actually provide for a merger of the armed force,' but instead for the creation of an additional branch—the Air Forces. Some are opposed to any merger at all, except in the fields of procurement and medical services. It is being rather freely predicted that the Administration's proposed legislation, as submitted, will not be enacted into law, but it is entirely possible that a very much amended and changed bill may be approved by Congress.

UNDER THE DOME

I asked the Director of Railway Transportation of the Office of Defense Transportation for additional box cars to be allocated for the shipment of phosphate rock from Prairie, Fla., to Hagerstown, Md. The shortage of box cars is seriously handicapping the production of super phosphate necessary for the manufacture of fertilizers for spring delivery. Unless something is done soon to relieve the situation the farmers may have to go without fertilizer for their spring crops.

Since I am a member of the House District Committee, I sat in on the meeting last week when it had the proposal for sales tax for Washington up for consideration. It would certainly be a help to the Maryland merchants who border the District of Columbia if a sales tax is imposed on the citizens of Washington.

I am continuing to fight for the allocation of more sugar for industrial users in the Sixth District, especially the new ones. The Civil Service Commission has granted my request to have examinations given on a day other than Saturday for those whose Sabbath falls on that day.

The Maryland Delegates to the Regional Conference of the Women's Republican Clubs at the Statler Hotel in Washington was informative and enjoyable. It isn't too late to see the magnificent Cherry Blossoms. If you plan to stay overnight be sure to make hotel reservations, otherwise you may have to turn around and go back home.

Cancer Fund Donations Should Be Made Soon

Contributions to the annual fund drive in Allegany County of the American Cancer Society should be mailed to the American Cancer Society, Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, before the end of this month, according to Hugh D. Shires, county chairman.

Leaders named in county communities so far include John E. Grindle, Westernport; Mrs. Benjamin Mowbray, Barton, and Mrs. Arthur G. Phillips, Lonaconing. A Frostburg chairman will be selected soon.

Pointing out that no theater collections will be made for the drive this year, Shires said almost $2,000 was collected in that manner last year, adding that contributions in theaters last year should make sure to send their donations to the society this year.

Nearly 1,000 letters asking for donations have been mailed to individuals, business houses and organizations, while 50 individuals are selling memberships in the society and more will be doing so as soon as the necessary material is received.

Sixty per cent of the contributions will remain here for work at the Memorial Hospital cancer clinic. The remainder will be used for research.

Enters Naval Reserve

Russell Webster Uphold, Terra Alta, W. Va., enlisted in the V-6 inactive naval reserve yesterday for four years as ship's cook third class, local Navy recruiters said yesterday. Uphold, a veteran of 17 months' previous Navy service, served 14 months in the Pacific area.

Four veterans who have been accepted for the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve are Robert J. Weisenmiller, 362 Bedford Street, a veteran of two years' naval service; George J. Booth, Route 1, Frostburg, veteran of two years; James W. Booth, Route 1, city, veteran of one year; and Carl R. Smith, Flintstone, veteran of two years. The Booths are brothers.

Millholland To Talk On Universal Training

Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, regimental commander of the National Guard here, will discuss universal training at a meeting of Mountain District American Legion to be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Samuel A. Graham, district vice commander, said Col. Millholland will discuss the details of the UT plan as outlined by the War Department, and that a sound movie, "A Plan for Peace," which shows phases of military training, will be presented in conjunction with the address.

Daniel F. McMullen, past commander of the Department of Maryland and a member of the Legion's National Defense Committee, will speak on "Air Defense," as discussed at recent meetings of the national committee.

Final plans will also be made for "I Am An American Day" on May 18, and Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Mountain District's committee studying the possibility of completing Savage River Dam, will make a report.

Malaria Disability Information Cited

Approximately 1,500 Maryland veterans now receiving 10 per cent malaria disability benefits will have such compensation automatically discontinued one year from the original rating date unless they submit medical evidence that they suffered relapses or recurrences of malaria during the past year, W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration contact office here pointed out yesterday.

A physician's statement, he said, would be ample if it contained sufficient clinical or laboratory information to show a diagnosis of malaria.

Burns advised former Allegany and Garrett County servicemen with malaria disabilities to visit the Cumberland office, Room 10, 111 Union Street, if they have any doubt concerning their status under the one-year discontinuance rule.

Not only biscuits, of course, but Betsy's FLUFFY biscuits did start things!

Then her fragrant, golden-brown loaves of bread and grand, taste-tempting muffins moved things right up to the altar. No man can resist really good food.

Betsy's baking success is due to just one thing. She always says "Larabee's Best" when she buys her flour.

Remember, it's smart to buy good flour. It's smarter to buy Larabee's Best, the all-purpose flour that always satisfies.

OUR CHEAPEST "HIRED HANDS"

America is the richest nation on earth. Also the strongest. Likewise it is our proud boast that our standard of living is the highest.

Yet over large areas of this opulent land we pay our school teachers salaries which a scavenger would despise.

No citizen assumes a heavier responsibility than the average teacher. She is not only expected to instruct young America in the three R's but she supplies him with his general cultural and ethical background and interprets for him our whole democratic ideology—of which, incidentally, he hears very little in the average home. And a teacher can only do this after long and difficult years of training which frequently exhaust his or her cash and energy. In return for which he or she gets less than the most ignorant untrained laborer.

Take Detroit for example. Detroit is one of our wealthiest cities with a labor program second to none. Yet a recent survey shows that Detroit pays its dog catchers nearly $1,000 per year more than it does to teachers. Its rat catchers get $3,095. . . its comfort station operators $2.225 . . . its garbage collector foreman $4,761 . . . its prison cook $2,736 . . . the keeper of the zoo $2,496 . . . and the beginning teacher only $2,094.

And don't fool yourself that Detroit is an outstanding example. To the contrary, Detroit teachers are sitting pretty in comparison to many of their national comrades. There are 10,000 teachers in America who receive less than $12 per week and the average teachers only earns $37 per week.

In many of our rural districts teacher is still "farmed out" with a dingy room and haphazard food regarded as part of her compensation.

Highly trained men and women in our leading cities are being forced to abandon teaching or accept side occupations such as waitresses, carpenters, painters, baby sitters and barkeeps in order to support their families!

Yet we cheerfully boast that we spend more money on education than any other country on earth. But it's show-off money. We build the finest schools and campuses. We employ leading educators. We subsidize outstanding athletes by methods of high class bribery. But when it comes to paying for brains we're a cheap bunch of pikers without decent regard for wisdom, and no concern whatever for the future of democracy.

School And Roads Bills Are Signed By Md. Governor

285 More Measures Approved By Lane

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 16 (AP) — Gov. Lane today signed 285 bills affecting a wide area of state functions, including the administration's extensive school and roads programs.

Another 416 measures passed by the last General Assembly await the Governor's action. Some are controversial and Lane indicated he may call hearings before making a final decision on them.

Besides acts raising the pay of teachers and changing the method of distributing school funds, and those launching the state on a $163,000,000 bridge and highway construction program, important bills signed today will:

Implement some of the Sherbow Commission recommendations on redistribution of taxes.

Permit women to serve on juries in Baltimore City and 11 counties.

Set up a new alcoholic beverage code for the state.

Provide new rules for the State Racing Commission.

Allow Baltimore and 10 counties to control rents.

Elgin's Term Ends June 30

End the term of Motor Vehicles Commissioner W. Lee Elgin June 30.

Call for a vote on a constitutional amendment to have annual instead of biennial sessions of the Legislature.

Set up a commission on uniform accounts in the state and make fiscal practices in the local units uniform.

The Chief Executive also signed Senate and House resolutions directing him and the Board of Public Works to cut the $219,000,000 budget by $1,000,000 in the next two years.

One of the school bills sets the minimum teachers' pay scale at $2,000 to $3,600 for those without degrees, and $200 more for those with degrees. The pay of principals, supervising teachers and superintendents was also raised. Local units could up the salaries at will.

State school moneys will be alloted on the basis of $20 per pupil and $400 per classroom unit, the equalization fund tax rate is increased from 56 to 65 cents and supervisors of pupil personnel will replace, in larger number, the present attendance officers.

$139,000,000 For Roads Commission

By two of the bills signed today, the State Roads Commission will receive $139,000,000 in the next five years for highway construction and self-liquidating bridge and tunnel projects are authorized. Foremost among the latter is the proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge, estimated to cost $24,000,000.

Included in the roads measure are provisions that the gasoline tax be raised to five cents and that members of the Roads Commission serve at the pleasure of the Governor rather than by fixed terms.

One of the new revenue distribution measures gives Baltimore City and the counties 1.5 per cent of individual investment income taxes and .625 per cent of the rest of the income tax payments. The counties must share with incorporated cities and towns revenues from persons who live there.

Anti-Sales Tax Suit Is Launched

BALTIMORE, April 16 (AP)—Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney, went to court today in an attempt to get Maryland's new two per cent sales tax invalidated before it goes into effect July 1.

He based his suit on a contention that Gov. Lane coerced members of the General Assembly to pass it last month after they once voted it down.

In Annapolis, the Governor said the allegations are "ridiculous."

Pressman filed suit in Baltimore Supreme Court and asked a declaratory judgment that the sales tax is "invalid, unconstitutional and unenforceable."

Gov. Lane and State Comptroller James J. Lacy were named defendants. Under court procedure, they must file an answer by May 27.

Pressman's petition said the House of Delegates once voted down the sales tax but that the Governor "forced the ostensible passage of the said purported law by the legislature of Maryland against the will of the majority of its members by coercing various members of the Legislature of Maryland."

Detonation In

lief work and sent 30 disaster experts to the scene.

Records of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Washington showed that the disaster was the country's worst, in lives lost, in the last 10 years. The next worst, the Atlantic coast hurricane of September, 1938, took 68 lives.

It was Texas' second major disaster within a week. A tornado swept the Panhandle and Northwestern Oklahoma last Wednesday, killing 132 persons in the two states. Relief workers still stationed in the storm area rushed to the scene of the new calamity, hundreds of miles to the south.

The huge plant of the Monsanto Chemical Company, built in wartime to make styrene, an ingredient of synthetic rubber, was reported completely destroyed.

35 Workers Trapped in Plant

Fires still were raging in the Monsanto plant late today and firefighters could hear the screams of some workers trapped inside. One Monsanto worker estimated that 35 employes were imprisoned. Rescue was impossible because of the heat and flames.

The blast shook the Texas coast for a distance of more than 110 miles, and was so severe that windows were shattered at Galveston, 11 miles across the bay, and plaster was knocked from ceilings of buildings there.

Many persons there fled from buildings fearing a major earthquake had occurred.

At New York, the Coast Guard said it had reports from its Texas units that as many as 1,000 persons may be dead and from 2,000 to 3,500 injured.

Poisonous gas was reported to be infiltrating the still-burning community late today. The National Guard was called out to help control the emergency.

The original explosion occurred on the Grandcamp, French ship loaded with nitrate. The second was at the nearby muti-million dollar Monsanto Chemical Corporation plant, now in ruins.

Others followed quickly and flames broke out, raging unchecked because of damage to the water system.

Chaos Follows Explosions

Port Arthur and Orange, 100 miles distant, said the blast was audible and that buildings rocked. At Pelly, 27 miles away, a man said the sound "hurt my eardrums."

Efforts to estimate the death and injury list were more difficult by the chaos that followed, and by disrupted communications. Authough the telephone union ordered all strikers back on their jobs, lines were damaged and few were operating.

The scene here was one of chaos. Residents were stunned and stumbled about the debris dazed with the pain of burns, and cuts from glass and steel and brick hurtled through the air.

The explosion was the worst in Texas history, exceeding even the New London School explosion in 1937 when 294 school children were killed. It was the second worst disaster in Texas history, trailing only the Galveston hurricane in 1900 when between 5,000 and 8,000 died.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester flew to the area to help direct relief and rescue workers who poured into Texas City from Galveston, Houston, Austin, San Antonio, and other cities.

Relief mobilized so quickly Capt. Glenn Rose, of the State Highway Patrol, said at 2 p. m. that no additional doctors and nurses were needed.

Ship Fire Attracted Hundreds

The explosion aboard the Grandcamp followed a fire which had attracted several hundred curious to the docks to watch fire fighters. Scores of those on the docks were killed.

The Galveston Tribune said all aboard the Grandcamp were killed and the ship was a total loss. The huge Monsanto plant was in ruins, the paper said. Many of the casualties occurred there.

The explosion rocked an area about 300 miles in diameter, reports indicated.

W. H. Sanberg, vice president of the Texas City Terminal Railway company, had left the Grandcamp just five minutes before the explosion. He said the concussion was "simply terrible."

"It blew out windows of every home in town. It blew in ceilings in business buildings. It cracked new buildings from end to end. Doors were blown from their hinges."

Devastation, he said, was terrible. He said the Monsanto plant "doesn't exist any more."

Refinery and dock workers, many with bandages on their heads, arms and legs worked side by side with police and emergency crews searching for the dead and injured.

A police captain said there was no set plan for accomplishing the grim task.

"We just have to work in areas at least momentarily out of danger, at the same time hoping that we can soon start toward sections we know to be hardest hit but still blanketed with fire, gas and smoke," he commented.

He said the dock area immediately adjacent to the scene of the original explosion "still contains about 400 people but we just can't reach them, though there is probably little hope for their safety."

If his belief is correct, the death toll probably will approach the 1,000 mark.

J. A. O'Connell, of Alvin, said that he had arrived only a short while after the explosion.

"Since then I've inspected every building in the business district and there isn't a one that has not been damaged."

He said he had picked up pieces of the ship on which the explosion occurred 19 blocks away from the scene.

Vessel Sends Out SOS After Ramming Lightship

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. April 16—(AP)—Barnegat coast guardsmen put to a foggy sea in a small boat shortly before midnight tonight to go to the aid of crew members of the 185-foot motor tug, Great Isaac, which sent out an SOS at 11:20 p. m. (EST) stating it had rammed the Barnegat lightship.

The lightship, a 130-foot craft anchored eight miles out to guard the treacherous Barnegat shoals, tore a hole in the port side of the 1,117-ton single-crew Great Isaac, her radio reported. Crew members of the tug were reported abandoning ship.

Spending Controls Sought

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — Sen. Tydings (D-Md) introduced a resolution today for a constitutional amendment to control peacetime federal expenditures.

EXPLOSION DAMAGE—The initial shipboard explosion in the harbor at Texas City, Tex., yesterday caused the above damage. The blast was felt for 150 miles and set off a chain of explosions which took hundreds of lives.

AP Meeting Is Set For Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., April 16. (AP)—The Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press and West Virginia members of the Associated Press will hold a joint meeting in Charles Town May 17 for a discussion of mutual problems involving operation of news service in the two states, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by Editor Brooks Cottle, of the Morgantown Post, chairman of the West Virginia members, and Editor Oscar L. Morris, of the Salisbury Times, chairman of the Chesapeake Association, which includes members in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The members will meet in the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in this historic Eastern Panhandle town. The Chesapeake Association will hold a session the morning of May 17 under the leadership of Morris to discuss Maryland and Washington news handling, go over coverage of the recent session of the Maryland Legislature and study operations of the Baltimore and Annapolis bureaus.

The West Virginia members will hold a similar session in charge of Cottle in the early afternoon.

two Pennsylvania companies—Fort Collieries and Buckeye Coal—which had claimed that the workers are employes of the government.

They had based this view on the Supreme Court decision of March 6 in the Lewis contempt case.

But the NLRB said the Supreme Court ruled the miners to be government employes only for the purpose of interpreting the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction law, which prohibits a private employer from getting a labor injunction but does not prohibit the government from doing so to block a strike by its own employes.

World Fliers Pay Visit To Chicago

CHICAGO, April 16—(AP)—Milton Reynolds and the crew of his globe-girdling "Bombshell" visited Chicago tonight and planned to return to Washington to see President Truman tomorrow.

The Chicago pen manufacturer greeted a crowd of his Chicago plant employes with a worried:

"What about that first shift? What are you girls doing here?"

Also on hand at Municipal Airport was Reynolds' daughter, Mrs. Julian Levy.

When one of the workers shouted that they had missed their employer, Reynolds retorted:

"I wasn't gone long enough for anyone to miss me."

The three-man crew completed the 20,000-mile flight in 78 hours and 55 minutes, an unofficial record for the round-the-world jaunt.

They will fly back East tonight to keep an appointment with President Truman, set for 11:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

The "Bombshell" flew the 600 miles from Washington in two hours and 20 minutes, the pilot, Capt. William Odom said. It arrived in Chicago at 8:02 p. m. (CST).

The trip to Chicago was arranged after Reynolds arrived too late in Washington from New York today for an appointment with President Truman.

Ford Will Be Asked To Testify On Prices

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) disclosed today that Henry Ford II, grandson of the late industrial wizard, will be asked to counsel Congress on what to do about high prices.

Taft, as chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report, said that Ford and Fowler McCormick, of the International Harvester Company, will be called to testify. They have recently cut some prices.

"Queen" Undamaged

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 16 (AP)—Capt C. M. Ford, master of the Queen Elizabeth, said tonight that the grounding of the 85,000-ton liner off Southampton had been due to no mechanical fault and that the ship was "undamaged."

BLOWN 200 FEET—This fire engine was blown partly onto the deck of a ship — a 200-foot travel — in yesterday's terrific explosion at Texas City, Tex.

left by chartered plane late today for the Texas explosion area, where one of the firm's plants was destroyed.

Rand, who was in Springfield to attend a meeting of Monsanto officials, scheduled for tonight, had no comment on the disaster.

Nitrate Explosion Rare

ATLANTIC CITY, April 16—(AP)—Du Pont explosives experts at the American Chemical Society convention said today that although explosions of the fertilizer ammonium nitrate are rare, they are not mysterious.

In manufacture, great care is used to get the ammonium nitrate very pure, because then it is considered safe, but only a small amount of organic contamination will make it a sensitive explosion.

Ordinarily the white powder, which is the final form as the fertilizer comes from the synthetic plants, is shipped in waterproof bags or in barrels. The waterproofing of bags might, they said, carry unsuspected contaminants to get into the fertilizer.

ly-guarded conference, and gave no indication of yielding any position on Germany thus far set forth by Molotov in the Foreign Ministers meetings.

Usually responsible sources said no commitments of any kind were made last night, either by Marshall or Stalin, and no compromise suggestions were advanced.

The belief grew, therefore, that Stalin was content to let the German question go on to another council session without a major settlement, meanwhile studying the political effect to see if the Russians would benefit from the situation.

the dead to search for the injured who were not beyond medical help.

Bulldozers were busy plowing emergency access roads into the site of the blast, as disaster workers picked through the smoking ruins, seeking.

A heavy cloud of smoke hung over the scene, shot with flashes of flame from the fires that still raged along the waterfront.

Jew-Arab Clash Before U.N. Seen

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 16—A major clash at the forthcoming special Palestine session of the United Nations Assembly appeared to be shaping up tonight as Jewish and Arab leaders mapped their strategy amid increasing world tension over the Holy Land problem.

Jewish Agency officials were busy in New York on two controversial proposals for submission to Secretary-General Trygve Lie, while leaders of the Arab states drafted their plans in Damascus for the April 28 session at Flushing.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency, official voice of Palestine Jews, said the Assembly would be asked formally to provide for Jewish representation in the discussions and for immediate opening of Palestine to Jewish immigration. An Arab spokesman said these proposals would meet strong opposition.

The American Jewish Conference, which claims to represent 62 national Jewish organizations, said it had sent a letter to Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson demanding that the United States delegation take the position that the Jewish Agency be represented on the proposed commission of inquiry, if Britain and the Arab states were represented.

Wealthy Cuban Comes To Dancer's Assistance

HAVANA, April 16—(AP)—Because Patricia Schmidt is "a very pretty girl," a Cuban millionaire promised today to do everything he could to help her defense against charges of homicide in the shooting of John Lester Mee, Chicago attorney.

Hotel Owner Amleto Battisto, explaining his interest in the 21-year-old Toledo, Ohio, dancing girl, said: "She is alone and in very serious trouble. She needs help and I can help her. Besides, she is a very pretty girl."

Miss Schmidt, known professionally as Satira, will be removed from Guanabaco prison tomorrow for a re-enactment of the events leading up to the shooting, aboard the 72-foot yacht Satira, owned by Mee and his wartime shipmate, Charles Jackson, 27, of River Forest, Ill.

Jackson, indicted on a charge of withholding facts about the shooting, also will be taken aboard for the re-enactment.

School And Roads Bills Are Signed By Md. Governor

285 More Measures Approved By Lane

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 16 (AP) — Gov. Lane today signed 285 bills affecting a wide area of state functions, including the administration's extensive school and roads programs.

Another 416 measures passed by the last General Assembly await the Governor's action. Some are controversial and Lane indicated he may call hearings before making a final decision on them.

Besides acts raising the pay of teachers and changing the method of distributing school funds, and those launching the state on a $163,000,000 bridge and highway construction program, important bills signed today will:

Implement some of the Sherbow Commission recommendations on redistribution of taxes.

Permit women to serve on juries in Baltimore City and 11 counties.

Set up a new alcoholic beverage code for the state.

Provide new rules for the State Racing Commission.

Allow Baltimore and 10 counties to control rents.

Elgin's Term Ends June 30

End the term of Motor Vehicles Commissioner W. Lee Elgin June 30.

Call for a vote on a constitutional amendment to have annual instead of biennial sessions of the Legislature.

Set up a commission on uniform accounts in the state and make fiscal practices in the local units uniform.

The Chief Executive also signed Senate and House resolutions directing him and the Board of Public Works to cut the $219,000,000 budget by $1,000,000 in the next two years.

One of the school bills sets the minimum teachers' pay scale at $2,000 to $3,600 for those without degrees, and $200 more for those with degrees. The pay of principals, supervising teachers and superintendents was also raised. Local units could up the salaries at will.

State school moneys will be alloted on the basis of $20 per pupil and $400 per classroom unit, the equalization fund tax rate is increased from 56 to 65 cents and supervisors of pupil personnel will replace, in larger number, the present attendance officers.

$139,000,000 For Roads Commission

By two of the bills signed today, the State Roads Commission will receive $139,000,000 in the next five years for highway construction and self-liquidating bridge and tunnel projects are authorized. Foremost among the latter is the proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge, estimated to cost $24,000,000.

Included in the roads measure are provisions that the gasoline tax be raised to five cents and that members of the Roads Commission serve at the pleasure of the Governor rather than by fixed terms.

One of the new revenue distribution measures gives Baltimore City and the counties 1.5 per cent of individual investment income taxes and .625 per cent of the rest of the income tax payments. The counties must share with incorporated cities and towns revenues from persons who live there.

Anti-Sales Tax Suit Is Launched

BALTIMORE, April 16 (AP)—Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney, went to court today in an attempt to get Maryland's new two per cent sales tax invalidated before it goes into effect July 1.

He based his suit on a contention that Gov. Lane coerced members of the General Assembly to pass it last month after they once voted it down.

In Annapolis, the Governor said the allegations are "ridiculous."

Pressman filed suit in Baltimore Supreme Court and asked a declaratory judgment that the sales tax is "invalid, unconstitutional and unenforceable."

Gov. Lane and State Comptroller James J. Lacy were named defendants. Under court procedure, they must file an answer by May 27.

Pressman's petition said the House of Delegates once voted down the sales tax but that the Governor "forced the ostensible passage of the said purported law by the legislature of Maryland against the will of the majority of its members by coercing various members of the Legislature of Maryland."

lief work and sent 30 disaster experts to the scene.

Records of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Washington showed that the disaster was the country's worst, in lives lost, in the last 10 years. The next worst, the Atlantic coast hurricane of September, 1938, took 68 lives.

It was Texas' second major disaster within a week. A tornado swept the Panhandle and Northwestern Oklahoma last Wednesday, killing 132 persons in the two states. Relief workers still stationed in the storm area rushed to the scene of the new calamity, hundreds of miles to the south.

The huge plant of the Monsanto Chemical Company, built in wartime to make styrene, an ingredient of synthetic rubber, was reported completely destroyed.

35 Workers Trapped in Plant

Fires still were raging in the Monsanto plant late today and firefighters could hear the screams of some workers trapped inside. One Monsanto worker estimated that 35 employes were imprisoned. Rescue was impossible because of the heat and flames.

The blast shook the Texas coast for a distance of more than 110 miles, and was so severe that windows were shattered at Galveston, 11 miles across the bay, and plaster was knocked from ceilings of buildings there.

Many persons there fled from buildings fearing a major earthquake had occurred.

At New York, the Coast Guard said it had reports from its Texas units that as many as 1,000 persons may be dead and from 2,000 to 3,500 injured.

Poisonous gas was reported to be infiltrating the still-burning community late today. The National Guard was called out to help control the emergency.

The original explosion occurred on the Grandcamp, French ship loaded with nitrate. The second was at the nearby muti-million dollar Monsanto Chemical Corporation plant, now in ruins.

Others followed quickly and flames broke out, raging unchecked because of damage to the water system.

Chaos Follows Explosions

Port Arthur and Orange, 100 miles distant, said the blast was audible and that buildings rocked. At Pelly, 27 miles away, a man said the sound "hurt my eardrums."

Efforts to estimate the death and injury list were more difficult by the chaos that followed, and by disrupted communications. Authough the telephone union ordered all strikers back on their jobs, lines were damaged and few were operating.

The scene here was one of chaos. Residents were stunned and stumbled about the debris dazed with the pain of burns, and cuts from glass and steel and brick hurtled through the air.

The explosion was the worst in Texas history, exceeding even the New London School explosion in 1937 when 294 school children were killed. It was the second worst disaster in Texas history, trailing only the Galveston hurricane in 1900 when between 5,000 and 8,000 died.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester flew to the area to help direct relief and rescue workers who poured into Texas City from Galveston, Houston, Austin, San Antonio, and other cities.

Relief mobilized so quickly Capt. Glenn Rose, of the State Highway Patrol, said at 2 p. m. that no additional doctors and nurses were needed.

Ship Fire Attracted Hundreds

The explosion aboard the Grandcamp followed a fire which had attracted several hundred curious to the docks to watch fire fighters. Scores of those on the docks were killed.

The Galveston Tribune said all aboard the Grandcamp were killed and the ship was a total loss. The huge Monsanto plant was in ruins, the paper said. Many of the casualties occurred there.

The explosion rocked an area about 300 miles in diameter, reports indicated.

W. H. Sanberg, vice president of the Texas City Terminal Railway company, had left the Grandcamp just five minutes before the explosion. He said the concussion was "simply terrible."

"It blew out windows of every home in town. It blew in ceilings in business buildings. It cracked new buildings from end to end. Doors were blown from their hinges."

Devastation, he said, was terrible. He said the Monsanto plant "doesn't exist any more."

Refinery and dock workers, many with bandages on their heads, arms and legs worked side by side with police and emergency crews searching for the dead and injured.

A police captain said there was no set plan for accomplishing the grim task.

"We just have to work in areas at least momentarily out of danger, at the same time hoping that we can soon start toward sections we know to be hardest hit but still blanketed with fire, gas and smoke," he commented.

He said the dock area immediately adjacent to the scene of the original explosion "still contains about 400 people but we just can't reach them, though there is probably little hope for their safety."

If his belief is correct, the death toll probably will approach the 1,000 mark.

J. A. O'Connell, of Alvin, said that he had arrived only a short while after the explosion.

"Since then I've inspected every building in the business district and there isn't a one that has not been damaged."

He said he had picked up pieces of the ship on which the explosion occurred 19 blocks away from the scene.

Vessel Sends Out SOS After Ramming Lightship

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. April 16—(AP)—Barnegat coast guardsmen put to a foggy sea in a small boat shortly before midnight tonight to go to the aid of crew members of the 185-foot motor tug, Great Isaac, which sent out an SOS at 11:20 p. m. (EST) stating it had rammed the Barnegat lightship.

The lightship, a 130-foot craft anchored eight miles out to guard the treacherous Barnegat shoals, tore a hole in the port side of the 1,117-ton single-crew Great Isaac, her radio reported. Crew members of the tug were reported abandoning ship.

Spending Controls Sought

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — Sen. Tydings (D-Md) introduced a resolution today for a constitutional amendment to control peacetime federal expenditures.

EXPLOSION DAMAGE—The initial shipboard explosion in the harbor at Texas City, Tex., yesterday caused the above damage. The blast was felt for 150 miles and set off a chain of explosions which took hundreds of lives.

AP Meeting Is Set For Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., April 16. (AP)—The Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press and West Virginia members of the Associated Press will hold a joint meeting in Charles Town May 17 for a discussion of mutual problems involving operation of news service in the two states, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by Editor Brooks Cottle, of the Morgantown Post, chairman of the West Virginia members, and Editor Oscar L. Morris, of the Salisbury Times, chairman of the Chesapeake Association, which includes members in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The members will meet in the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in this historic Eastern Panhandle town. The Chesapeake Association will hold a session the morning of May 17 under the leadership of Morris to discuss Maryland and Washington news handling, go over coverage of the recent session of the Maryland Legislature and study operations of the Baltimore and Annapolis bureaus.

The West Virginia members will hold a similar session in charge of Cottle in the early afternoon.

two Pennsylvania companies—Fort Collieries and Buckeye Coal—which had claimed that the workers are employes of the government.

They had based this view on the Supreme Court decision of March 6 in the Lewis contempt case.

But the NLRB said the Supreme Court ruled the miners to be government employes only for the purpose of interpreting the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction law, which prohibits a private employer from getting a labor injunction but does not prohibit the government from doing so to block a strike by its own employes.

World Fliers Pay Visit To Chicago

CHICAGO, April 16—(AP)—Milton Reynolds and the crew of his globe-girdling "Bombshell" visited Chicago tonight and planned to return to Washington to see President Truman tomorrow.

The Chicago pen manufacturer greeted a crowd of his Chicago plant employes with a worried:

"What about that first shift? What are you girls doing here?"

Also on hand at Municipal Airport was Reynolds' daughter, Mrs. Julian Levy.

When one of the workers shouted that they had missed their employer, Reynolds retorted:

"I wasn't gone long enough for anyone to miss me."

The three-man crew completed the 20,000-mile flight in 78 hours and 55 minutes, an unofficial record for the round-the-world jaunt.

They will fly back East tonight to keep an appointment with President Truman, set for 11:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

The "Bombshell" flew the 600 miles from Washington in two hours and 20 minutes, the pilot, Capt. William Odom said. It arrived in Chicago at 8:02 p. m. (CST).

The trip to Chicago was arranged after Reynolds arrived too late in Washington from New York today for an appointment with President Truman.

Ford Will Be Asked To Testify On Prices

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) disclosed today that Henry Ford II, grandson of the late industrial wizard, will be asked to counsel Congress on what to do about high prices.

Taft, as chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report, said that Ford and Fowler McCormick, of the International Harvester Company, will be called to testify. They have recently cut some prices.

"Queen" Undamaged

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 16 (AP)—Capt C. M. Ford, master of the Queen Elizabeth, said tonight that the grounding of the 85,000-ton liner off Southampton had been due to no mechanical fault and that the ship was "undamaged."

left by chartered plane late today for the Texas explosion area, where one of the firm's plants was destroyed.

Rand, who was in Springfield to attend a meeting of Monsanto officials, scheduled for tonight, had no comment on the disaster.

Nitrate Explosion Rare

ATLANTIC CITY, April 16—(AP)—Du Pont explosives experts at the American Chemical Society convention said today that although explosions of the fertilizer ammonium nitrate are rare, they are not mysterious.

In manufacture, great care is used to get the ammonium nitrate very pure, because then it is considered safe, but only a small amount of organic contamination will make it a sensitive explosion.

Ordinarily the white powder, which is the final form as the fertilizer comes from the synthetic plants, is shipped in waterproof bags or in barrels. The waterproofing of bags might, they said, carry unsuspected contaminants to get into the fertilizer.

ly-guarded conference, and gave no indication of yielding any position on Germany thus far set forth by Molotov in the Foreign Ministers meetings.

Usually responsible sources said no commitments of any kind were made last night, either by Marshall or Stalin, and no compromise suggestions were advanced.

The belief grew, therefore, that Stalin was content to let the German question go on to another council session without a major settlement, meanwhile studying the political effect to see if the Russians would benefit from the situation.

Bulldozers were busy plowing emergency access roads into the site of the blast, as disaster workers picked through the smoking ruins, seeking.

A heavy cloud of smoke hung over the scene, shot with flashes of flame from the fires that still raged along the waterfront.

Jew-Arab Clash Before U.N. Seen

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 16—A major clash at the forthcoming special Palestine session of the United Nations Assembly appeared to be shaping up tonight as Jewish and Arab leaders mapped their strategy amid increasing world tension over the Holy Land problem.

Jewish Agency officials were busy in New York on two controversial proposals for submission to Secretary-General Trygve Lie, while leaders of the Arab states drafted their plans in Damascus for the April 28 session at Flushing.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency, official voice of Palestine Jews, said the Assembly would be asked formally to provide for Jewish representation in the discussions and for immediate opening of Palestine to Jewish immigration. An Arab spokesman said these proposals would meet strong opposition.

The American Jewish Conference, which claims to represent 62 national Jewish organizations, said it had sent a letter to Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson demanding that the United States delegation take the position that the Jewish Agency be represented on the proposed commission of inquiry, if Britain and the Arab states were represented.

Wealthy Cuban Comes To Dancer's Assistance

HAVANA, April 16—(AP)—Because Patricia Schmidt is "a very pretty girl," a Cuban millionaire promised today to do everything he could to help her defense against charges of homicide in the shooting of John Lester Mee, Chicago attorney.

Hotel Owner Amleto Battisto, explaining his interest in the 21-year-old Toledo, Ohio, dancing girl, said:

"She is alone and in very serious trouble. She needs help and I can help her. Besides, she is a very pretty girl."

Miss Schmidt, known professionally as Satira, will be removed from Guanabaco prison tomorrow for a re-enactment of the events leading up to the shooting, aboard the 72-foot yacht Satira, owned by Mee and his wartime shipmate, Charles Jackson, 27, of River Forest, Ill.

Jackson, indicted on a charge of withholding facts about the shooting, also will be taken aboard for the re-enactment.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

BALTIMORE, April 16. — What goes with our heroes? Now it's Don Ameche who is parking his smile, his genial personality and his inventor's kit, to play a cold-blooded murderer in "Sleep My Love" for Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers. I couldn't be more surprised if Shirley Temple did a strip-tease. Ameche, who has always been a model of screen decorum, takes on the character of a cynical young socialite who decides to do away with his wife.

George Raft

Well, there seems to be a cycle of good boys going (movie) bad these days. Tyrone Power certainly gets a change of pace in "Nightmare Alley" and Gregory Peck was no rose-geranium in "Duel In The Sun."

If Cornel Wilde ever turns in his make-up kit, it will be for a typewriter. He's just written an original called "Hector" about a shy young man who inherits a harem. Don Hartman, who is producing the current Wilde movie, "I Found A Dream" (with Ginger Rogers at Columbia), likes it so well he wants to buy it. No, not for Cornel—but for Danny Kaye.

Cornell's other opus was the life of Lord Byron which he wrote and sold to 20th. Yep, there's a pretty good chance he will star in that one himself.

I see Everett Crosby around New York everywhere I go. The reason he's remaining so long is that Florence George, his blonde wife, is resuming her operatic career with the blessing of both Everett and Brother Bing.

Florence will sing the leading role in a Broadway musical called "Song Without Words," featuring Tschaikowsky's music and produced by Hazard Short and Hollywood's own Henry Duffy.

Who do you think is teaching Florence to warble? None other than Galli-Curci.

Lew Schreiber and James Mason had quite a talk at the Stork Club the other night about "Fanny By Gaslight", a picture that 20th Century-Fox has had Mason signed for for over a year. It has been held up for censor reasons. "Maybe it's right," says Mason, "because it makes sin glamorous."

Mason told a funny story about a picture. He said he was in Germany and they had to eliminate a cuss word and substitute another line. They used another actor's voice which Mason didn't like at all, and I don't think I can blame him.

Rita Hayworth sails today on the S.S. Veendam for a four months' tour of Europe, incidentally, her first trip.

Before she left, Rita took a look at "The Lady From Shanghai," the movie she was making just before her rift with O. Welles and which he directed. I hear it is the most dramatic thing she has ever done and that it ends forever the idea that she's just a beautiful ex-cover girl. Well, Rita was personally unhappy enough to be dramatic while it was being made.

Maybe there is something in the idea of an actress living a role, after all.

Lunched at the Pavilion with Anita Loos, Lillian Gish and Mrs. Howard Gould. As I was leaving I saw Artur Rubinstein, who told me he had just finished recording Leith Stevens' beautiful music for "Memory of Love" for Harriet Parsons' R.K.O. picture.

Lillian Gish told me that she was going to a Greek party with Fredric March and Florence Eldridge. Freddy's play, "Years Ago," will be staged in Greece.

Mrs. Gould wore a beautiful watch that once belonged to Sarah Bernhardt.

Snapshots of Hollywood and New York collected at random:—George Raft and Leo Durocher, who used to be buddies, are no longer speaking. Their suspension of friendship happened, however, long before Happy Chandler's edict against Lippy.

Lew Ayers and Janis Paige a chanteclair twosome on the coast.

Maurice Chevalier has been offered the male lead in "One Touch of Venus" by Mary Pickford and Lester Cowan—and he's interested.

Al Lewis is back from Europe and heads home shortly.

When Hal Wallis sailed for England he took along enough canned butter, bacon and other foodstuffs to last him the four months he plans to be gone. He has an ice box in his hotel suite, natch.

In the Champagne Room the other evening, Constance Talmadge was dining with George Rosenberg—which reminds me that George is getting married as soon as he gets back to Hollywood.

The Charlie Chaplins and the William Saroyans were at a table in the dimly-lit Champagne Room. They are the most constant foursome in town.

Mike Todd is trying to get Lena Horne to appear in a stage musical version of "Strange Fruit". There's a rumor that Mike and Universal-International are soon parting company—but I haven't been able to verify this.

Frank Sinatra and Skitch Henderson went to a Sunday afternoon concert at Carnegie Hall—Frankie to soothe his nerves and Skitch to accompany "The Voice." I thought he looked very bad when he stopped in to see me at the Waldorf Towers. He's so unhappy about his recent headline happenings—and don't let anyone tell you he isn't.

William T. Crespinel, president of Cinecolor, is a grandfather. His daughter welcomed an eight-pound baby boy Monday.

Everyone is rooting that Claude Thornhill's reissue of "A Small Hotel" will be one of the recording hits of the year because he's not only a wonderful musician but piled up a fine record as a Navy Band leader in the Pacific during the war.

Lynn Ashley, the comedienne, who has been doing all right for herself in "The Student Prince" in Baltimore, is the sister of Harry Revel, the song writer.

That's all today.

The giant meteor which struck in Siberia in 1908 created an air wave which blew the water from rivers and lakes.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

BALTIMORE, April 16. — What goes with our heroes? Now it's Don Ameche who is parking his smile, his genial personality and his inventor's kit, to play a cold-blooded murderer in "Sleep My Love" for Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers. I couldn't be more surprised if Shirley Temple did a strip-tease. Ameche, who has always been a model of screen decorum, takes on the character of a cynical young socialite who decides to do away with his wife.

George Raft

Well, there seems to be a cycle of good boys going (movie) bad these days. Tyrone Power certainly gets a change of pace in "Nightmare Alley" and Gregory Peck was no rose-geranium in "Duel In The Sun."

If Cornel Wilde ever turns in his make-up kit, it will be for a typewriter. He's just written an original called "Hector" about a shy young man who inherits a harem. Don Hartman, who is producing the current Wilde movie, "I Found A Dream" (with Ginger Rogers at Columbia), likes it so well he wants to buy it. No, not for Cornel—but for Danny Kaye.

Cornell's other opus was the life of Lord Byron which he wrote and sold to 20th. Yep, there's a pretty good chance he will star in that one himself.

I see Everett Crosby around New York everywhere I go. The reason he's remaining so long is that Florence George, his blonde wife, is resuming her operatic career with the blessing of both Everett and Brother Bing.

Florence will sing the leading role in a Broadway musical called "Song Without Words," featuring Tschaikowsky's music and produced by Hazard Short and Hollywood's own Henry Duffy.

Who do you think is teaching Florence to warble? None other than Galli-Curci.

Lew Schreiber and James Mason had quite a talk at the Stork Club the other night about "Fanny By Gaslight", a picture that 20th Century-Fox has had Mason signed for for over a year. It has been held up for censor reasons. "Maybe it's right," says Mason, "because it makes sin glamorous."

Mason told a funny story about a picture. He said he was in Germany and they had to eliminate a cuss word and substitute another line. They used another actor's voice which Mason didn't like at all, and I don't think I can blame him.

Rita Hayworth sails today on the S.S. Veendam for a four months' tour of Europe, incidentally, her first trip.

KEYSER, W. Va., April 16 — Charles Kuykendall Wilson, Jr., 52, died Tuesday afternoon at the Umstot and Wilson store in Burlington, from a gun-shot wound inflicted himself. He had been working about the store apparently as usual through the day. His sister, Miss Louise Wilson, who was passing the back of the store, discovered his body lying in the door of dairy building formerly used in connection with the store; Miss Wilson notified her brother, George, who in turn notified the sheriff's office of the tragedy.

C. K. Wilson, Jr., served in the Marine Corps during World War I. Since his return to civil life his close attention to business and fair dealing with the general public marked him as outstanding among the younger business men of the county.

Services will be held at the home in Burlington at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. Frank L. Baker, cousin of Mr. Wilson, Methodist minister of Richmond, Va., officiating. Assisting will be the Rev. Ben Reed and the Rev. Paul Artis, Presbyterian and Methodist ministers of Burlington. Interment will be made in the Burlington cemetery.

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., April 16—A Morgan County coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide in connection with the death of Wiliam Henry Coleman, 33, Springfield, W. Va., who died last Saturday of gunshot wounds while en route to a Martinsburg Hospital.

State Trooper J. R. Wolfe, Berkeley Springs, said the verdict was issued by Justice of the Peace L. M. Yost, acting coroner of Morgan County, after a coroner's jury investigated Sunday.

Coleman, a B. and O. carpenter, had been living in Berkeley Springs and shot himself at the home of Mrs. Minnie Henry, Berkeley Springs, Saturday about 5:45 p. m., county authorities said.

C. K. Wilson, Jr., served in the Marine Corps during World War I. Since his return to civil life his close attention to business and fair dealing with the general public marked him as outstanding among the younger business men of the county.

Services will be held at the home in Burlington at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. Frank L. Baker, cousin of Mr. Wilson, Methodist minister of Richmond, Va., officiating. Assisting will be the Rev. Ben Reed and the Rev. Paul Artis, Presbyterian and Methodist ministers of Burlington. Interment will be made in the Burlington cemetery.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

RADIO'S BAD GIRL

According to the rigid rules of respectability which rule the theater as the Brahmins rule Boston, Fannie Brice was a great artist when she was the leading clown of the New York stage; when she took to radio, her name was stricken from the social register. The caste system in the entertainment world is immutable. On the stage, you're an artist, in the movies you're an actor, on the radio you're a ham. It's a heck of a way to run a democracy.

Fannie Brice

While radio has limited Miss Brice's magnificent versatility and blacked out her preposterous grimaces, it hasn't discernably affected her in any other way. Her timing is as perfect as that of any comedian in radio and her comic inflections are matchless.

"You don't take me for a fool, do you?" shouts her tormented father Launcelot Higgins on the Baby Snooks show (CBS 8 p. m. EST Fridays). "Well. . . .do you?"

"Don't I?" says this terrible child. Miss Brice, in those two words, is amused, affectionate, and contemptuous all at once.

Your reaction to the Baby Snooks show should be predetermined by your reaction to terrible tots in general. I was brought up on "A Story Of A Bad Boy" and "Peck's Bad Boy" and Snooks is their female counterpart; at least, that's the way I think of her. She is the eternal nuisance, indulging in mischief for its own sake.

Her mortal enemy is a good little girl named Rosemary Jackson, who says "father, dear" and gets excellent in deportment at school. When Snooks tangles with this horrible little sweetmeat, you get an inverted morality play in which evil always triumphs over good. Anyway, Snooks is rarely ever defeated in these contests. As a character, she is broader, more sophisticated and more precocious than any child you'll ever encounter, thank goodness. But then, so is Charlie McCarthy.

The Baby Snooks show has more plot than most radio shows and most of them are skillfully developed. It's old style comedy writing starting with a single situation which winds its way inexorably to total disaster just like a Greek tragedy. The tragedy almost always strikes her father, who has easily the most harassed voice in radio and is one of the most fully realized comedy characters in radio. When he shouts "You little monster!", the suffering in his voice is more intense than anything outside soap opera.

Baby Snooks also has a terrible childhood logic which traps her father in his own adult inconsistencies.

"As long as you're singing, you're not going to accomplish anything," says Higgins when his daughter tries to wangle something from him. "As long as I'm singing, neither are you," says this dreadful child.

"Oho—so it's war, is it?" yells Higgins.

"Oho—yes it is," says Snooks.

Baby Snooks, I'm afraid, is not a universal taste. Some of my friends suffer almost as terribly as father when she's on the air. I still think she's wonderful but I hope I never encounter anyone like her. Incidentally, the Jello advertising is integrated right into the show and the commercials are discreet, amusing and almost a model of good radio advertising.

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

"Don't I?" says this terrible child. Miss Brice, in those two words, is amused, affectionate, and contemptuous all at once.

Your reaction to the Baby Snooks show should be predetermined by your reaction to terrible tots in general. I was brought up on "A Story Of A Bad Boy" and "Peck's Bad Boy" and Snooks is their female counterpart; at least, that's the way I think of her. She is the eternal nuisance, indulging in mischief for its own sake.

Her mortal enemy is a good little girl named Rosemary Jackson, who says "father, dear" and gets excellent in deportment at school. When Snooks tangles with this horrible little sweetmeat, you get an inverted morality play in which evil always triumphs over good. Anyway, Snooks is rarely ever defeated in these contests. As a character, she is broader, more sophisticated and more precocious than any child you'll ever encounter, thank goodness. But then, so is Charlie McCarthy.

The Baby Snooks show has more plot than most radio shows and most of them are skillfully developed. It's old style comedy writing starting with a single situation which winds its way inexorably to total disaster just like a Greek tragedy. The tragedy almost always strikes her father, who has easily the most harassed voice in radio and is one of the most fully realized comedy characters in radio. When he shouts "You little monster!", the suffering in his voice is more intense than anything outside soap opera.

Baby Snooks also has a terrible childhood logic which traps her father in his own adult inconsistencies.

"As long as you're singing, you're not going to accomplish anything," says Higgins when his daughter tries to wangle something from him. "As long as I'm singing, neither are you," says this dreadful child.

"Oho—so it's war, is it?" yells Higgins.

"Oho—yes it is," says Snooks.

Baby Snooks, I'm afraid, is not a universal taste. Some of my friends suffer almost as terribly as father when she's on the air. I still think she's wonderful but I hope I never encounter anyone like her. Incidentally, the Jello advertising is integrated right into the show and the commercials are discreet, amusing and almost a model of good radio advertising.

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

LaSalle Tossers Top Moorefield, 6 To 4

Dick Leo Belts Homer, Pat Creegan Fans Nine

Collins Steals Home; Ten Losers Stranded

Chasing two runs over the platter to break a tie score in the sixth inning, LaSalle High School celebrated the opening of the local scholastic baseball season yesterday by defeating Moorefield (W. Va.) High School by the score of 6 to 4 at Community Park.

Bob Deffenbaugh's walk and stolen base and Johnny Vance's wild throw to first on Pat Creegan's infield tap produced the run which broke a 4-4 deadlock. Then Jimmie Collins drove in Creegan with the "insurance" tally with a hot single to center, his third safety of the game.

Moorefield nicked the offerings of "Lefty" Creegan for eight safeties and worked the local southpaw for four passes but lost the game through inability to connect in the pinches, having a total of ten players stranded on the hassocks in the seven-inning tilt. The Explorers' portsider struck out nine batsmen—Dwight Kessel being victimized thrice, Vance and Thomas twice each, and Smith and Harman, once.

Brother Declan's ash wielders touched Bob Keller for seven blows, including a mighty homer to the centerfield fence by Richard "Dick" Leo, freshman keystone sacker, with none aboard in the second inning, and Jimmie Collins' triple in the third. Leo's homer came after two of his mates were thrown out attempting to steal second base. Johnny Esposito beat out an infield hit and was cut down at second on Don Smith's nice throw to Vance. Deffenbaugh drew a pass and then was eliminated via the Smith to Vance route.

Moorefield scored one run in the first frame on singles by Smith and George Hott, Deffenbaugh's passed ball and Creegan's wild pitch. LaSalle knotted the count in its half of the initial frame on Reissig's hit, a fielders' choice and wild throw by Thomas.

Sherman's two-base clout, Thomas' walk and Raines' fielders' choice filled the bases for Moorefield in the second and Creegan passed Vance to force Sherman over the plate. After Smith hit into a double play, Esposito to Deffenbaugh to Close, Vance raced to second and gave the Hardy countians a 3-1 edge by scoring on Hott's base hit to right. Close snared Keller's grounder for a force out at third to end the rally.

Execute Double Steal

Leo's circuit belt put LaSalle one run in the rear in the second frame and his mates tied it up at 3-3 in the third, thanks to a daring double steal perpetrated by Collins and Reissig. The former led off with a triple when Harman misjudged his fly in deep left. After Beck was out for being struck by his own batted ball, Reissig drew a base on balls. The latter beat Smith's peg to second and Collins swiped homeplate to tie the score.

LaSalle took a 4-3 lead in the fourth when Bernard Beck worked Keller for a pass with the bases full to force over a run. Prior to the issuance of the free ticket, Esposito singled. Leo walked and Creegan got a life on a fielders' choice.

An error on an attempted force play at the plate, however, enabled the South Branch nine to square up matters at 4-all in the fifth. Hott, Keller and Harman singled and Hott scored when Deffenbaugh dropped Jim Close's perfect throw at home after the latter had fielded Sherman's grounder.

Moorefield was charged with six errors and three were responsible for LaSalle tallies. Box score:

JOINS BOSOX—Johnny (Grandma) Murphy, who saved many a game for the New York Yankees in the role of relief pitcher, was quietly cast adrift by New York last Saturday and signed by the Boston Red Sox on Monday. When a reporter remarked that he hadn't seen any announcement of the veteran's release by the Yankees the big pitcher grinned as he said: "It wasn't announced. I was just called in by the road secretary and told I was finished."

Bettina, Walcott May Obtain Title Bout With Louis

Yankee Stadium Will Be Scene June 26

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Joe Baksi's refusal to sign for a bout with Joe Louis this year following his impressive seven-round knockout of Bruce Woodcock in London last night has left the Twentieth Century Sporting Club with no alternative but to sign either Jersey Joe Walcott or Melio Bettina to meet the heavyweight champion at Yankee Stadium on June 26.

Sol Strauss, acting director of the club during Promoter Mike Jacobs' illness, expects to huddle here either tomorrow or Friday with Louis and his co-manager, Marshall Miles, and it appeared possible that either Walcott, the veteran Negro, or Bettina, a southpaw, would get the nod within a matter of days.

Louis Wants Fight

Louis declared last night in San Diego that he was prepared to announce his retirement unless a title defense was arranged for him this summer:

"My mind is made up," the 32-year-old champion said, "because a man can go on just so long. If I wait until next year it may be too late, so I am anxious to find out what plans can be worked out for me."

A spokesman for the Twentieth Century said Strauss would welcome an immediate conference with Louis. Since Baksi's refusal to accept either a spring or fall date with the champion, Strauss was understood to be giving Walcott and Bettina about equal consideration for the June bout, to which Louis is committed.

Walcott, father of six children and a long-time trial horse, whipped Baksi decisively two years ago and since has climbed into the forefront of contenders, such as they are.

Lost Two Bouts To Conn

Bettina before the war was a top light-heavyweight and fought two hard, close battles with Billy Conn, though he was on the short end of the decision both times. He returned from the service a full-fledged heavyweight and lately has been beating up everybody in sight. He is rugged, and some critics believe his southpaw tactics might give Louis a few bad moments.

Churchill Downs Construction Work Ordered Stopped

Housing Expediter's Office Cracks Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 16 (AP)—Col. Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, said today that decorations would be completed for 10 new boxes at the horse racing plant here but that other construction work had been halted.

He told Bartlett E. Nutter of Detroit, regional attorney for the office of housing expediter, and Assistant District Attorney Hobson James that the Army had requested two of the boxes for the visitors at the Kentucky Derby, May 3.

Russell Sweeney, resident manager of the Downs, said that "the only way we could accommodate this party was by decorating these boxes."

The Downs president said he understood some of the boxes were to be used by the Army for a visiting delegation "from either Arabia or Egypt" and by "senators, congressmen, governors and other dignitaries" attending the Kentucky Derby.

Nutter said he had recommended criminal prosecution of the Downs for what he said was unauthorized construction at the racing plant. The Civilian Production Administration ordered all construction work halted at the Downs three weeks ago for failure to obtain a permit.

Nutter said most of the evidence obtained by federal investigators was turned over to the district attorney's office today.

"The case now belongs to the district attorney," Nutter said, "and what he does with it is entirely up to him."

Louis J. Herrmann, Downs vice-president, denied any willfull violations and said materials used would not hamper the government's building program.

Herod the Great, king of Judea, loved his wife, Mariamne, passionately, but because of his consuming jealousy Mariamne was executed.

EVEN DR. KILDARE COULDN'T DO IT

WAKE FOREST, N. C.—(AP)—Here's one they tell about D. C. (Peahead) Walker, head football coach at Wake Forest—

It seems that the Peahead's football forces were having a tough time with the oppositiaon, and after one play, a Wake Forest lineman failed to get up. A doctor rushed onto the field and worked over the injured player for several minutes before Peahead went out. The doctor told Walker the player would have to be carried off the field.

"What do you mean, drag 'im off the field?" Walker moaned. "I'm short on reserves."

"Yea, but he's hurt badly," the doctor pleaded, "and he can't walk. He can't even breathe."

"Hell's bells," roared Walker, "you're a doctor. Make 'im breathe."

2,250 Are Stocked; Distribute Turkeys

KEYSER, W. Va., April 16 — The Mineral County Wildlife Protective Association of Keyser has just completed assisting the conservation commission in stocking 2,250 trout in Mineral county streams. Seven hundred and fifty legal size rainbow and 1,500 legal brook trout were released.

The club this week is assisting in the stocking of 45 grown turkeys. Plans are being made for an extensive turkey raising program for the coming year.

The New Creek bass rearing stream, oldest project in the county and one of the most successful in the state, is sponsored by the club. An average of 250 legal size bass are removed from New Creek and placed in other county streams each year. On several occasions brood bass have been donated to the state hatcheries. Success of this protect is due to the untiring efforts of the club members and the great amount of natural food found along this stream.

Newly elected officers of the association include L. Connie Shuck, president; G. M. Michael, first vice president; James D. Emmart, second vice president; Lewis L. Blackburn, secretary; Charles Bobo, treasurer; E. E. Combs, business manager; R. O. Martin and J. R. Welton, delegates to the county council.

The jumping mouse inhabits brushy places by preference, and lays up no store of food in winter, but builds a warm, ball-like nest, placed in some thick bush or within an abandoned bird's nest where it hibernates during the cold months in a dormancy more profound than that of any other American animal.

U. S. Walker Cup Team Will Take Food To Britain

Golfers Will Carry 25-Pound Packages

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Steaks, hams and huge beef roasts will be standard equipment for the U. S. Walker Cup team when it invades the British Isles next month—an innovation which no doubt will come as a pleasant surprise to hard-pressed British ration boards.

"We've decided to take along as much food as we can," said scholarly Joe Dey, executive secretary of the U. S. Golf Association, as he leaned back from a cluttered desk in his pine-paneled office just a chip shot from Park Avenue.

As a result, each team member who leaves on the Queen Elizabeth next week to resume the international competition with Britain's best amateur golfers at St. Andrews, May 16 and 17, will carry a 25-pound package of muscle-building food along with his clubs and personal baggage. And those accompanied by their wives will take two packages.

In addition, the U. S. G. A. plans to ship 300 pounds of fresh and smoked meat across the Atlantic to insure three square meals a day for the Walker cuppers without having to dip too deeply into Britain's still-rationed food supplies.

The food idea was suggested by Francis Ouimet, non-playing captain and member of every U. S. Walker Cup team since the series was started in 1922. But, like most activities of the U. S. G. A., it falls to Dey to see that the idea is developed and carried out.

Besides Ouimet, the Walker cuppers are National Amateur Champion Ted Bishop of South Natick, Mass., Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C.; George Hamer of Columbus, Ga., Fred Kammer of Grosse Pointe, Mich., Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, Skee Riegel of Upper Darby, Pa., Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash.

Swiss Preparing For 1948 Olympics

BERN, Switzerland, (AP) — The Swiss Olympic Committee has decided formally that Switzerland will participate in the Olympic games of 1948 in London and in St. Moritz, Switzerland.

At a recent meeting here of 23 of the 26 sports organizations affiliated with the committee, Marcel Heninger of Geneva, committee chairman, urged the organizations to begin preparations immediately for the competition in the London games in July, 1948. The 1946-47 winter sports season at St. Moritz is to serve as a training period for the 1948 winter games there.

Lonaconing Will Play At Barton In Sunday Game

Bi-State Loop Teams Will Clash At 3 P. M.

With Lawrence "Larry" McKenzie making his debut as manager, the Lonaconing Republican Club baseball team will make its initial appearance of the 1947 season when the Barton American Legion nine is met on Sunday at 3 p. m. in Barton.

It will be an exhibition game between Bi-State League teams. The league season will get under way on Sunday, April 27.

Warnick Heads Barton

Barton is managed by Gilbert Warnick.

Lonaconing's lineup will include 1946 holdovers such as "Babe" Johnson, Macy Cameron, Johnny Meyers, Dale Broadwater and Harry Stafford, Bobby Grove, son of the former major league pitching ace, Claude Steele and Hubert Nicol.

The "big four" of the pitching staff will likely be Grove, Steele, Nicol and Tony Budries. Jim Shockey will do the bulk of the receiving.

Among the promising youngsters with the team this year are Charles Cook, "Fish" Muir, "Sunshine" Green, of Midland, and Charley Gowans.

LaSalle Tossers Top Moorefield, 6 To 4

Dick Leo Belts Homer, Pat Creegan Fans Nine

Collins Steals Home; Ten Losers Stranded

Chasing two runs over the platter to break a tie score in the sixth inning, LaSalle High School celebrated the opening of the local scholastic baseball season yesterday by defeating Moorefield (W. Va.) High School by the score of 6 to 4 at Community Park.

Bob Deffenbaugh's walk and stolen base and Johnny Vance's wild throw to first on Pat Creegan's infield tap produced the run which broke a 4-4 deadlock. Then Jimmie Collins drove in Creegan with the "insurance" tally with a hot single to center, his third safety of the game.

Moorefield nicked the offerings of "Lefty" Creegan for eight safeties and worked the local southpaw for four passes but lost the game through inability to connect in the pinches, having a total of ten players stranded on the hassocks in the seven-inning tilt. The Explorers' portsider struck out nine batsmen—Dwight Kessel being victimized thrice, Vance and Thomas twice each, and Smith and Harman, once.

Brother Declan's ash wielders touched Bob Keller for seven blows, including a mighty homer to the centerfield fence by Richard "Dick" Leo, freshman keystone sacker, with none aboard in the second inning, and Jimmie Collins' triple in the third. Leo's homer came after two of his mates were thrown out attempting to steal second base. Johnny Esposito beat out an infield hit and was cut down at second on Don Smith's nice throw to Vance. Deffenbaugh drew a pass and then was eliminated via the Smith to Vance route.

Moorefield scored one run in the first frame on singles by Smith and George Hott, Deffenbaugh's passed ball and Creegan's wild pitch. LaSalle knotted the count in its half of the initial frame on Reissig's hit, a fielders' choice and wild throw by Thomas.

Sherman's two-base clout, Thomas' walk and Raines' fielders' choice filled the bases for Moorefield in the second and Creegan passed Vance to force Sherman over the plate. After Smith hit into a double play, Esposito to Deffenbaugh to Close, Vance raced to second and gave the Hardy countians a 3-1 edge by scoring on Hott's base hit to right. Close snared Keller's grounder for a force out at third to end the rally.

Execute Double Steal

Leo's circuit belt put LaSalle one run in the rear in the second frame and his mates tied it up at 3-3 in the third, thanks to a daring double steal perpetrated by Collins and Reissig. The former led off with a triple when Harman misjudged his fly in deep left. After Beck was out for being struck by his own batted ball, Reissig drew a base on balls. The latter beat Smith's peg to second and Collins swiped homeplate to tie the score.

LaSalle took a 4-3 lead in the fourth when Bernard Beck worked Keller for a pass with the bases full to force over a run. Prior to the issuance of the free ticket, Esposito singled, Leo walked and Creegan got a life on a fielders' choice.

An error on an attempted force play at the plate, however, enabled the South Branch nine to square up matters at 4-all in the fifth. Hott, Keller and Harman singled and Hott scored when Deffenbaugh dropped Jim Close's perfect throw at home after the latter had fielded Sherman's grounder.

Moorefield was charged with six errors and three were responsible for LaSalle tallies. Box score:

Bettina, Walcott May Obtain Title Bout With Louis

Yankee Stadium Will Be Scene June 26

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Joe Baksi's refusal to sign for a bout with Joe Louis this year following his impressive seven-round knockout of Bruce Woodcock in London last night has left the Twentieth Century Sporting Club with no alternative but to sign either Jersey Joe Walcott or Melio Bettina to meet the heavyweight champion at Yankee Stadium on June 26.

Sol Strauss, acting director of the club during Promoter Mike Jacobs' illness, expects to huddle here either tomorrow or Friday with Louis and his co-manager, Marshall Miles, and it appeared possible that either Walcott, the veteran Negro, or Bettina, a southpaw, would get the nod within a matter of days.

Louis Wants Fight

Louis declared last night in San Diego that he was prepared to announce his retirement unless a title defense was arranged for him this summer:

"My mind is made up," the 32-year-old champion said, "because a man can go on just so long. If I wait until next year it may be too late, so I am anxious to find out what plans can be worked out for me."

A spokesman for the Twentieth Century said Strauss would welcome an immediate conference with Louis. Since Baksi's refusal to accept either a spring or fall date with the champion, Strauss was understood to be giving Walcott and Bettina about equal consideration for the June bout, to which Louis is committed.

Walcott, father of six children and a long-time trial horse, whipped Baksi decisively two years ago and since has climbed into the forefront of contenders, such as they are.

Lost Two Bouts To Conn

Bettina before the war was a top light-heavyweight and fought two hard, close battles with Billy Conn, though he was on the short end of the decision both times. He returned from the service a full-fledged heavyweight and lately has been beating up everybody in sight. He is rugged, and some critics believe his southpaw tactics might give Louis a few bad moments.

Churchill Downs Construction Work Ordered Stopped

Housing Expediter's Office Cracks Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 16 (AP)—Col. Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, said today that decorations would be completed for 10 new boxes at the horse racing plant here but that other construction work had been halted.

He told Bartlett E. Nutter of Detroit, regional attorney for the office of housing expediter, and Assistant District Attorney Hobson James that the Army had requested two of the boxes for the visitors at the Kentucky Derby, May 3.

Russell Sweeney, resident manager of the Downs, said that "the only way we could accommodate this party was by decorating these boxes."

The Downs president said he understood some of the boxes were to be used by the Army for a visiting delegation "from either Arabia or Egypt" and by "senators, congressmen, governors and other dignitaries" attending the Kentucky Derby.

Nutter said he had recommended criminal prosecution of the Downs for what he said was unauthorized construction at the racing plant. The Civilian Production Administration ordered all construction work halted at the Downs three weeks ago for failure to obtain a permit.

Nutter said most of the evidence obtained by federal investigators was turned over to the district attorney's office today.

"The case now belongs to the district attorney," Nutter said, "and what he does with it is entirely up to him."

Louis J. Herrmann, Downs vice-president, denied any willfull violations and said materials used would not hamper the government's building program.

Herod the Great, king of Judea, loved his wife, Mariamne, passionately, but because of his consuming jealousy Mariamne was executed.

WAKE FOREST, N. C.—(AP)—Here's one they tell about D. C. (Peahead) Walker, head football coach at Wake Forest—

It seems that the Peahead's football forces were having a tough time with the oppositiaon, and after one play, a Wake Forest lineman failed to get up. A doctor rushed onto the field and worked over the injured player for several minutes before Peahead went out. The doctor told Walker the player would have to be carried off the field.

"What do you mean, drag 'im off the field?" Walker moaned. "I'm short on reserves."

"Yea, but he's hurt badly," the doctor pleaded, "and he can't walk. He can't even breathe."

"Hell's bells," roared Walker, "you're a doctor. Make 'im breathe."

2,250 Are Stocked; Distribute Turkeys

KEYSER, W. Va., April 16 — The Mineral County Wildlife Protective Association of Keyser has just completed assisting the conservation commission in stocking 2,250 trout in Mineral county streams. Seven hundred and fifty legal size rainbow and 1,500 legal brook trout were released.

The club this week is assisting in the stocking of 45 grown turkeys. Plans are being made for an extensive turkey raising program for the coming year.

The New Creek bass rearing stream, oldest project in the county and one of the most successful in the state, is sponsored by the club. An average of 250 legal size bass are removed from New Creek and placed in other county streams each year. On several occasions brood bass have been donated to the state hatcheries. Success of this protect is due to the untiring efforts of the club members and the great amount of natural food found along this stream.

Newly elected officers of the association include L. Connie Shuck, president; G. M. Michael, first vice president; James D. Emmart, second vice president; Lewis L. Blackburn, secretary; Charles Bobo, treasurer; E. E. Combs, business manager; R. O. Martin and J. R. Welton, delegates to the county council.

The jumping mouse inhabits brushy places by preference, and lays up no store of food in winter, but builds a warm, ball-like nest, placed in some thick bush or within an abandoned bird's nest where it hibernates during the cold months in a dormancy more profound than that of any other American animal.

U. S. Walker Cup Team Will Take Food To Britain

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Steaks, hams and huge beef roasts will be standard equipment for the U. S. Walker Cup team when it invades the British Isles next month—an innovation which no doubt will come as a pleasant surprise to hard-pressed British ration boards.

"We've decided to take along as much food as we can," said scholarly Joe Dey, executive secretary of the U. S. Golf Association, as he leaned back from a cluttered desk in his pine-paneled office just a chip shot from Park Avenue.

As a result, each team member who leaves on the Queen Elizabeth next week to resume the international competition with Britain's best amateur golfers at St. Andrews, May 16 and 17, will carry a 25-pound package of muscle-building food along with his clubs and personal baggage. And those accompanied by their wives will take two packages.

In addition, the U. S. G. A. plans to ship 300 pounds of fresh and smoked meat across the Atlantic to insure three square meals a day for the Walker cuppers without having to dip too deeply into Britain's still-rationed food supplies.

The food idea was suggested by Francis Ouimet, non-playing captain and member of every U. S. Walker Cup team since the series was started in 1922. But, like most activities of the U. S. G. A., it falls to Dey to see that the idea is developed and carried out.

Besides Ouimet, the Walker cuppers are National Amateur Champion Ted Bishop of South Natick, Mass., Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C.; George Hamer of Columbus, Ga., Fred Kammer of Grosse Pointe, Mich., Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, Skee Riegel of Upper Darby, Pa., Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and Bud Ward of Spokane, Wash.

Swiss Preparing For 1948 Olympics

BERN, Switzerland, (AP) — The Swiss Olympic Committee has decided formally that Switzerland will participate in the Olympic games of 1948 in London and in St. Moritz, Switzerland.

The 1946-47 winter sports season at St. Moritz is to serve as a training period for the 1948 winter games there.

Cards Rally In Eighth And Sink Reds, 4-1

Marion Gets Four Hits, Including Four-Bagger

Four-Run Splurge Wins For Champs

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP) —The vaunted sluggers of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals came to life in the eighth inning today to push over four fast runs and defeat the Cincinnati Reds 4-1 before a chilly crowd of 3,410.

MARTY MARION
Cardinals

Coming through with a home run, a single and a double and then another homer in quick succession, the Cards' hitting power through the big eighth was reminiscent of the 1946 pennant race that led them to the world championship.

Marty Marion had a perfect day at bat getting three singles and a two-run homer in four trips to the plate.

Three Baltimore Boxers Indicted On Draft Charges

FBI Arrests Jeffra, Burman And Galiano

BALTIMORE, April 16 (AP) — Two prominent Baltimore boxing figures, Harry Jeffra and James Clarence (Red) Burman, were arrested today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on indictments charging violation of the Selective Service Act.

Also under arrest on similar charges are Nathan E. Phillips, 45, matchmaker for the Garden Athletic Club; Peter C. Galiano, 30, another boxer; and Francis De Orge, 3, a truck driver. All five are residents of Baltimore.

All excepting Galiano were released under $1,000 bail each.

Jeffra, 32, was the only Baltimore fighter ever to hold two world titles, the bantamweight and featherweight crowns.

Burman, also 32, was a protege of Jack Dempsey, and for several years was ranked with the top 10 heavyweights of the country. He faded from the ring scene soon after being knocked out in the fifth round by Champion Joe Louis at Madison Square Garden in 1942.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the Baltimore FBI office, said the men were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury yesterday.

Hallford said that Jeffra, Burman, Galiano and De Orge were deferred as essential war workers.

Burman and Phillips are charged with furnishing false statements to a New York City local board that in September, 1944, Burman was a full-time foreman of the American Ship Cleaning Co., Baltimore. At that time Phillips was personal manager of the ship firm.

Hallford said Jeffra and Phillips gave false information to a Baltimore local board that the boxer was employed in essential work at the shipyard "during the time that Jeffra was actually training for and fighting professional prize fights throughout the United States and Canada."

Burman and Jeffra also were charged with failing to disclose to the local boards that they were not actually engaged in essential war work.

Galiano was accused of failing to advise his local board that he was boxing from 1942 until 1944 while holding a deferment for essential war employment.

Hallford said Galiano actually was about to be inducted in April, 1944, but action was postponed because local board records still showed he was working at the shipyard "when in fact he had left there the previous August and was then engaged in no essential war work."

Hallford said De Orge had been represented as "a highly essential and experienced worker" at the shipyard "on extremely confidential assignments." However, the FBI agent said, De Orge's main occupation during that period was driving a truck.

Galiano was managed most of his career by Benny Trotta, Baltimore, now under indictment here on draft evasion charges.

Trotta, John V. Cataneo, president of the American Ship Cleaning Co., and Vincent Drecchio, a foreman, were indicted in 1945 on charges of making false statements to a local board that Trotta was a foreman supervising loading of ammunition ships.

A year later, in October, 1946, Trotta, Cataneo and Dominic Drecchio, also a foreman, were indicted on charges of presenting to the U. S. Army Transportation Corps false vouchers covering the alleged employment of Trotta by the company.

TED NIPPED AT PLATE—The whole spirit of baseball shouts aloud from this striking action picture as Umpire Summers trumpets "He's out!" The "He" is the great Ted Williams who is being tagged by Catcher Evans of the Washington Senators, at the home plate in the first inning of the Boston Red Sox-Senators opener in Boston. Williams had tried to make home on Bobby Doerr's single. The Red Sox defeated the Senators by the score of 7-6. (International Soundphoto).

Jet Pilot Beats Eight Kentucky Derby Eligibles

Wins By Two Lengths In Mud At Jamaica

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Big and husky Jet Pilot, the $41,000 bargain who was taken out of action last January so he could spend all his time getting ready for the Kentucky Derby, came back today and showed he is all set to take a crack at the $100,000 blue grass jackpot.

What's more, he showed that he won't care what kind of a track it is, come Derby day, because he went out in the slop against eight other Derby candidates at Jamaica this time and took complete charge of the Jamaica Handicap after a quarter of a mile. He splashed home by two lengths over the bad-legged I Will, California radio executive Jay Paley's Kentucky candidate, who probably will not be shipped to Louisville for the big heat. Peace Harbor was third.

And after Johnny Longden sent the Derby dandy of cosmetics queen Elizabeth Graham around the track in a snappy 1:11 3/5 in the six furlongs of slop, he worked out another quarter of a mile. The clockers caught him in 1:41 for the mile, a classy workout on this track, which, with the 22,057 customers, had been absorbing a day long soaking.

With I Will the betting favorite, the Pilot paid his backers at $6.80 for $2 second choice odds. His easy victory was worth $12,500 to him at the paying teller's window, moving him up among the select $100,000-winners set, with a total of $100,330.

Duquesne Arranges Nine Grid Games

PITTSBURGH, April 16 (AP) — Duquesne has added games with Mississippi State and Clemson to its first post-war football schedule this fall.

The nine-game card: Sept. 20, Geneva; 27, Western Reserve; Oct. 5, San Francisco, away; 18, Mississippi State, away; 25, Detroit, away; Nov. 8, Maryland; 15, Clemson, away; 22, Wake Forest, away; 28, St. Louis, away.

McQuillen Released To Toledo Mud Hens

ST. LOUIS, April 16 (AP)—Outfielder Glenn McQuillen was released outright to Toledo and Pitcher Frank Biscan went to the same club on option, the St. Louis Browns announced today.

McQuillen came to St. Louis from Toledo in 1942 and last year hit .221 with the Browns. Biscan, who also joined the Browns in 1942 suffered a sore arm most of last season. Both men went into the Navy in 1943, returning to baseball last year.

There is a Wilson on three spring sports teams at the University of Maryland all from within the State. Bob Wilson, from Mardella Springs, is a starting outfielder on the ball team, Ben Wilson, from Towson, plays defense for the lacrosse ten and Charley Wilson, from Bel Air, runs the quarter for the track squad.

Cards Rally In Eighth And Sink Reds, 4-1

Four-Run Splurge Wins For Champs

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP) —The vaunted sluggers of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals came to life in the eighth inning today to push over four fast runs and defeat the Cincinnati Reds 4-1 before a chilly crowd of 3,410.

MARTY MARION
Cardinals

Coming through with a home run, a single and a double and then another homer in quick succession, the Cards' hitting power through the big eighth was reminiscent of the 1946 pennant race that led them to the world championship.

Marty Marion had a perfect day at bat getting three singles and a two-run homer in four trips to the plate.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear son, William Frederick Kincaid, Sr., who was killed in Germany, April 17, 1945.
Gone But Not Forgotten

Deep in my heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame, I shall keep it
Because he was one of the best.
Oh, what I would give to clasp your hand,
Your dear, kind face to see.
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
In the Book of Life there are memories
Of the happy moments we've known.
You are gone, but the memory you left
Is truly a value untold.

Sadly missed by
THE FAMILY.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking all those who assisted us in establishing a home after our recent disaster. We appreciate the kindness shown us by the American Red Cross and Salvation Army on the evening of the fire, in finding us shelter and food. We also wish to thank the employees of the Celanese Corp. of America for their generous contributions.
— MR. AND MRS. MILLARD F. HUTSON, AND FAMILY.

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, and neighbors who were so kind to us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Alfred P. Johnson. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.
MRS. ALFRED P. JOHNSON AND FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear son, William Frederick Kincaid, Sr., who was killed in Germany, April 17, 1945.
Gone But Not Forgotten

Deep in my heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame, I shall keep it
Because he was one of the best.
Oh, what I would give to clasp your hand,
Your dear, kind face to see,
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
In the Book of Life there are memories
Of the happy moments we've known.
You are gone, but the memory you left
Is truly a value untold.

Sadly missed by THE FAMILY.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking all those who assisted us in establishing a home after our recent disaster. We appreciate the kindness shown us by the American Red Cross and Salvation Army on the evening of the fire, in finding us shelter and food. We also wish to thank the employees of the Celanese Corp. of America for their generous contributions.
— MR. AND MRS. MILLARD F. HUTSON, AND FAMILY.

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, and neighbors who were so kind to us in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Alfred P. Johnson. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.
MRS. ALFRED P. JOHNSON AND FAMILY.

Red Men's Great Sun Council Fire Begins Tuesday

Parade Scheduled On First Night

The Improved Order of Red Men's Great Sun Council Fire for the Reservation of Maryland will be held here next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, W. Ewald Ruehl, great sachem, announced last night.

Between 400 and 500 delegates from throughout the state are expected to attend the joint state convention of the Red Men and the women's organization, the Degree of Pocahontas.

Features will be a parade and initiation of 175 new members Tuesday night and the election of officers Thursday morning. William A. Harris, Jr., Snow Hill, is slated to succeed Ruehl as great sachem of the state.

Approximately 25 units, including three bands and four drum and bugle corps will take part in the parade which follows registration Tuesday afternoon.

Millersburg Tribe To March

Included in the line of march will be the Red Men's Tribe from Millersburg, Pa., which has won recognition of the Great Council of the United States for its drill team and costumes.

Bands will represent Tonkaway Tribe No. 131, Cumberland; Fort Hill High School and Oakland. Drum corps will represent Sons of the American Legion of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13; Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg; Kelly-Mansfield Post, American Legion, Piedmont, W. Va., and Fulton Myers Post, American Legion, Cumberland. Thomas F. Conlon will be parade marshall.

The class adoption of palefaces will be held at the state armory following the parade, and Ruehl said the candidates will compose the first centennial class in Maryland in honor of Great Incohonee W. L. Bentley, Jr., Norfolk, Va. The Great Council of the United States is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year and centennial classes are being initiated in recognition of that achievement.

At 1 p. m. Wednesday a joint memorial service will be held by the Red Men and the Degree of Pocahontas for members of the two organizations who died in the past year.

Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Thomas S. Post and by Ruehl.

The memorial service will be held in the Eagles ballroom, where all Red Men meetings are scheduled. Degree of Pocahontas sessions will be held in the ballroom of Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Business Meeting Slated

Following the memorial service, a business meeting and nomination of state chiefs is slated. Ruehl, W. I. Hanna, Baltimore, great chief of records, and Allan L. Hill, Westernport, great keeper of wampum, will make addresses. Ruehl said both Hanna and Hill probably will be re-elected.

Election of officers takes place Thursday morning and in the afternoon new officers will be installed by Leslie W. Brown, Harrisburg, Pa., supreme district deputy great incohonee.

Selection of the next location for the Great Sun Council Fire will take place prior to adjournment Thursday.

Ruehl said Herbert F. Stetser, great chief of records of the Great Council of the United States, visited him Saturday to express regrets that he will be unable to attend the great council sessions here, and also to formulate plans for initiation of other centennial classes throughout Maryland.

The last great sun council fire was held here in 1944.

Printers To Hold Conference Here

Plans are nearing completion for the 61st semi-annual session of the Tri-State Typographical Conference, to be held in Cumberland Saturday and Sunday for the first time since 1937, according to officials of Cumberland Local No. 244.

At least 200 delegates and visitors from 33 typographical unions in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are expected to attend the meeting, which will be held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, according to Burland E. DeBolt, general chairman of the committee in charge.

John A. Feigel, Pittsburgh, president of the conference, will preside at the Sunday business session and will deliver the response to Mayor Thomas S. Post's address of welcome.

Rev. Arthur L. Hunter, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will give the invocation and James P. Biller, president of Cumberland Typographical Union, Local No. 244, will welcome the delegates.

The Smith triplets, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Smith, 417 Holland Street, will entertain with accordion music, while Art Brill will play the piano during the dinner Saturday at 6:45 p. m. at the Queen City Hotel.

Committee appointments will be made at a short business session preceding the dinner, with the main meeting scheduled Sunday. Cumberland Auxiliary No. 52, WIA, will entertain the ladies on a sightseeing tour and luncheon Sunday.

A dance will be held Saturday night at 9 o'clock at the Queen City with the Society Ramblers orchestra furnishing the music.

Local Bakery Worker Suffers Facial Cuts

John Eschenbacker, 39, 250 Columbia Street, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday at noon for lacerations above the left eye. The Ort bakery worker said he was operating a lift truck when a handle flew back and struck his face, breaking his glasses.

Treated in Memorial yesterday afternoon were Hazel Wilson, 41, Oldtown, for lacerations after a glass jar broke in her hands, and Elizabeth Arnold, 18, Cresaptown, a Cumberland Undergarment Company worker, after a needle ran into her left index finger.

John O'Rourke Heads Holy Name Society

John O'Rourke was elected president of the Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's church at a meeting held in the Church parish house last night. Other officers elected, who will serve with Mr. O'Rourke for the ensuing year are:

Herman Grabenstein, vice-president; John Harbaugh, secretary, and Ray Ansbaugh, treasurer. Father Lawrence Kilkenny, who recently assumed his duties as pastor at St. Patricks, presided and spoke to the crowd of 50 to 60 men, who attended the organization meeting.

Regular meetings will be held the second Wednesday of each month at which time programs will be presented.

Allegany County Liquor Bill Is Signed By Lane

Measure Becomes Effective At Once

The county law is a part of the new state code and replaces the local act declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals.

The new act provides for Allegany County's alcoholic beverage law to be administered by a three-man liquor control board composed of former Judge Walter C. Capper as chairman and Henry Sweene, Mt. Savage, and Fred Crowe, Frostburg, as the other two members.

This was one of more than 200 bills signed by Gov. Lane yesterday and 15 other bills plus three resolutions pertaining to Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Fast Time Big Problem To Many In City, County

Survey Being Made Of B & O Employes

To be or not to be, seems to be the question on Daylight Saving Time in Cumberland and the county.

The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland has passed an order to adopt fast time for the city April 27, but the Board of Allegany County Commissioners refrained from taking similar action this week, on the advise of their attorney, Lewis M. Wilson.

Consequently there has been much discussion about the problem created and some confusion is anticipated in numerous quarters.

H. F. Wyatt, division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said last night that "the situation isn't as bad as it seems, and its mental with some people. The railroad has had the problem of two time systems on several occasions, but it always works out after the first day or two."

Wyatt said his office will go on fast time, to keep in step with Baltimore. Hovever, department heads, such as shop superintendents, etc., have been asked to conduct a survey among their employes here and Wyatt said, "we will do whatever the majority of men want."

Trains On Standard Time

He further explained that the B. & O. had worked up schedules to operate trains on fast time on the presumption that Washington would adopt Daylight Saving, but since it has not done so, new schedules based upon Eastern Standard Time have been printed and will be issued April 27. Trains will remain on Standard Time, he explained.

Another question mark loomed in the picture, as many wondered what other towns in the county will do. Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport and other incorporated communities may follow the example of the City of Cumberland, and if so, this will take care of most of the county.

Wilson, the Board's attorney, said yesterday the county commissioners have authority to pass a resolution suggesting fast time, and this may be an answer, as it is presumed most people in the county would comply with such a resolution.

The Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America plans to remain on standard time regardless of county and city action, although some staff departments might go on daylight time.

At the plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company the situation is entirely different. It was indicated the Kelly plant will adopt whatever time Cumberland follows.

Bus Complications

Henry W. Price, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said local buses will operate on Cumberland time although some changes may be made to conform with needs of the Celanese or outlying communities which local buses serve.

Adolf Blunk, president of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, said no decision has been reached. He pointed out that the company's buses haul workers to both the Celanese and Kelly plants in addition to serving other communities and that a different time basis offers a considerable problem.

The local office of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company said that line plans to remain on standard time although its line runs into a number of communties which plan to use daylight time.

The division office of the Western Maryland Railway reported no decision has been made, but it was recently announced in Hagerstown the railroad would be on standard time throughout the entire system.

Schools Offer Problem

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said that his office has reached no decision but he explained it is likely that "schools of the county will all start at the same time regardless of where the hour hand happens to be on clocks." He said that he believes this will be necessary due to bus schedules which haul thousands of children to schools.

Advocates of daylight time pointed out that many other communities have faced the confusion problem in past years and continue to adopt fast time year after year. Despite opposition last year, Hagerstown went on daylight time and took the same action again a few weeks ago.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, was asked what the time schedule would be at the Court House which is county property but which is located in Cumberland. He expressed the view the Court House would probably be on standard time, although he favors county-wide daylight time.

Shrine Potentate To Visit Ali Ghan Temple May 13

George H. Rowe To Be Honored Here

George H. Rowe, Buffalo, N. Y., imperial potentate of the Shrine, will make his official visit to Ali Ghan Temple on Tuesday, May 13, Leslie K. Spielman, potentate, announced last night.

Rowe, a New York State Supreme Court justice, will be the first imperial potentate to visit Ali Ghan Temple since Morley E. McKenzie, of Canada, visited here in 1944.

The invitation to visit the local temple was extended to Rowe last July at the Imperial Council sessions in San Francisco, and again was discussed during a recent trip in which Shriners accompanied the imperial potentate on a visit to Mexico, Spielman said.

Will Arrive Monday

According to Spielman, Rowe will come here on one of 30 visits to Shrine temples in his tour of eastern and southern states.

He is expected to visit Almas Temple in Washington, Friday, May 9, and Acca Temple in Richmond, Va., on Saturday, May 10, returning to Washington Sunday and arriving in Cumberland on Monday.

On his arrival in this city, Rowe, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Rowe and their daughter, Gloria, will be met by the official divan of Ali Ghan Temple. An official ladies' party, composed of wives of members of the divan, will meet Mrs. Rowe and Miss Rowe.

The divan will escort Rowe to Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club for an informal roundtable discussion, and if time permits he will be taken on a tour of Western Maryland. Informal entertainment is scheduled for Monday night.

Dinner, Dance Planned

In making his official visit to the local temple on Tuesday, Rowe will be honored at a dinner and reception at 6 p. m. at Ali Ghan Country Club. A floor show and dance will follow.

A trip to the Celanese plant, and possibly the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, is planned Tuesday prior to the dinner.

Reservations for the dinner will be limited to 300 with attendance at the reception and dance expected to reach 500.

Describing Rowe and his family as "excellent people," Speilman said they will leave Cumberland for Pittsburgh where he will make his official visit to Syria Temple.

Harold C. Wickard, this city, is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Two other Shrine events are scheduled prior to Rowe's visit here. The first is the Imperial Council session to be held in Atlantic City May 26, 27, 28 and 29, and the second is the annual spring ceremonial of Ali Ghan Temple to be held in Hagerstown on May 5.

Reservations already have been made for 250 Shriners from Ali Ghan Temple who expect to attend the Imperial Council session. Participating will be the band, patrol, drum corps, flag unit and chanters.

Meet Friday Night

A meeting to make arrangements for attending the session will be held at Ali Ghan Country Club at 8 p. m. Friday.

Seventy-five candidates are expected to be initiated at the Hagerstown ceremonial, Speilman said. A temple meeting will be held at 4 p. m. followed by a banquet at 5:30 and the parade. In the parade will be the band, patrol, drum and bugle corps, flag unit and chanters.

The ceremonial will be held in Hagerstown's Academy Theater at 8 p. m. followed by a floor show there and luncheon at the Masonic Temple.

New Tax Collectors Ready For Business

The new tax collector and his assistants moved into the tax office at the Court House yesterday, and began making plans for setting up records to collect taxes for the next four years. To make room for them, the out-going collector and his assistants moved into the office of Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, to clean up past due taxes.

The new collector, William A. Strother, and his asssitant George E. Davis and clerk Ernest B. Treat, conferred with Charles F. Burke, Jr., city collector, who gave them some help and assistance in getting under way.

Lucian C. Radcliffe, out-going collector and his assistant Alban C. Thompson moved into Clerk Jackson's office, taking their records with them. They have only a few thousand dollars in outstanding taxes to collect and expect to clean them up shortly, Radcliffe said.

Zone Board Will Ask City Council For Money Grant

Petition Will Be Presented Monday

At the suggestion of Charles Paul Roeder, the three-man Board of Zoning Appeals last night decided to present a petition to the Mayor and Council at the council meeting next Monday, asking that board members be granted "reasonable expense money" for investigating property involved in zoning cases and for holding hearings.

Roeder and the other two members, William M. Weatherholt, chairman, and Joseph R. Mantheiy, estimated that they had spent nearly 10 hours visiting properties involved in the record agenda of 11 cases brought before the board last night.

They pointed out that investigations involve considerable expenditure of time and effort, adding that there is nothing in the zoning ordinance which states that board members must work on a voluntary basis, as has been the case.

It was decided to ask for payment of $5 to each board member per case handled, since that is the regular fee charged by real estate agents in inspecting properties.

Two Persons Testify

Of the 11 cases on the board's agenda, 10 were approved during the 40-minute hearing, with only two persons asked to testify. The 11th case, that of John G. Meleri, who appealed for a permit to occupy Lot 2, Wempe Drive, M. J. Malone Addition, as a residence with a six-foot yard on each side of the house, was held over until the next meeting on April 30, because Meleri was not present when the case was called.

One of those called to testify was Melvin C. Cline, 49 Humbird Street, who sought an occupancy permit to use a proposed two-story concrete block structure at 1211 Ella Avenue, in the rear yard of 47-49 Humbird Street as a three-car garage and sporting goods store.

The appeal was granted after Cline testified that he wished to replace a larger garage which had previously been torn down on the same lot.

The other witness asked to testify was Howard M. Spiker, in the appeal of the General Outdoor Advertising Company to use a lot at 306 Williams Street for building a two-car garage to house trucks used in servicing billboards. Spiker represented Mrs. Annie W. Craddock, 603 Louisiana Avenue, owner of the lot.

Weatherholt pointed out that trucks entering and leaving the garage might create a traffic hazard, but Spiker said there is no obstruction at the site to block a clear view in both directions. He said the trucks would leave in the morning and return in the late afternoon, with no trips in between.

Other Cases Approved

No opposition was voiced to any of the cases heard last night. Besides the Cline and advertising company appeals, others approved were as follows:

W. B. Harshberger, representing the Sun Heating Company, 28 North Liberty Street, to use the first story of a two-story brick building at 431-433 North Mechanic Street as a retail store and showroom for plumbing and heating supplies and equipment.

Mrs. P. J. Ott, Jr., to use the basement of a two-story frame structure at 313 Independence Street as a confectionery store.

Brode Brothers, 110 Henry Street, to use a one-story building at the rear of 623 Columbia Avenue for an upholstery business.

J. J. Grabenstein, 401 Columbia Street, to use basement of two-story concrete block and brick building at 233 Henderson Avenue as an office and display room for an insulated siding and roofing business.

George S. Froelich, 315 Frederick Street, to use a proposed two-story concrete block structure at 317 Frederick Street as a three-car garage with three two-room apartments on the second floor.

James W. Wright, 110 South Street, to use a building to be enlarged by a three-room addition, at the rear of his home, as a residence.

Willard Jesse Moore, to use premises at 248 North Mechanic Street, formerly occupied as a parking lot for buses of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company, as a used car lot and office.

Earl J. Kaiser, 318 Broadway, to use as a residence a building to be known as 525 Woodside Avenue, at the rear of 318 Broadway. Permission was granted to construct the house along the street line because of topographical conditions at the site.

Culbertson To Address Cumberland Club On Russo-American Relations

Ely Culbertson, son of a Russian Cossack general, will address the Cumberland National Dinner Club at the first meeting of the cultural and social organization at the Shrine Club, April 29 at 6:30 p. m.

Culbertson will speak on Russo-American relations and guardianship of the atomic projectile when he appears under the auspices of the Cumberland Club for a complete discussion of the celebrated author's plan for Total Peace, atomic control and control of the world's heavy armaments.

Born in Roumania of an American mining engineer and the daughter of a Cossack general, Culbertson was jailed during the Red revolution, fled to America and finished Yale to embark upon an astonishing career which brought him to the pinnacle of celebrity as inventor of the "Culbertson system."

The scientific mind which revolutionized bridge turned to world problems before World War II with the result that Total Peace and the Quota Force Plan were by-words during the San Francisco Conference of International Organization.

Culbertson today enjoys the extraordinary vantage of severe non-partisanship. No Communist, he is a fearless critic of Soviet policy since August, 1939. No reactionary, he has vigorously assailed Anglo-American policy in Europe and Asia since the departure from principles of the Atlantic Charter and specific violations of the Yalta and Potsdam agreements.

Ely Culbertson

Members of the Cumberland Dinner Club will meet Culbertson, literally in the open forum period following his presentation at the dinner meeting April 29th. Further details on Culbertson's presentation may be secured from the secretary at the Central Y. M. C. A.

William E.Eisenberger.

Pans were outined for the immediate installation of an entire new heating plant in the church, and repairs to the church steeple. There was also discussion of a program to carpet the church sanctuary, and this task is to be assumed by the Women's Association, so far as financing is concerned.

Those elected last night included, Elders—Edgar T. Duke, Adolf Blunk, Victor D. Heisey, and Lloyd Rawlings. The last three were re-elected; Deacons—Graither L. Martin and Lester S. Teter re-elected and Clarence W. Athey and James D. Eisenberger, son of the pastor, newly elected.

Rev. Mr. Eisenberger said the ordination and installation of the Elders and Deacons will be held Sunday, April 27.

Grand Jury Will Resume Session This Morning

Deliberations May Continue All Week

When the Grand Jury was excused yesterday afternoon until this morning at 9:15 o'clock, by Chief Judge William A. Huster, there was no indication how much longer the body will deliberate.

Proceedings of the Grand Jury are of course secret, and none of them commented upon their problems, however another bunch of indictments was handed to Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, who passed them on to Chief Judge Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Indictments have been returned each of the three days the Grand Jury has been in session. A number of witnesses from Westernport and other parts of the county were ordered to return today as they were not called yesterday. Indications were the Grand Jury may not complete its investigations until tomorrow, if then.

The sheriff and his deputies have been working night and day serving warrants as a result of indictments and issuing summons for appearance before the Grand Jury.

Two divorce decrees were signed yesterday by Judge Huster. Absolute divorce was granted Virginia Smith Schmutz, Oldtown Road, from Paul E. Schmutz, and she was given the right to resume her maiden name, Virginia Smith. Josephine Robinson was granted a divorce from William T. Robinson, and awarded the custody of three minor children.

Two divorce actions were docketed. Violet E. Ternent seeks a divorce from James T. Ternent and Walter T. Leaf seeks a divorce from Florence J. Leaf.

Civil suit was filed by Geore Robertson, Jr., through his attorney Julius Schindler, against Harry V. Reeves, both of Westernport for $700, involving a furnace, valve, pressure tank and booster pump, allegedly a part of real estate purchased by Robertson from Reeves, September 19, 1946, for $14,100.

Recreation Committee Interviews Applicant

John J. Long, chairman of the Cumberland Recreation Board, said last night that there was "nothing to report" on a board committee's interview with Charles L. Taylor, Clarksburg, W. Va., one of six applicants for the position of recreation director here.

Others at the meeting in the Board of Education Building were Clifton Van Roby and Charles L. Kopp, board members, and Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Long said the committee will report back to the full board as each applicant is interviewed. No immediate arrangements have been made for further interviews because of the telephone strike, he added.

Phone Workers Get Pay Checks Here Today

Company Criticized For Outside Help

Striking telephone employes, away from their jobs for a week and a half, will receive their pay checks today for the last week they worked, Howard M. Smith, manager of the local office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, said last night.

He added that pay checks will be available on the first floor of the Cumberland office, 110 Union Street, from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Cumberland employes of all departments will be paid from this point.

Meanwhile, George Williams, Western Maryland strike captain, and Paul Bixler, strike lieutenant, returned from Oakland and criticized the telephone company for allegedly hiring outside help to operate the Oakland switchboard.

Williams said the wife of a supervisor has been employed to help out during the strike and criticized the company for such tactics "when they claim to be bargaining in good faith with the union."

Following his inspection trip of strike conditions at Oakland and other outlying offices of Western Maryland, Williams reported "their morale remains firm."

The Associated Press reported in the meantime that district managers of the telephone company at Westminster and Chestertown announced the return to work of all their employes.

Return of workers in these two communities was the first reported in the state since supervisory personnel took over operation of Maryland telephones April 7.

However, the Western Maryland front was holding firm and there was no indication of any move to return to work until the strike is ended.

Manager Smith reported that the local office, with its small staff of supervisory personnel, has managed to place more calls in the last few days than previously. He hastened to add, however, that staff workers are greatly indebted to the general public for its "fine spirit of cooperation."

300 Coal Miners May Get Benefits In Mine Closings

All County Miners Are Not Eligible

Approximately 300 coal mine employes made idle in Allegany County as a result of government orders to close down mines for safety reasons are eligible for unemployment compensation benefits, Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the state Unemployment Compensation Division, said yesterday.

Kenney said that under this ruling the benefits will be payable to the employes of Mine No. 3 and Mine No. 10 of the Consolidated Fuel Company, and of Waynesburg No. 5 of the Georges Creek Coal Company. To date about 200 miners have filed claims.

Benefits will be denied, however, Kenney said, to employes of all other mines closed by the safety shutdown.

He pointed out that the law provides the right of appeal by interested parties—operators of Consolidated and Georges Creek Company mines and mine employes, including miners, laborers and others, who have been ruled ineligible.

An appeal already has been filed on behalf of miners employed at mines other than Consolidated Mines 3 and 10 and Waynesburg No. 5, Kenney stated.

He pointed out that benefits are not payable to any employes idled by the memorial shutdown following the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster.

A similar ruling pertaining to eligibility for compensation benefits because of the safety shutdown was issued in West Virginia, Kenney said.

He also announced that a special examiner will be in Cumberland April 22 to conduct hearings on appeals filed by transportation department employes of the Potomac Edison Company who sought benefits during the recent bus strike.

Bus drivers and maintenance men made application for benefits but they were denied and the appeals followed. The examiner will hear appeals on questions pertaining to both state compensation benefits and benefits under the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance Act.

Harry Castle of Local 26, URCLPWA's legislative committee, and William Plummer, executive board member, will attend for the Rubber local. The last minute meeting was arranged by Frank J. Bender, regional CIO director.

Dr. Pullen Cites Obligations Of Education Board

Enumerates Recent Legislative Bills

A tremendous obligation has been placed on the State Board of Education by the efforts of the public and the legislature in securing means of acquiring a superior educational system in the state of Maryland, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, declared last night in addressing a meeting of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women at Frostburg State Teachers' College.

Beginning with the legislation passed in 1922, when the equalization fund of state education was put into operation, Dr. Pullen briefly reviewed constructive measures up to and including the present time. Enumerating the more recent bills passed, he first dealt with the bill providing a raise of salaries for teachers, which should, he said, solve, or help solve the teacher shortage problem and at the same time help to acquire superior teachers for schools in the state. This bill makes the minimum teacher's salary $2,200 per year, and the maximum salary, $3,800 per year.

Eliminate Overcrowding

Also recently passed, according to Dr. Pullen, was the bill providing that only 30 children occupy a school room. This will eliminate overcrowding of classrooms and will open the field for more teachers. However, it will be perhaps four or five years, he said, before this can be accomplished, because new buildings must be built first.

State aid for school buildings was also provided by recent legislature and this will give children in the poorer sections the same opportunities that those in the richer areas now have, the speaker said, and will leave no child in Maryland in an educationally inadequate building.

Among other provisions made by bills recently passed which the speaker discussed were doubling of the fund for education of the disabled; state aid for public libraries; securing of a supervisor of public personnel to help curb juvenile delinquency and establishment of junior colleges to make a college education available for more young people.

Commends AAUW

Speaking of groups who made these bills possible, Dr. Pullen commended the AAUW, the P-TA groups, the school board and the governor of Maryland. He also commented on the capable leadership of Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the state school board since 1925.

The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Lillian Compton, president of the college. A graduate of William and Maryland College and Columbia University, Dr. Pullen is a member of UNESCO; chairman of the Commission of International Educational Reconstruction, and chairman of the School Committee of the National Conference on Juvenile Delinquency.

Mrs. John Hafer presided at the brief business session and the program was sponsored by the educational committee of the association. Those on the committee include Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, chairman; Mrs. Eric Roeder, Miss Dorothy Shires, Mrs. Harry B. Simpson, Mrs. Otto C. Smith, Miss Ruby Ann Dahlgren and Mrs. Dorothy Howard.

Prior to the meeting piano selections were played by Sam Hunter, a student at Beall High School.

It was announced that the International Relations Study group of the association will meet Wednesday afternoon, April 20, at the home of Dr. Hilda Walters, Frostburg.

Three Are Injured In Auto Accident

A local woman was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night and her two daughters were treated in the same hospital for injuries suffered when the car in which they were riding was involved in a car-truck crash in the Bedford Valley, Pa., area near Koon Dam about 10 p. m.

Hospital attaches said the woman, Mrs. Cora Eaton, 56, 1411 Frederick Street, was suffering from a right leg injury. Her condition was good after a cast was applied.

Treated was her daughter, Miss Ethel Eaton, 17, same address, who said she was the driver of the vehicle. She suffered a laceration of the upper lip after she ran her teeth through her upper lip and brush burns on the arms and legs.

Her sister, Betty, 18, was treated for a scratch on the left ankle.

Mrs. Eaton's husband, Reuben W. Eaton, was also riding in the car, attaches were told, but was not hospitalized. A passing motorist, Kenneth Hite, Bedford, Pa., brought the injured people to the local hospital, attaches added. Details of the accident were not available.

Allegany County Liquor Bill Is Signed By Lane

Measure Becomes Effective At Once

Allegany County's new liquor act became law yesterday when Gov. William Preston Lane affixed his signature to a bill setting up a new alcoholic beverage code for the state.

An emergency measure, the bill became effective with the Governor's signature.

The county law is a part of the new state code and replaces the local act declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals.

The new act provides for Allegany County's alcoholic beverage law to be administered by a three-man liquor control board composed of former Judge Walter C. Capper as chairman and Henry Sweene, Mt. Savage, and Fred Crowe, Frostburg, as the other two members.

This was one of more than 200 bills signed by Gov. Lane yesterday and 15 other bills plus three resolutions pertaining to Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Fast Time Big Problem To Many In City, County

Survey Being Made Of B & O Employes

To be or not to be, seems to be the question on Daylight Saving Time in Cumberland and the county.

The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland has passed an order to adopt fast time for the city April 27, but the Board of Allegany County Commissioners refrained from taking similar action this week, on the advise of their attorney, Lewis M. Wilson.

Consequently there has been much discussion about the problem created and some confusion is anticipated in numerous quarters.

H. F. Wyatt, division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said last night that "the situation isn't as bad as it seems, and its mental with some people. The railroad has had the problem of two time systems on several occasions, but it always works out after the first day or two."

Wyatt said his office will go on fast time, to keep in step with Baltimore. However, department heads, such as shop superintendents, etc., have been asked to conduct a survey among their employes here and Wyatt said, "we will do whatever the majority of men want."

Trains On Standard Time

He further explained that the B. & O. had worked up schedules to operate trains on fast time on the presumption that Washington would adopt Daylight Saving, but since it has not done so, new schedules based upon Eastern Standard Time have been printed and will be issued April 27. Trains will remain on Standard Time, he explained.

Another question mark loomed in the picture, as many wondered what other towns in the county will do. Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport and other incorporated communities may follow the example of the City of Cumberland, and if so, this will take care of most of the county.

Wilson, the Board's attorney, said yesterday the county commissioners have authority to pass a resolution suggesting fast time, and this may be an answer, as it is presumed most people in the county would comply with such a resolution.

The Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America plans to remain on standard time regardless of county and city action, although some staff departments might go on daylight time.

At the plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company the situation is entirely different. It was indicated the Kelly plant will adopt whatever time Cumberland follows.

Bus Complications

Henry W. Price, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said local buses will operate on Cumberland time although some changes may be made to conform with needs of the Celanese or outlying communities which local buses serve.

Adolf Blunk, president of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, said no decision has been reached. He pointed out that the company's buses haul workers to both the Celanese and Kelly plants in addition to serving other communities and that a different time basis offers a considerable problem.

The local office of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company said that line plans to remain on standard time although its line runs into a number of communties which plan to use daylight time.

The division office of the Western Maryland Railway reported no decision has been made, but it was recently announced in Hagerstown the railroad would be on standard time throughout the entire system.

Schools Offer Problem

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said that his office has reached no decision but he explained it is likely that "schools of the county will all start at the same time regardless of where the hour hand happens to be on clocks." He said that he believes this will be necessary due to bus schedules which haul thousands of children to schools.

Advocates of daylight time pointed out that many other communities have faced the confusion problem in past years and continue to adopt fast time year after year. Despite opposition last year, Hagerstown went on daylight time and took the same action again a few weeks ago.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, was asked what the time schedule would be at the Court House which is county property but which is located in Cumberland. He expressed the view the Court House would probably be on standard time, although he favors county-wide daylight time.

Shrine Potentate To Visit Ali Ghan Temple May 13

George H. Rowe To Be Honored Here

George H. Rowe, Buffalo, N. Y., imperial potentate of the Shrine, will make his official visit to Ali Ghan Temple on Tuesday, May 13, Leslie K. Spielman, potentate, announced last night.

Rowe, a New York State Supreme Court justice, will be the first imperial potentate to visit Ali Ghan Temple since Morley E. McKenzie, of Canada, visited here in 1944.

The invitation to visit the local temple was extended to Rowe last July at the Imperial Council sessions in San Francisco, and again was discussed during a recent trip in which Shriners accompanied the imperial potentate on a visit to Mexico, Spielman said.

Will Arrive Monday

According to Spielman, Rowe will come here on one of 30 visits to Shrine temples in his tour of eastern and southern states.

He is expected to visit Almas Temple in Washington, Friday, May 9, and Acca Temple in Richmond, Va., on Saturday, May 10, returning to Washington Sunday and arriving in Cumberland on Monday.

On his arrival in this city, Rowe, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Rowe and their daughter, Gloria, will be met by the official divan of Ali Ghan Temple. An official ladies' party, composed of wives of members of the divan, will meet Mrs. Rowe and Miss Rowe.

The divan will escort Rowe to Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club for an informal roundtable discussion, and if time permits he will be taken on a tour of Western Maryland. Informal entertainment is scheduled for Monday night.

Dinner, Dance Planned

In making his official visit to the local temple on Tuesday, Rowe will be honored at a dinner and reception at 6 p. m. at Ali Ghan Country Club. A floor show and dance will follow.

A trip to the Celanese plant, and possibly the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, is planned Tuesday prior to the dinner.

Reservations for the dinner will be limited to 300 with attendance at the reception and dance expected to reach 500.

Describing Rowe and his family as "excellent people," Speilman said they will leave Cumberland for Pittsburgh where he will make his official visit to Syria Temple.

Harold C. Wickard, this city, is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Two other Shrine events are scheduled prior to Rowe's visit here. The first is the Imperial Council session to be held in Atlantic City May 26, 27, 28 and 29, and the second is the annual spring ceremonial of Ali Ghan Temple to be held in Hagerstown on May 5.

Reservations already have been made for 250 Shriners from Ali Ghan Temple who expect to attend the Imperial Council session. Participating will be the band, patrol, drum corps, flag unit and chanters.

Meet Friday Night

A meeting to make arrangements for attending the session will be held at Ali Ghan Country Club at 8 p. m. Friday.

Seventy-five candidates are expected to be initiated at the Hagerstown ceremonial, Speilman said. A temple meeting will be held at 4 p. m. followed by a banquet at 5:30 and the parade. In the parade will be the band, patrol, drum and bugle corps, flag unit and chanters.

The ceremonial will be held in Hagerstown's Academy Theater at 8 p. m. followed by a floor show there and luncheon at the Masonic Temple.

New Tax Collectors Ready For Business

The new tax collector and his assistants moved into the tax office at the Court House yesterday, and began making plans for setting up records to collect taxes for the next four years. To make room for them, the out-going collector and his assistants moved into the office of Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, to clean up past due taxes.

The new collector, William A. Strother, and his asssitant George E. Davis and clerk Ernest B. Treat, conferred with Charles F. Burke, Jr., city collector, who gave them some help and assistance in getting under way.

Lucian C. Radcliffe, out-going collector and his assistant Alban C. Thompson moved into Clerk Jackson's office, taking their records with them. They have only a few thousand dollars in outstanding taxes to collect and expect to clean them up shortly, Radcliffe said.

Zone Board Will Ask City Council For Money Grant

Petition Will Be Presented Monday

At the suggestion of Charles Paul Roeder, the three-man Board of Zoning Appeals last night decided to present a petition to the Mayor and Council at the council meeting next Monday, asking that board members be granted "reasonable expense money" for investigating property involved in zoning cases and for holding hearings.

Roeder and the other two members, William M. Weatherholt, chairman, and Joseph R. Mantheiy, estimated that they had spent nearly 10 hours visiting properties involved in the record agenda of 11 cases brought before the board last night.

They pointed out that investigations involve considerable expenditure of time and effort, adding that there is nothing in the zoning ordinance which states that board members must work on a voluntary basis, as has been the case.

It was decided to ask for payment of $5 to each board member per case handled, since that is the regular fee charged by real estate agents in inspecting properties.

Two Persons Testify

Of the 11 cases on the board's agenda, 10 were approved during the 40-minute hearing, with only two persons asked to testify. The 11th case, that of John G. Meleri, who appealed for a permit to occupy Lot 2, Wempe Drive, M. J. Malone Addition, as a residence with a six-foot yard on each side of the house, was held over until the next meeting on April 30, because Meleri was not present when the case was called.

One of those called to testify was Melvin C. Cline, 49 Humbird Street, who sought an occupancy permit to use a proposed two-story concrete block structure at 1211 Ella Avenue in the rear yard of 47-49 Humbird Street as a three-car garage and sporting goods store.

The appeal was granted after Cline testified that he wished to replace a larger garage which had previously been torn down on the same lot.

The other witness asked to testify was Howard M. Spiker, in the appeal of the General Outdoor Advertising Company to use a lot at 306 Williams Street for building a two-car garage to house trucks used in servicing billboards. Spiker represented Mrs. Annie W. Craddock, 603 Louisiana Avenue, owner of the lot.

Weatherholt pointed out that trucks entering and leaving the garage might create a traffic hazard, but Spiker said there is no obstruction at the site to block a clear view in both directions. He said the trucks would leave in the morning and return in the late afternoon, with no trips in between.

Other Cases Approved

No opposition was voiced to any of the cases heard last night. Besides the Cline and advertising company appeals, others approved were as follows:

W. B. Harshberger, representing the Sun Heating Company, 28 North Liberty Street, to use the first story of a two-story brick building at 431-433 North Mechanic Street as a retail store and showroom for plumbing and heating supplies and equipment.

Mrs. P. J. Ott, Jr., to use the basement of a two-story frame structure at 313 Independence Street as a confectionery store.

Brode Brothers, 110 Henry Street, to use a one-story building at the rear of 623 Columbia Avenue for an upholstery business.

J. J. Grabenstein, 401 Columbia Street, to use basement of two-story concrete block and brick building at 233 Henderson Avenue as an office and display room for an insulated siding and roofing business.

George S. Froelich, 315 Frederick Street, to use a proposed two-story concrete block structure at 317 Frederick Street as a three-car garage with three two-room apartments on the second floor.

James W. Wright, 110 South Street, to use a building to be enlarged by a three-room addition, at the rear of his home, as a residence.

Willard Jesse Moore, to use premises at 248 North Mechanic Street, formerly occupied as a parking lot for buses of the Blue Ridge Transportation Company, as a used car lot and office.

Earl J. Kaiser, 318 Broadway, to use as a residence a building to be known as 525 Woodside Avenue, at the rear of 318 Broadway. Permission was granted to construct the house along the street line because of topographical conditions at the site.

Culbertson will speak on Russo-American relations and guardianship of the atomic projectile when he appears under the auspices of the Cumberland Club for a complete discussion of the celebrated author's plan for Total Peace, atomic control and control of the world's heavy armaments.

Born in Roumania of an American mining engineer and the daughter of a Cossack general, Culbertson was jailed during the Red revolution, fled to America and finished Yale to embark upon an astonishing career which brought him to the pinnacle of celebrity as inventor of the "Culbertson system."

The scientific mind which revolutionized bridge turned to world problems before World War II with the result that Total Peace and the Quota Force Plan were by-words during the San Francisco Conference or International Organization.

William E.Eisenberger.

Pans were outined for the immediate installation of an entire new heating plant in the church, and repairs to the church steeple. There was also discussion of a program to carpet the church sanctuary, and this task is to be assumed by the Women's Association, so far as financing is concerned.

Grand Jury Will Resume Session This Morning

Deliberations May Continue All Week

When the Grand Jury was excused yesterday afternoon until this morning at 9:15 o'clock, by Chief Judge William A. Huster, there was no indication how much longer the body will deliberate.

Proceedings of the Grand Jury are of course secret, and none of them commented upon their problems, however another bunch of indictments was handed to Clerk of Court Robert Jackson, who passed them on to Chief Judge Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Indictments have been returned each of the three days the Grand Jury has been in session. A number of witnesses from Westernport and other parts of the county were ordered to return today as they were not called yesterday. Indications were the Grand Jury may not complete its investigations until tomorrow, if then.

The sheriff and his deputies have been working night and day serving warrants as a result of indictments and issuing summons for appearance before the Grand Jury.

Two divorce decrees were signed yesterday by Judge Huster. Absolute divorce was granted Virginia Smith Schmutz, Oldtown Road, from Paul E. Schmutz, and she was given the right to resume her maiden name, Virginia Smith. Josephine Robinson was granted a divorce from William T. Robinson, and awarded the custody of three minor children.

Two divorce actions were docketed. Violet E. Ternent seeks a divorce from James T. Ternent and Walter T. Leaf seeks a divorce from Florence J. Leaf.

Civil suit was filed by Geore Robertson, Jr., through his attorney Julius Schindler, against Harry V. Reeves, both of Westernport for $700, involving a furnace, valve, pressure tank and booster pump, allegedly a part of real estate purchased by Robertson from Reeves, September 19, 1946, for $14,100.

Recreation Committee Interviews Applicant

John J. Long, chairman of the Cumberland Recreation Board, said last night that there was "nothing to report" on a board committee's interview with Charles L. Taylor, Clarksburg, W. Va., one of six applicants for the position of recreation director here.

Others at the meeting in the Board of Education Building were Clifton Van Roby and Charles L. Kopp, board members, and Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Long said the committee will report back to the full board as each applicant is interviewed. No immediate arrangements have been made for further interviews because of the telephone strike, he added.

Phone Workers Get Pay Checks Here Today

Company Criticized For Outside Help

Striking telephone employes, away from their jobs for a week and a half, will receive their pay checks today for the last week they worked, Howard M. Smith, manager of the local office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, said last night.

He added that pay checks will be available on the first floor of the Cumberland office, 110 Union Street, from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Cumberland employes of all departments will be paid from this point.

Meanwhile, George Williams, Western Maryland strike captain, and Paul Bixler, strike lieutenant, returned from Oakland and criticized the telephone company for allegedly hiring outside help to operate the Oakland switchboard.

Williams said the wife of a supervisor has been employed to help out during the strike and criticized the company for such tactics "when they claim to be bargaining in good faith with the union."

Following his inspection trip of strike conditions at Oakland and other outlying offices of Western Maryland, Williams reported "their morale remains firm."

The Associated Press reported in the meantime that district managers of the telephone company at Westminster and Chestertown announced the return to work of all their employes.

Return of workers in these two communities was the first reported in the state since supervisory personnel took over operation of Maryland telephones April 7.

However, the Western Maryland front was holding firm and there was no indication of any move to return to work until the strike is ended.

Manager Smith reported that the local office, with its small staff of supervisory personnel, has managed to place more calls in the last few days than previously. He hastened to add, however, that staff workers are greatly indebted to the general public for its "fine spirit of cooperation."

300 Coal Miners May Get Benefits In Mine Closings

All County Miners Are Not Eligible

Approximately 300 coal mine employes made idle in Allegany County as a result of government orders to close down mines for safety reasons are eligible for unemployment compensation benefits, Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the state Unemployment Compensation Division, said yesterday.

Kenney said that under this ruling the benefits will be payable to the employes of Mine No. 3 and Mine No. 10 of the Consolidated Fuel Company, and of Waynesburg No. 5 of the Georges Creek Coal Company. To date about 200 miners have filed claims.

Benefits will be denied, however, Kenney said, to employes of all other mines closed by the safety shutdown.

He pointed out that the law provides the right of appeal by interested parties—operators of Consolidated and Georges Creek Company mines and mine employes, including miners, laborers and others, who have been ruled ineligible.

An appeal already has been filed on behalf of miners employed at mines other than Consolidated Mines 3 and 10 and Waynesburg No. 5, Kenney stated.

He pointed out that benefits are not payable to any employes idled by the memorial shutdown following the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster.

A similar ruling pertaining to eligibility for compensation benefits because of the safety shutdown was issued in West Virginia, Kenney said.

He also announced that a special examiner will be in Cumberland April 22 to conduct hearings on appeals filed by transportation department employes of the Potomac Edison Company who sought benefits during the recent bus strike.

Bus drivers and maintenance men made application for benefits but they were denied and the appeals followed. The examiner will hear appeals on questions pertaining to both state compensation benefits and benefits under the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance Act.

Bender, regional CIO director.

Dr. Pullen Cites Obligations Of Education Board

Enumerates Recent Legislative Bills

A tremendous obligation has been placed on the State Board of Education by the efforts of the public and the legislature in securing means of acquiring a superior educational system in the state of Maryland, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, declared last night in addressing a meeting of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women at Frostburg State Teachers' College.

Beginning with the legislation passed in 1922, when the equalization fund of state education was put into operation, Dr. Pullen briefly reviewed constructive measures up to and including the present time. Enumerating the more recent bills passed, he first dealt with the bill providing a raise of salaries for teachers, which should, he said, solve, or help solve the teacher shortage problem and at the same time help to acquire superior teachers for schools in the state. This bill makes the minimum teacher's salary $2,200 per year, and the maximum salary, $3,800 per year.

Eliminate Overcrowding

Also recently passed, according to Dr. Pullen, was the bill providing that only 30 children occupy a school room. This will eliminate overcrowding of classrooms and will open the field for more teachers. However, it will be perhaps four or five years, he said, before this can be accomplished, because new buildings must be built first.

State aid for school buildings was also provided by recent legislature and this will give children in the poorer sections the same opportunities that those in the richer areas now have, the speaker said, and will leave no child in Maryland in an educationally inadequate building.

Among other provisions made by bills recently passed which the speaker discussed were doubling of the fund for education of the disabled; state aid for public libraries; securing of a supervisor of public personnel to help curb juvenile delinquency and establishment of junior colleges to make a college education available for more young people.

Commends AAUW

Speaking of groups who made these bills possible, Dr. Pullen commended the AAUW, the P-TA groups, the school board and the governor of Maryland. He also commented on the capable leadership of Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the state school board since 1925.

The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Lillian Compton, president of the college. A graduate of William and Maryland College and Columbia University, Dr. Pullen is a member of UNESCO; chairman of the Commission of International Educational Reconstruction, and chairman of the School Committee of the National Conference on Juvenile Delinquency.

Mrs. John Hafer presided at the brief business session and the program was sponsored by the educational committee of the association. Those on the committee include Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, chairman; Mrs. Eric Roeder, Miss Dorothy Shires, Mrs. Harry B. Simpson, Mrs. Otto C. Smith, Miss Ruby Ann Dahlgren and Mrs. Dorothy Howard.

Prior to the meeting piano selections were played by Sam Hunter, a student at Beall High School.

It was announced that the International Relations Study group of the association will meet Wednesday afternoon, April 20, at the home of Dr. Hilda Walters, Frostburg.

Three Are Injured In Auto Accident

A local woman was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night and her two daughters were treated in the same hospital for injuries suffered when the car in which they were riding was involved in a car-truck crash in the Bedford Valley, Pa., area near Koon Dam about 10 p. m.

Hospital attaches said the woman, Mrs. Cora Eaton, 56, 1411 Frederick Street, was suffering from a right leg injury. Her condition was good after a cast was applied.

Treated was her daughter, Miss Ethel Eaton, 17, same address, who said she was the driver of the vehicle. She suffered a laceration of the upper lip after she ran her teeth through her upper lip and brush burns on the arms and legs.
